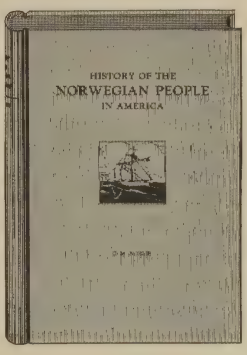
Second edition 80 pages. Cloth, 50 cents.

A MOTHER'S FAREWELL LETTERS

By Betty Jarnefelt Rauanheimo. A wonderful book of mother love, of an intelligent woman's intimate talk to her young daughter, of a dying Christian mother's thoughts about what makes life worth living. The first "letter" is written to the fourteen year old daughter, but anticipating the coming years, the mother in her next letter has a vision of the girl at fifteen and so on up thru the years. 96 pages. Cloth, $1.00.

HISTORY OF THE NORWEGIAN PEOPLE IN AMERICA—1825-1925

By Dr. O. M. Norlie. A mine of information, from which future historians of America will produce many nuggets of historic facts. The various chapters in this book, with their subdivisions give full information about immigration, population, settlements, churches, schools, publications, missions, charities, associations and societies, sports, music, art, inventions, industries, public service, pioneer life, home life, and many other topics, with constant reference to the historical background, with maps, tables, graphs, pictures of people, institutions, and other illustrations. New revised and enlarged edition, 601 pages. $2.50.



BAPTISM—INFANT BAPTISM

By Dr. O. Hallesby. Translated from the Norwegian. 62 pages. Cloth, 70 cents. Paper 30 cents. There are perhaps few features of the Christian faith which in our day cause so much controversy as Baptism, and Dr. Hallesby's excellent book, therefore, will be more than welcomed by all Lutherans.

CHURCH DESIGNS

With notes and suggestions by Oluf Glasoe. Plans and illustrations by M. E. Mohn and T. Alvsaker, church architects. Size 9x12½. 112 pages. Cloth, $3.00. The introductory chapter on "Church Building and the Art of Architecture" deals with the different types of church buildings and particularly what a Lutheran church edifice should typify. Short essays on "Clerical Vestments," "Paraments" and "The Individual Communion Cup" are also included in the book.

CHRIST BEFORE PILATE

An American Story by Waldemar Ager. The leading character in Mr. Ager's book is Rev. Welde, an idealist and dreamer, who gradually, as the story progresses, realizes the untenable position he holds in a congregation and society, in which selfishness and cowardice have the upper hand. It is a copy of Muncaszy's famous painting, "Christ Before Pilate," which hangs in his study, that keeps incessantly the question alive in him: "Am I for Christ or am I like Pilate, washing my hands?" "Christ Before Pilate" is not only Mr. Ager's greatest book, it is a novel of contemporary American life which ranks with the best. 277 pages. Cloth, $1.50.

The aim of this book is to present to the housewife a simple study of the nutritive values and uses of foods consumed in the average household, and also different methods of preparing them in order to retain their maximum amount of nourishment. Paper, 65 cents. Cloth, $1.10.

THE GRADED SYSTEM FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS

From Primary Department to Young People's Bible Classes.

The system is based on Luther's Catechism, the Explanation, and Vogt's Bible History.

There is UNITY in the system. In all the Catechism and Explanation classes the same topic is studied on a given Sunday.

In small Sunday schools the unity of lesson plan permits the grouping of two or more grades in one class, without burdening the teacher with several lessons.

There is harmony between the Bible history and the Catechism lesson. The Bible story selected, whether from the Old Testament or from the New Testament, illustrates the central thought in the Catechism lesson.

There is constant repetition, but always enough new material to make the lesson interesting and more instructive.

The books used in our system make the teaching both simple and interesting for even the youngest and most inexperienced teacher.

Write for full particulars about books and picture materials used in the Graded System.

STUDIES IN SOCIOLOGY

SOURCE BOOK FOR SOCIAL ORIGINS — *$6.00

By William I. Thomas

We are indebted to our savage ancestors for practically all of society's universal customs and for her lesser rules of etiquette, both of which we frequently refer to as the results of civilization. Source Book for Social Origins traces the connection between the society of our very distant forefathers and our own, and shows that many of what we call our customs have been bequeathed to us by them.

The author has grouped the materials used in seven parts: Part I, The Relation of Society to Geographic and Economic Environment; Part II, Mental Life and Education; Part III, Invention and Technology; Part IV, Sex and Marriage; Part V, Art, Ornament and Decoration; Part VI, Magic, Religion, Myth; Part VII, Social Organization, Morals, The State. The work is completed by general bibliographical suggestions.

THE HISTORICAL CHILD — $5.00

By Oscar Chrisman, Ph.D., Professor of Paidology and Psychology in Ohio University

The book is a study of child life as found among historical peoples, including the old nations of Egypt, India, China, Japan, Persia, Judea, Greece and Rome, ancient Mexico and Peru, medieval Europe, and earlier United States. The word child is used in a general sense and includes all ages up to full manhood.

G. Stanley Hall said: "The Historical Child is unique and monumental, and will always be a credit to American Scholarship."

"An imposing and interesting array of folkways of many ancient peoples."—The Survey.

THE MULATTO IN THE UNITED STATES — *$3.00

By Edward Byron Reuter of the Department of Sociology at the University of Illinois

This is a study which may well be taken into account by all students of the American race problem.

The World Outlook: "Mr. Reuter considers the sociological consequences of race intermixture in various ages and places, and concludes that for the United States segregation is desirable not only for the whites but also for the negroes, who will thus develop their race more slowly but more normally. The mulattoes will be the leaders in this development, for their white blood has made their development more rapid and increased their abilities."

POLISH PEASANT IN EUROPE AND AMERICA — *$5.00

By William I. Thomas and Florian Znaniecki

"The volumes are an intensive study of an important immigrant group and make it very plain that we cannot understand and control the immigrant in America without a knowledge of his customs and behavior in his own country. They are also of the highest importance to students of social welfare in general, and were, so to speak, awaited by the social worker before they were undertaken by the authors. The methodological note should be studied exhaustively by every student of social problems."—Professor S. P. Breckinridge, Director of Chicago School of Civics and Philanthropy.

WHO ARE THE SLAVS? — Illustrated, 2 vols. $10.00

By Paul Radosavljevich, Ph.D., Professor of New York University, Member of the American Psychological Association, etc.

Who Are the Slavs? is the only book dealing with the Slav as a whole and with reference to the characteristic traits of the specific Slavic tribes—Russian, Polish, Czecho-Slovak, and the South Slavic people.

THE WOMAN WHO WAITS — $2.50

By Frances Donovan

This is an account of an investigation of city restaurants and of the waitresses who are employed in them; it is a statement of facts. It has already called forth vigorous comment from a number of social workers by whom it has been read and has been pronounced by them a document of especial value to those engaged in social research.

The author gathered her information at first hand by working as a waitress in all sorts and conditions of eating places.

MEDICAL BOOKS

THE CURE OF PULMONARY TUBERCULOSIS BY REST AND EXERCISE

Illustrated $2.50

By HUGH M. KINGHORN, M.D.

The development of rest and exercise therapy in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis is described from Brehmer to the present day. The great value of rest treatment is repeatedly emphasized and constant warning given against too much exercise.

PRACTICAL HELPS IN THE STUDY AND TREATMENT OF HEAD INJURIES

By ADOLPH M. HANSON, M.D.

The writer has long felt that the presentation of head injuries, in an elementary and brief form, would be welcomed by the profession at large. The demands of a general Practice do not permit of exhaustive study in special fields and the increased number of injuries to the head, due to the automobile and the great industrial activities renders it imperative that the general practitioner should be familiar with the essential facts relative to such injuries, in an elementary way, at least, in order to cope intelligently with this problem. Many lives, that are now ost, may be saved by prompt and proper care.

A MANUAL OF PRACTICAL LABORATORY DIAGNOSIS

By LEWIS WEBB HILL, M.D.

"Although there are books aplenty on the subject of laboratory diagnosis, the author deserves the thanks of the practitioners for having prepared a brief and concise manual that contains actually all those methods of examination, and only those, that are practical and that can be carried out by physicians with such apparatus as they are likely to possess or can acquire to advantage. It includes all that information that every one engaged in active practice wants."

MEDI-CULT

By B. F. LORANCE, M.D.

"The author of this little book explains briefly the difference between the physician and the cultist, and goes on with several apt illustrations to force home to the average man the validity of the established theories of disease."
—Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

MANUAL OF VITAL FUNCTION TESTING METHODS AND THEIR INTERPRETATION. Second Revised and Enlarged Edition.

$2.00

By WILFRED M. BARTON, M.D.

The problem of investigating the various vital functions of the organism, especially those of the heart, liver pancreas, kidneys and ductless glands, is given practical treatment in this useful volume.

THERAPEUTIC INDEX AND PRESCRIPTION WRITING PRACTICE

$2.00

By WILFRED M. BARTON, M.D.

The major portion of this invaluable book is taken up by the first part, which is a Therapeutic Index arranged alphabetically according to diseases. Finally an alphabetical list of the drugs themselves has been appended as a second part in which under each drug is given a list of the diseases or symptoms under which it is to be found in the Therapeutic Index.

DOC: FACTS, FABLES AND FOIBLES

$2.00

By JOHN A. DILLON M.D.

A great deal of the contents of this book has appeared from time to time in the Kansas Medical Journal, under the nom de plume of Renig Ade. Other publications have seen fit to copy these stories from the above journalr giving due credit. A number of friends, both in and out of the profession, have requested that they be issued in book form. I shall be satisfied if this publication meets the hospitable reception that has been accorded the individual stories. If this little volume brings a smile to the tired doctor or aids him to while away a dull hour, then it will have fulfilled it's mission.—The Author.

RANDOM TALKS BY AN M.D.

$2.00

By M. W. PEARSON, M.D.

The book outlines and illustrates a practical up-to-date system of popular medical education. The essays 22 philosophical and religious subjects which it contains are no less interesting and timely. They are very broad in their scope, and written in the same lucid and forceful style which characterizes the book as a whoel

PSYCHIC PHENOMENA

THE PSYCHIC MESSAGES OF JESUS — $2.00

By Louise Gould Randall

Here is a book that will arouse intense discussion. Are these psychic messages of Jesus? If not, how can you explain them?

A PSYCHICAL EXPERIENCE — $1.50

By William C. Comstock

The author says: "It should not be beyond credence that the personalities who were on earth Voltaire, Sir Isaac Newton, Martin Luther, Hume, George Washington, John Milton, Montaigne, can talk to men on earth if others can. And this the writer asserts with as firm a belief as that he lives that those very personalities named have talked to him, and through him to men, for an avowed and definite purpose.

"Let me tell a plain, straightforward tale of how it came about."

THOUGHT FOR HELP, from Those Who Know Men's Need — $1.50

By William C. Comstock, Amanuensis

With a Foreword by Rev. Joseph A. Milburn, Pastor Plymouth Congregational Church, Chicago.

This one volume contains all Mr. Comstock's works: Thought for Help, Will Higher of God, Man's Life of Purpose and Man, the Life Free.

These works are not merely curiosities of psychical experience, to be glanced at and forgotten, but are actual transcriptions from spirits, in their own words, of the faith of those in the wider life that is freed from Earth, and of their wider view of man's life in its relation to its Maker and to the whole life of the immortal self.

BEST BOOKS ON SPIRIT PHENOMENA — $2.00

By Henrietta Lovi

The present outline has been compiled from the viewpoint of a library worker and a student of spirit survival, in an effort to indicate noteworthy and representative volumes in the English language dealing with that branch of psychical science concerned with proofs of continuity of life after physical death—with spirit communication—spirit manifestation—spirit phenomena.

HOW I KNOW THAT THE DEAD DO LIVE — $1.50

Anonymous

Personal experiences with returns from the spirit world.

YE SHALL KNOW THE TRUTH — $2.00

By Sephora B. Jenkins

A discussion of the spirit world.

THE WORK AND OFFICE OF THE HOLY ANGELS — $.75

Anonymous

The Author says: These brief chapters have been given to me by Archangel Uriel. They are not mine; they are his! Since men in old times have had Revelations, so they have come and can come again in these times. With all my heart I believe that in a wonderful manner they have been given to me.

PHILOSOPHY & ETHICS

AN INTRODUCTION TO PHILOSOPHY — *$1.75

By Holly Estil Cunningham, Professor of Philosophy, University of Oklahoma

"It does just what an introductory book in that department should do; that is, it begins with several very interesting chapters which are rather easy, and then proceeds to introduce the reader to the time-long problems of philosophy. The discussions are very clear."—Prof. W. L. Uhl, Northwestern University.

ETHICS IN OUTLINE — *$1.50

By M. W. Stryker, D.D., President Emeritus, Hamilton College

This much condensed book is meant to be the basis of college teaching in Ethics. It is crisp and clear-cut in definition. Especially does it consider the nature of Will and Conscience and the so-called Moral Sense theory.

THE SOURCE AND AIM OF HUMAN PROGRESS — $1.50

By Boris Sidis, M.D.

In this book Dr. Sidis shows the necessity of a humanistic, functional society, the sole aim of which is the happiness and cultivation of Man, in contradistinction to the organic, structural society which strives to build up the State at the expense of individuality and freedom.

TRANSCENDENTAL VALUES — $1.75

By R. P. Byers

The subject is a remote one but not inaccessible. If, historically, it has proven intractable to reason, the difficulty should be ascribed to the method used in dealing with it. For a new, a successful approach to Transcendental Values has been made by a reliance on Law rather than on Reason.

WALTER RAUSCHENBUSCH AND HIS CONTRIBUTION TO SOCIAL CHRISTIANITY — $2.00

By Anna M. Singer

A Brief Sketch of His Life—A Brief Characterization of his Major Books—A Historical Review of the Conceptions of the Kingdom of God to the Present Time—His Teachings Concerning Race Prejudice and Class Distinction—Personal Distribution of Wealth—A Review of the Present Situation in the Industrial World—Militarism, War and Conflict with Evil—The Church as a Social Factor of Salvation—Conclusion.

COMMUNITY ETHICS, An Outline Survey and Critique — $1.75

By Philip A. Robinson

Community Ethics presents a compact and lucid treatment of the larger outstanding features of community life. The community is considered in each of its several grades and aspects.

ETHICS OF ACHIEVEMENT — *$2.50

By Dean Herbert Patterson

Am I Free in my Actions?—Are There Limits to my Freedom?—What Most do I want?—Is it Happiness that I Crave?—What says Literature of Happiness?—Is it Power that I want?—What say Nietzsche of Power?—Is Achievement what I want?—What says Biography of Achievement?—Is Altruism a Goal of Life?—Which Goal of Life Shall be Mine?—What do I Mean by Good and Bad?—What is Character?—Shall I follow Conscience?—What Says Literature of Conscience?—Am I Afraid of Death?—How can Religion Help Morality?—What Ethics did Confuscius Teach?—Shall I Always be Honest?—How Shall I use my Sex?—What Ethics did Plato Teach?—Shall I Smoke?—Shall I be Thrifty?—What Ethics did Aristotle Teach?—What Occupation shall I choose?—Am I Afraid of Hard work?—What Ethics did Epicurus Teach?—How shall I Relax?—How can I Make Friends?—What Ethics did Epictetus Teach?—What Ethics did Marcus Aurelius Teach?—What shall I Read?—How can Art Aid Morality?—What Ethics did Spinoza Teach?—How can Music aid Morality?—What are my Civic Duties?—What Ethics did Kant Teach?—How shall I Endure Failure?—Which of the Virtues is the Greatest?—What Ethics did Schopenhauer Teach?—How shall I Teach my Children?—How can Schools teach Achievement?—What Ethics did Spencer Teach?—Is the World Getting Better?—How can I be Good?—What Ethics did Jesus Teach?

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT

THE PEDAGOGICS OF JESUS — *$1.50

By Harrison Meredith Tipsword, Ph.D., A.M.

The Western Recorder: The author not only proves his own thorough knowledge of pedagogy, but shows also that the methods favored by psychology experts today were masterfully employed by Jesus hundreds of years ago.

THE VERIFICATION OF CHRISTIANITY — *$2.00

By Louis Matthews Sweet, S. T. D., Ph. D., Author of "Roman Emperor Worship"

Christianity is here dealt with according to the modern method of historical and critical research. The work is based upon a thorough study of the psychology of anti-Christian unbelief. The book is not so much an argument or series of arguments addressed to recognized opponents of Christianity as a body of suggestions framed for the help of seekers after truth who find themselves, for one reason and another, unable to believe.

MEDITATIONS FOR THE QUIET HOUR — $1.50

By Edwin Whittier Caswell

Full of inspiration are these meditations which appeared originally in The Christian Herald. Brief thoughts upon nearly every devotional theme in the Bible.

PURE RELIGION — $1.75

By J. C. Nicholas, Pastor of the Grace Lutheran Church, Pittsburgh, Pa.

More religion, the author contends, is the need of the hour. There are many religions but not enough religion.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST CLASSIC — $2.00

By Archibald McCullagh, A.M., D.D., L.D.

Commentaries on the Bible that are in themselves interesting and arresting literature.

EPISCOPAL METHODISM AND SLAVERY — $2.00

By C. B. Swaney

An intensive and scholarly consideration of the relation of Episcopal Methodism and Slavery.

THE HOLY SPIRIT — $1.50

By Rev. William Locke Braddock

The Church has discovered much about the Father and the Son, but, comparatively speaking, little about the Spirit. In this volume a complete study is made of the rich treasures of the Holy Spirit as they exist in the New Testament.

ART THOU THE CHRIST? — $2.00

By Lucretia Clay

"The book is one that will delight and refresh men humble of heart trained in old ways."—Lexington Herald.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION AND THE AMERICAN PUBLIC SCHOOLS — $1.50

By B. F. Lorance

"The Author has rendered a real service to the public school."—Nebraska Educational Journal.

RICHARD G. BADGER—PUBLISHER—BOSTON

WORLD WORSHIP SERIES

MESSIAHS: CHRISTIAN AND PAGAN — $2.00

By Wilson D. Wallis

"The most comprehensive description yet given of the messiahs of various peoples, civilized and primitive, and their roles in social, religious and political life.

"We would put Messiahs: Christian and Pagan, in every library in the land. It is a great, a beautiful, a fascinating, a vital book."—New York Sun.

SACRAMENTS AND SOCIETY — $3.00

By Allan W. Cooke

A study of the origin and value of rites in religion. A most interesting consideration of comparative religion.

DEVIL WORSHIP — $2.50

By Isya Joseph, Ph.D.

"This book is one of the most curious details in the history of mythomania of human beings. Those who have it will never sell it."—New York Sun.

ROMAN EMPEROR WORSHIP — $2.00

By Louis Matthews Sweet, S.T.D., Ph.D., Professor of Christian Theology and Apologetics, Bible Teachers' Training School

"The work is a scholarly one, makes many good points and is a rare contribution to the history of an obscure but important epoch."—Boston Transcript.

ZOROASTRIANISM AND JUDAISM — $2.00

By George William Carter, Ph.D.

"A sympathetic study of the old Zend Scriptures and the influence of the great Persian teacher Zarathustra upon the world of his day and later ages."—The Christian Century.

IMMORTALITY IN THE LIGHT OF MODERN THOUGHT — $2.00

By Rev. F. C. Capozzi

"Our author has applied himself laboriously to the study of a theme always of interest. Wide reading in many departments has enabled him to assemble much pertinent material. His chief contributions to the literature of his subject in the light of modern thought are (a) the chapter on Evolution and Immortality and (b) the chapter on the Moral Character of the Soul, which contains a well-pointed protest against materialistic philosophy."
—American Church Monthly.

THE FOURTH DIMENSION AND THE BIBLE — $1.50

By William A. Granville, Ph.D., President of Gettysburg College

The author points out the remarkable agreement which exists between numerous Bible passages and some of the concepts which follow quite naturally from the mathematical hypothesis of higher spaces.

INDUSTRIAL INFLUENCE ON THE PSYCHOLOGY OF JESUS — $2.00

By Jesse Hickman Bond, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Economics, University of North Dakota

A study of the origin, processes and results of psychological conflict in its ethical struggle.

RICHARD G. BADGER—PUBLISHER—BOSTON

NEW PLAYS

TEA AND LITTLE RICE CAKES AND OTHER PLAYS — $2.00

By Margaret Scott Oliver, Author of "The Turtle Dove"

Tea and Little Rice Cakes, a Chinese Fable—The King's Son, a Japanese "Let's Pretend" Story, in One Act—He, on Whom a Sandal Fell, a One Act Play Concerning the First Cinderella—The Lost Child, an American Indian Play—Hallie in High, a Comedy—Shadow and Substance, a Play in One Act.

THE FAIRIES — $2.00

By Mayce F. Seymour

This play is ideally adapted to the use of club women. The inanimate objects about the house all come to life and discuss how they are driving their owner to death, but later the fairies bring the play to a happy ending.

PLAYS WITH A PROLOGUE — $2.00

By Mary Larrimer

These six one-act plays have proved themselves successful in production. The first one, Sacrifice, is a miracle play with its setting in the Maine woods.

THE CLASS WAR IN HEAVEN — $1.75

By Luke

Would you be more assured that your life continues after death in a world that is now invisible? Would you like to conceive of that world as real; of life there as human, the logical continuation of life as we know it now? Then read this drama of human destiny in a future world.

SIX ONE ACT PLAYS — $2.00

By Edgar Morette

The plays are widely diversified. The first, a drama, The Short Cut, is set in a shabby boarding house in New York and the leading characters are two people at the end of their rope, a woman of the streets and a bank clerk who had used the bank funds. In a Swath is in the living room in a home in a Belgian village, when the German soldiers take possession. The Waif is an episode of the Reign of Terror. The others are comedies.

ROBERT E. LEE, A Play — $1.75

By Charles S. Farris

This play in five acts is a masterly presentation of General Lee.

WESTERN VERSE

SUN AND SADDLE LEATHER (Eighth Edition) — Illustrated $2.50

By Badger Clark

Generous has been the praise given Sun and Saddle Leather, but perhaps no criticism has summed up the work so satisfactorily as the comment of the old cow man, who said: "You can break me if there's a dead poem in the book. I read the hull of it. Who is this kid Clark, anyway? I don't know how he knowed, but he knows."

Poetry says: "Poems certain to please not only the old 'cow men,' but the most arrant tenderfoot who has never worn chaps or spurs."

Dr. W. T. Hornaday says: "Some of the Sun and Saddle Leather poems have taken hold of me with a grip that only imbecility can shake loose. I have seen many poems and verses come out of the wild portions of the West; but these are the best. They are real poetry."

THE DESERT: GOD'S CRUCIBLE — Illustrated $5.00

By Bruce W. McDaniel

"Pray tell me, friend, does the desert speak
When the red sun smoulders o'er Pinto Peak?
And what may one see in that blazing land
Of painted hills and panting sand?"

To those who are unfamiliar with our American desert, the marvelous illustrations of this most attractive volume will be a decided revelation. Those who know and love the desert will see that its many beauties have been done full justice.

SPLASHIN' SUNLIGHT AND SHADOWS — $2.00

By Earl W. Scott

Colorful poems of the old Southwest, full of splashing sunlight and shadows.

SONGS OF THE BUNCH GRASS ACRES — Illustrated $2.00

By Clell G. Gannon

"Lone Hills of the West you have heard my song
From the bunchgrass plains to the pine,
In the twilight hush or the painted dawn,
In the slanting rain—or the shine.

"You have heard my song on your topmost crest,
By the shore of your laughing rills,
You shall hear it, aye, till the singer rests
In the arms of your heart, dear hills."

THE FOREST RANGER — Frontispiece $1.50

Collected and Edited by Captain John D. Guthrie

Here are the songs sung by the Forest Rangers at their occasional meetings, or perhaps hummed around a lonely camp fire by the side of some forest trail, in the dense fir timber of the Pacific Northwest, or in the open pine forests of Florida.

RHYMES OF A RANCHER — Illustrated $2.00

By E. A. L. Griffin

Poems real as the Ranch Life they reflect: The Abandoned Stock Ranch—After the Sale—Buffalo Gap Fair—Camping in the Hills—Cattle Rustler's Soliloquy—Caught in a Blizzard—Cheyenne River—Christmas Day Philosophy—County Poor Farm—The Difference—"Dutchy" on Rural Telephones—Gasolitis—Gastronomic Memories—Haytime on the Ranch—I'd Like—Jury Duty.

IMPORTANT FICTION

THE QUESTION OF DOLLY — $2.00

By Sara Lippincott

Dolly is a hot-headed little Southern beauty transplanted in the North, where she finds plenty of questions of her own to answer, to say nothing of making plenty of questions for others.

HICKS JAROU — $2.00

By Mrs. James C. Fifield

Men will have many a chuckle over this book, but their wives are not going to keep straight faces either.

GAELIC FOLK TALES — $2.00

By Mary Grant O'Sheridan

These charming stories all have a historical foundation.
"It should be on the list of supplementary reading."—The Chicago Daily News.

RACING BITS—A Novel of the Oil Fields of Texas — $2.00

By J. C. Rickman

"The reader will be loathe to lay the book down once the reading is commenced. The interest is sustained all the way.
"It is a novel away and beyond most of those of the present day."—Marshall Morning News.

LEE ASHTON — Frontispiece $2.00

By Rae Stanley

This story deals so intimately with the life in and around Tilton Academy, that the author thought it wise to adopt a pen name.

MY RED LETTER CHRISTMAS — $1.00

By Mae C. Patrick

"It is an appealing, well written story, emphasizing the joy of giving at Christmas time to the very young and dependant aged the things that their hearts most desire rather than presents of utility, and brings out the thought that it is more blessed to give than to receive."—Kansas City Star.

SPIKE — Illustrated $2.00

By Badger Clark, Author of "Sun and Saddle Leather"

"About the easiest book of this year's crop, to read, is Spike.
"Spike is an ordinary cowboy, impecunious, chivalrous, philosophic and original. Badger Clark takes rank as a genuine cowboy writer and a humorist; he doesn't do any four-flushing, for, as Spike would say, he knows the difference between a real and a hair-brand' "—Montana American.

PETER MIDDLETON — $1.75

By Henry K. Marks

"It is a work of genius."—Chicago Daily News.
"Wells, Galsworthy, Bennett, and Cannan—none has written anything comparable to this amazing novel. This, I am aware, is extravagant praise. I have never been more earnest."—The Chicago Tribune.
"The book of the year."—The Liberator.

WHO WAS IT? STORIES — Illustrated $1.50

By Julia H. Johnston

The chief characters in Miss Johnston's stories are unnamed, this detail being left for the children to supply. And with all eagerness they guess about Noah, Jonah, Joshua and others, attaching to themselves, before they know it, a precious fund of religious knowledge which will accompany them through life.

THE JUST SUPPOSE STORY — Illustrated $1.50

By Mary A. Cox and Olive Moore

Just the sort of story children like to suppose.

DELL AND DOT IN FAIRYLAND — $1.25

By Rose Dennis North

Children will be delighted to meet all their old friends such as Red Riding Hood, Snow White, Hansel and Gretel in the company of Dell and Dot.

THE OLDEST AND LARGEST REVIEW IN THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE DEVOTED TO POETRY AND DRAMA

Poet Lore

WORLD LITERATURE AND THE DRAMA

A MAGAZINE THAT WILL KEEP YOU IN TOUCH WITH THE BEST LITERATURE ALL OVER THE WORLD

POET LORE is the oldest and largest review in the English language devoted to poetry and drama. In its pages appear the best work of the world's greatest writers. For over thirty years it has been an active pioneer in promoting an interest in international letters. Mæterlinck, Hauptmann, Tchekkof, Schnitzler, D'Annunzio, Gorki, Andreyev, Bjornson and Synge are among those Poet Lore has introduced to the American public.

A MAGAZINE FOR THE LITERARY EPICURE

"A periodical that stands steadfastly for good literature."—The Dial.

"There is no more helpful publication in the English language for the student and teacher than POET LORE."—Journal of Pedagogy.

"POET LORE devotes itself to the study of pure literature. Few magazines savor so little of Philistinism, in any of its various forms in modern times."—Review of Reviews.

NEW BOOKS IN PREPARATION

MODERN PAINTING AND VARNISHING

By F. W. Vogel

A complete, practical book for painters, paint dealers, private consumers, architects and manual training schools, describing clearly and concisely the manufacture and application of paints and varnishes according to modern practice. The book is divided into four parts; the first dealing with the manufacture, properties and uses of all kinds of paints, varnishes and painting materials, such as paint vehicles, driers, volatile thinners, white pigments and white extenders, color pigments, varnishes, brushes and tools. Instructions for mixing paint by hand and power are also given. The three remaining parts cover exterior finishing, interior home finishing and artistic home finishing. These chapters give clear and simple instructions on the preparation, painting and repainting of wood, brick, stucco, concrete and metal surfaces, and include the painting of porch floors, blinds and trim, painting and staining of shingles, refinishing of porch furniture, automobiles, watercraft and other exterior surfaces. The sections on interior painting give full instructions on the preparation and finishing of plaster walls, wall boards and similar surfaces, transparent and opaque finishing of wood trim and floors, the refinishing of stoves, bathtubs, lighting fixtures, furniture, etc.

COMPLETE PRACTICAL SIGN PAINTER

By R. H. Forgrave

This new volume, which is partly based on "Sign Writing and Glass Embossing" by James Callingham, is written to meet the demands of those who wish to become proficient in modern, up-to-date sign painting. It is a modern, self-instructive compendium of the art of sign painting in all its branches, and contains all that is necessary to give the student a thorough, practical knowledge of the art as practised by the leading sign painters of to-day. Every page bristles with clear, comprehensive and concise mechanical features of the art.

WATCH REPAIRER'S HAND BOOK

By L. B. Pratt

An elementary and practical treatise for the apprentice and watch repairer giving correct and up-to-date methods for cleaning, adjusting and repairing all types of American and foreign watches. With the instructions in this volume any person of average intelligence can obtain a fair working knowledge of watch repairing. $2.00

ART OF BRASS FOUNDING

By C. Powell Karr

This volume covers the present-day practice in the founding of brass and its associated alloys. It is a complete and practical work and describes the various types of furnaces in general use, their advantages and disadvantages, and gives approved methods of melting, pouring and fluxing. Chapters on foundry planning, molding and molders, and foundry appliances, are included. Instructions on the cold and hot-working of brass, soldering and welding, coating and coloring, methods of analysis, and much other information useful to foundrymen are also given.

METALLURGY OF ALUMINIUM AND ALUMINIUM ALLOYS (Now Ready)

By Robert J. Anderson

This volume is a thorough and comprehensive presentation of the metallurgy of aluminium and aluminium alloys, and will be of great help to metallurgical engineers and foundrymen, also to automotive and mechanical engineers. While it has been written especially with a view to being practical, the more theoretical aspects of the subject have not been neglected, and the book may be properly regarded as a comprehensive text suitable for metallurgical courses in colleges and universities. The origin, occurrence and distribution of aluminium ores and methods of mining are taken up in an early chapter, while the production of aluminium itself by modern electrolytic methods is also discussed. The uses and applications of the metal and its alloys are treated in detail. Considerable attention is given in this volume to the preparation of alloys for casting and working, and the most approved methods for preparing the principal alloys are taken up. The best methods of melting, together with descriptions of the principal types of furnaces, are given detailed treatment. The founding of aluminium alloys, including casting losses and defects, is discussed quite fully, and the information will be of great value to foundrymen in the successful production of castings. Some of the more theoretical aspects of the whole subject are treated in the chapters dealing with the constitution of aluminium-alloy systems, and the metallography and heat treatment of aluminium and its alloys. 6¼ by 9¼. Cloth. 913 pages. 295 Illustrations. $10.00

SOAP MAKER'S HAND BOOK

By P. B. Meerbott and I. V. Stanley Stanislaus

The previous editions by William T. Brannt, on which this volume is partly based, were widely in demand by the trade, which testifies that they offered information of distinct and practical value. The new edition makes an enhanced appeal; outgrown methods have been discarded and only modern practice admitted to its pages. An entirely new chapter on the manufacture of candles has been added, while the use of synthetics in the perfuming of soaps is fully treated. The numerous formulas of stocks, the exhaustive directions and the receipts for washing powders, liquid, medicated and toilet soaps, and other soap specialties, make this a complete manual of information indispensable to the industry. $7.50

FURNITURE WORKER'S HANDY BOOK

By John W. Stephenson

The author, who is editor of "The Upholsterer" and is well-known as a writer on furniture and upholstery subjects, is preparing this volume as a much needed work of instruction and reference for all those in any way connected with the various branches of the furniture trades. It is practically an encyclopedia of the industry and contains directions for doing the many classes of work which the furniture worker and repairer are called upon to do.

MODERN GUNSMITHING

By T. T. Pierce

A complete practical work covering every phase of modern gunsmithing; written in a non-technical manner by a master gunsmith. The author has made a special study of guns primarily from the mechanical side and is an expert in this line.

OPERA MINIATURE SERIES

By
CHARLOTTE LUND

Here is a series of handy little books, which will find an immediate welcome with all opera goers and music lovers generally. Each book is devoted to one opera and gives in tabloid form just the facts that one needs to know in regard to the work in question—who wrote the music and the book, when first produced, cast of characters, and other incidental facts relating to the presentation of the work. Ten minutes devoted to reading one of these books before going to an opera will enable the reader to follow the opera intelligently, no matter in what foreign tongue it may be rendered.

THE HOME COMPLETE

A record book which will immediately appeal to the careful housewife. Its pages provide an inventory of the items of furnishing in each room in the house. For example, blank pages are provided for the "Dining Room," in which one may list all the furniture, glassware, china, silver, etc., which are already in service there, with valuation of same. Other rooms in the house are similarly recorded. In the event of a fire, as well as at other times, such an inventory would prove exceedingly valuable. Ninety-six pages. Cloth, with gold stamping. Printed on Silkote paper.

Size 6¼ x 9¾. Cloth. $1.50

FRIENDS O' MINE

Here is an interesting friendship book which gives one an opportunity to keep a permanent record of the little group of intimate friends. It is a cross-section, as it were, of their personalities. Blank pages are supplied for facts concerning their physical appearance, favorite study, book, song, sport and other hobbies. There are thirty or forty questions asked, which when answered, will furnish both interest and amusement. The book is durably bound in art style, stamped in gold, with marbled end leaves and two color title page. Separately boxed.

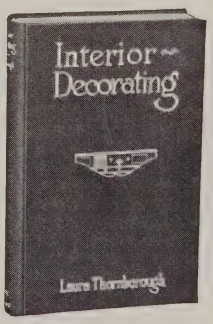
INTERIOR DECORATING FOR EVERYBODY

By

LAURA THORNBOROUGH



"What shall we use or how many pieces shall we have?" is the question that invariably faces a young married couple when they start furnishing a home. This question is admirably answered by Jane Norton, who has experienced all these problems from the time she left her Southern home to come to New York where she first furnished one room which had to do as a combination of kitchenette, dining room, living room and bedroom. Later when she marries she has the experience in furnishing a small apartment, then a larger one and finally her own home.

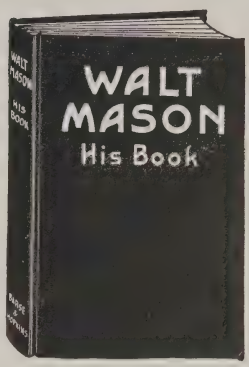
WALT MASON—HIS BOOK



With an Introduction
By
IRVIN S. COBB

Walt Mason's prose poetry is perhaps the most widely read of contemporary writers. William Allen White says: "How many millions of people are cheered year by year as they turn every day to those quaint verses! Here is a man doing a man's work in the world, making life brighter and more cheerful and more sensible in this vale of tears. Millions in money could do no more—if as much—as this man does at his day's work."

VEST POCKET ESSAYS

By
GEORGE FITCH

"Vest Pocket Essays" are short talks—about four hundred words each—on miscellaneous subjects, "From Hope to Hash," "From Cabbages to Kings." Fitch's humor is good-natured, yet there is a wealth of meaning behind this fun. It is above all things a philosophic humor, though he is never cynically smart, and when he takes certain institutions to task he does it in a kindly manner.

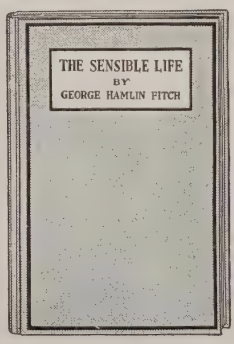
THE SENSIBLE LIFE



By
GEORGE HAMLIN FITCH

Mr. Fitch turns aside from the delightful literary essays for which he is famous to talk common-sense in everyday living. He believes that man can be eighty years young, and points the way in chapters on Bathing, Exercise, the Right Food (although he is no faddist), Amusements, Hobbies, Reading, etc. The careful reading of this sensible book aside from the pleasure of its style, ought to add years to anyone's life. It is a book for everyone for today.

JUDITH AND JANE

By

ELEANORE MYERS JEWETT

This is the story of two very different girls who became friends. They began by being anything but friendly, and Jane who was "new," found life in school rather unpleasant. Strange that Judy who apparently had so much to make her happy, should be envious of Jane who had so little! Judy, however, was not so happy as might have been expected. As for Jane, troubles came her way thick and fast. But Jane found that trouble, met by a brave heart, wins friends, and friends mean more than anything else.

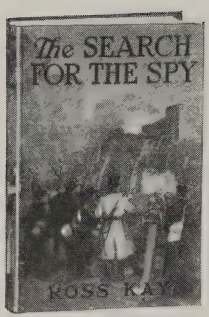
*GREAT ADVENTURE SERIES

By

ROSS KAY

(For Boys from 8 to 14)



Here is a series of stories about two brothers who had their Great Adventure "over there" during the years of 1914 to 1918. At the out-break of hostilities, Earl Platt was in England and naturally associated himself with the English forces. Leon Platt, his brother, was in France and he joined the French forces.

How they became involved in intrigue that inadvertently was thrust upon them, makes an interesting story. These books will hold the interest of any real, red blooded American boy.

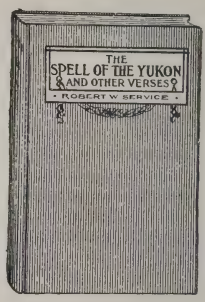
BOOKS BY ROBERT W. SERVICE

The amazing and increasing popularity of Robert W. Service's books can only be accounted for in the excellence of the poems themselves. They strike a universal chord in the heart of humanity. If you have not already met Service, do not lose another day. If you have, it's "up to you" to present him to some friend.

THE SPELL OF THE YUKON

And Other Verses. "Songs of a Sourdough."



Cloth

Service's first great book was originally called "Songs of a Sourdough," and is thus known to thousands of readers in Canada and England. In the United States it is even better known by the title "The Spell of the Yukon." It has already become a classic. Here are poems of irresistible truth and power which hold the reader enthralled.

The scene is the Yukon, and the characters are real men—men of flesh and blood who talk in direct and virile language, who have primal instincts and passions, who toil, sin, dream, accomplish and despair. Strong and outspoken are these poems—a man's message to men—yet fit for the reading of all, because they are true. This popular book is now published in two sizes and varied styles to suit every taste.

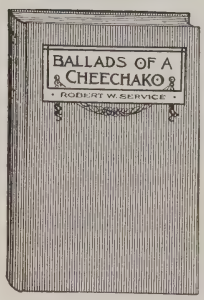
BALLADS OF A CHEECHAKO

By

ROBERT W. SERVICE



Cloth

Do you know what a Cheechako is? If not, read this book and find out! Mr. Service makes the men of whom he writes in this companion book to "The Spell of the Yukon" live in a manner so true, so realistic, that the reader lives with them the free, broad life of fellowship of the campfire, of strife, of toil, of hardship. The keen wind of the Northland sweeps across its pages, and one rises refreshed, as from a tramp through the snows.

The "Ballads" come in two different editions, same size and style of the preceding volume. Together they give an unforgettable chronicle of the Yukon country.

RHYMES OF A RED CROSS MAN

By

ROBERT W. SERVICE

Flexible

By all odds the most powerful and popular book of poems by a single author emanating from the Great War. Written amid the din and roar of battle, these vivid pen pictures show the sunny side of war. A writer in The Dial, voicing many other opinions, says:

"Detail after detail of life at the front takes its place in the various narratives, adding touches of excitement, pathos, terror, tenderness, or humor, and in the end imbuing this particular reader with a closer sense of life in the Great War than any correspondent, novelist, or poet has yet given him—making it so natural, straightforward, first-hand, vibrant, that if you are like me you will close the book with a painful silence in the ears that follows great sound and the flush in the head that comes from the sight of broken bodies and the squeeze in the throat that comes in the presense of honest human emotions. It is not a criticism from without, but a cry from within—dignifying even 'Tipperary.' We have been inquiring for the poetry of the War. In my judgment, here it is."

In the same sizes and styles as the other Service books, as follows:

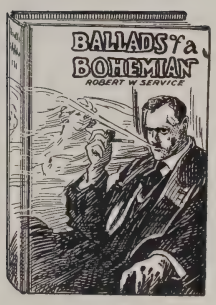
BALLADS OF A BOHEMIAN

By
ROBERT W. SERVICE



Cloth

This volume of verse is the largest that Service has thus far written. It is full of humor, of pathos, of tragedy, of passion, of sentiment, such as only Service can fully express. And because it is a human document by a master hand, its publication is an event of prime importance.

It is a panorama of life in four parts—Spring, Early Summer, Late Summer and Winter. Before our eyes pass a swift succession of vivid pictures—of a poor poet's garret, of the cafés, the absinthe drinkers, the boulevards, of the various queer neighbors—artists, little sewing girls, cocottes, grisettes—all the busy, jostling life of the Latin Quarter of Paris.

*JOANNA

By

H. L. GATES

"With the skirts too short, the lips too red, and the tongue too pert"

Joanna Manners, a salesgirl in a department store, is called into her employer's office and told that she is to be given one million dollars. The only stipulation made in giving this present is that she is not to ask how to spend it, nor is she told who her mysterious benefactor is or the reason for this most magnificent gift. She is at first dazed, then amazed, and finally she awakens to the fact that it is not all a pleasant dream but that the gift is a reality.

Joanna proceeds to spend her million and is thrown into a vortex of romance and intrigue—and yet having been through all this, she proves that the average American girl of today is equally as good and fine as her sister of yesterady.

The Chicago Daily News says:

"We recommend 'JOANNA' to every reader who enjoys the unfolding of a picture of real every-day life, with its touch of drabness, beauty, color, romance, adventure, surprise—and its constant thrills. 'JOANNA' is a masterpiece."

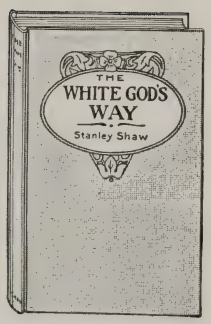
*THE WHITE GOD'S WAY

By

STANLEY SHAW



Here is surely a he-man type of story of the vast Canadian Northwest—that primeval wilderness stretching all the way up to the Hudson Bay and the frozen Arctic Ocean.

Dick Glenconner, who liked the gay life of Broadway, becomes involved in a mysterious robbery and murder. He decides to escape and bury his identity in the vast wilderness of the Canadian Northwest. His adventures there are told in a realistic manner by the author and finally when the climax comes and "The White God" takes his toll, the reader discovers that Dick Glenconner is one of those chivalrous knights of yesterday. It is a story that will hold and thrill the reader throughout and is well worth reading.

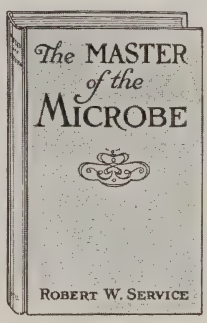
*THE MASTER OF THE MICROBE

By

ROBERT W. SERVICE

Author of "The Roughneck," "The Spell of the Yukon," etc.

Robert W. Service in his latest novel scores another smashing hit.



Mr. Service's knowledge of Paris and its underworld, and his delineation of the apache reminds one very strongly of Victor Hugo and Eugene Sue.

Who "Sinistra" is, what the secret told to Harley was as to why he could not marry Rosemary, how apache met and baffled apache, the picture of Paris night life, descriptions of underground Paris, the course of true love, which as usual has its rough going, and the final retribution, all make a story so fascinating, so interesting, that one loathes to lay it down until the very end.

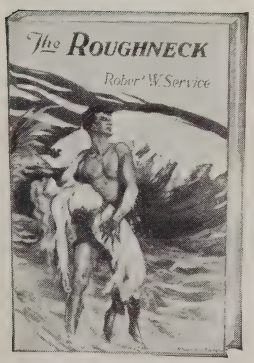
"A man may be down, but he's never out."

THE ROUGHNECK

By

ROBERT W. SERVICE

Author of "The Spell of the Yukon."



"Let me die fighting!" Thus exclaims the man who has made his last supreme effort to defy Fate. A strange and colorful career is this of the hero of Robert W. Service's latest book. It is a tale of action, adventure, and romance, with the world as its stage, and the soul of a man cast into the crucible of adversity as its theme.

The countless thousands of readers who know Service chiefly as a poet have a further treat in store for them in this stirring new novel from his pen. Crowded with adventure, teeming with action and vivid description, and touched with romance, it easily ranks with Jack London at his best.

A novel for every red-blooded man and woman.

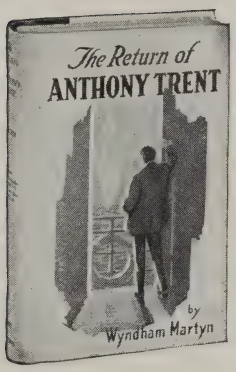
THE RETURN OF ANTHONY TRENT

By

WYNDHAM MARTYN



Anthony Trent returns as a reformed "Raffles" and achieves fame as an amateur detective. This novel tells of the further adventures of the ingenious super-criminal now turned sleuth—this time, however, in the interest of justice.

When Anthony Trent hears that one of his best friends has innocently suffered imprisonment, he promptly goes to his defense; his keen brain, steady nerve and athletic training serve him well as he weaves a clever and original net around the real criminal.

While engaged in worming himself into the confidence of the criminal, Trent meets a beautiful French woman, who was formerly a criminal but who is now being pursued by her old associates. Trent saves the girl, showing her that he is earnest both in his love for her and in his intention to go straight. All ends happily. The interest of readers of detective and mystery stories will be held by this clever story. Contains 352 pages.

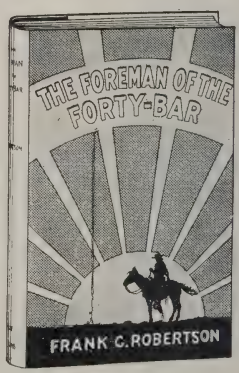
THE FOREMAN OF THE FORTY-BAR

By

FRANK C. ROBERTSON



You may have read Western stories before, but we predict that you have never read one exactly like "The Foreman of the Forty-Bar."

Mr. Robertson, a self-made Westerner, has actually lived, and is living the life of which he writes; his life is full of adventure and exciting experiences—he knows the real West. This knowledge, coupled with his very real feeling for his story, creates characters that have life and conviction.

The action involves around Owyhee, the hero of the story, whose life is apparently a mystery. He immediately attracts sympathy and admiration, and before Chapter One is passed the reader is determined to miss no step in the unravelment of the plot. Even the most experienced reader of this type of fiction will feel that here at last is a new slant in the Western story.

Mr. Robertson's shorter stories have already become popular in magazines, and we feel confident that book readers will anxiously await his new books. Contains 320 pages.

Christian History in its Three Great Periods

By Joseph Henry Allen

Three volumes; 12mo; about 300 pages per volume; $1.15 per volume, postpaid

Volume I., First Period, "Early Christianity," covering the Messiah, Saint Paul, the Arian Controversy, Monasticism, Christianity in the East, the Holy Roman Empire; Volume II., Second Period, "The Middle Age," comprehending the Ecclesiastical System, Feudal Society, the Religious Orders, Scholastic Theology, the Pagan Revival; Volume III., "Modern Phases," comprising the Protestant Reformation, Calvinism, English Rationalism, the German Critics, Speculative Theology. The point of view which the author presents claims a special interest and value, as vindicating for historical Christianity a significance often denied or overlooked in the current thought of the time. With chronological outlines and indexes.

Hebrew Men and Times

By Joseph Henry Allen

12mo; 471 pages; $1.15 postpaid

An outline of Hebrew history and literature which spares the details while giving the results of scholarship; that traces historical sequences and connections without being entangled in questions of mere erudition or theological polemics; that does not lose from sight the broad perspective of secular history, while recognizing the hand of "Providence as manifest in Israel."

Our Liberal Movement in Theology

By Joseph Henry Allen

12mo; 200 pages; $1.10 postpaid

A review of the history and antecedents of New England Unitarianism, interspersed with interesting personal reminiscences and ending with an appreciation of the tendencies of modern liberal theology. The following are the chapter titles: Antecedents, New England Unitarianism, Channing, Fifteen Years of Controversy, Theodore Parker, A Scientific Theology, The Religion of Humanity, the Gospel of Liberalism.

Sequel to "Our Liberal Movement"

By Joseph Henry Allen

12mo; 157 pages; 60 cents postpaid

A sketch in the first chapter of "The Old School and Its Work" and then chapters on "German Influence" and "Forty Years Later," followed by memories of Frederic Henry Hedge, James Freeman Clarke, William Greenleaf Eliot, Thomas Starr King, John Weiss, Frederick Newman Knapp, Thomas Hill, William Francis Allen, Samuel Longfellow, Edmund Burke Wilson, Octavius Brooks Frothingham, David Atkins Wasson.

Positive Religion

By Joseph Henry Allen

12mo; 259 pages; 90 cents postpaid

A collection of acute, reverent, and suggestive talks on some of the great themes of religion. The long habit of regarding religion as a thing of opinion, of emotion, or of ceremony, has tended greatly to blind men to it as an element in their own experience, or as a force, mighty and even passionate, in the world's affairs. And hence any word that recognizes first of all that positive quality in it,—independent of party, race, age or creed,—is a step towards the revival of it as a power, wholesome, invigorating, and inspiring, in the lives of men.

Altar at Home

Second Series

12mo; 350 pages; 75 cents postpaid

A collection of prayers for private and social use, suitable for morning and evening devotions. A short scriptural or other religious selection, setting forth some devout or elevating thought, precedes each prayer. The prayers have been prepared with special reference to the services of which they form a part, and unity of spirit throughout each service has thereby been secured.

God and the Soul

By Richard A. Armstrong

12mo; 190 pages; $1.10 postpaid

A book that has met with remarkable commendation both in this country and abroad as one containing a singular insight into the spiritual life, and presenting the outlook of one who "believes that the religious element in man is primary and permanent; that God has direct messages for the human soul, and that the human soul has direct access to the living God,"—the standpoint being that "of one who heartily and without afterthought rejoices in every advance of knowledge in every field, and desires to attain in his thought no opinions whatever that clash with or are contradicted by the newer knowledge."

From Bondage to Liberty in Religion

By George T. Ashley

236 pages; $1.65 postpaid

The author describes briefly but graphically the processes and experiences through which he passed in his religious life, from the early experiences, thoughts and observations of his childhood, through the period of his school life, his ministry, his theological upheaval, his descent into the quagmires of Agnosticism, the reaction and final settlement of his disturbed soul in the liberty of a rational religious faith. It is the story of a real life, a living experience, written in a style that is at once gripping, thrilling, and fascinating as a novel from the first chapter to the last.

Daughters of the Puritans

By Seth Curtis Beach

12mo; 286 pages; $1.65 postpaid

Admirable biographical sketches of Catharine Maria Sedgwick, Mary Lovell Ware, Lydia Maria Child, Dorothea Lynde Dix, Sarah Margaret Fuller Ossoli, Harriet Beecher Stowe, and Louisa May Alcott. The delightful style of the author makes the perusal of the book a source of pleasure no less than of profit, for, as the Outlook has said, "the effect of this volume is that which is produced by the massing of —let us say, roses. These remarkable women have been assembled by an artistic hand in a resplendent galaxy."

Apples of Gold

A Book of Selected Verse

Edited by Clara Bancroft Beatley

12mo; 211 pages; $1.15 postpaid

Here may be found apples of golden verse gathered from some of the choicest gardens of poetry. Many of the selections are from poets like Lowell, Emerson, Longfellow, Tennyson, Bryant, Whittier, Shakespeare, Wordsworth and the Brownings; but there is also much material from a wider range, including present-day writers. The aim has been to gather under topical heads such as Progress, Nature, Duty, Truth, Freedom and Self-Control, twenty in all, elevating and inspiring verse, uniting poetic beauty and teaching power.

Treasures New and Old

A Memorial to James Freeman Clarke

Edited by Clara Bancroft Beatley

10mo; 154 pages; $1.15 postpaid

Celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of his birth. The program of the commemorative service at the Church of the Disciples is given in full, and all the spoken words of that occasion, including the prayer, Bible reading, tribute in verse of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, the sermon of Dr. De Normandie and the tribute by Dr. Samuel A. Eliot; also the address by Rev. Francis G. Peabody at the Arlington Street Church. A separate chapter is given to the commemorative meeting of the Branch Alliance of the Church of the Disciples. The "Earlier Tributes," consist of the testimonies of John A. Andrew, Oliver Wendell Holmes, James Martineau, Edward Everett Hale, Phillips Brooks and others. The selected sermons comprise five most excellent discourses of Dr. Clarke.

The book is embellished with twelve full page illustrations, including a reproduction of the oil portrait of Dr. Clarke by William Morris Hunt.

The Ethics of Evolution

By James T. Bixby

12mo; 315 pages; $1.15 postpaid

So enlightening a book on its subject that it has been translated into Japanese because of its merits as an exposition of modern ethics. Of it Frances Power Cobbe said that it was "the soundest book on ethics issued for years." And the Boston Transcript: "An admirable philosophical treatise written with such simplicity of language, such singlemindedness and candor, that it will appeal to a large class outside the pale of critical analysis of ethics."

The New World and The New Thought

By James T. Bixby

12mo; 219 pages; $1.40 postpaid

"The New World" is the astonishing universe which modern science has disclosed, so immensely enlarged in duration and dimensions, so infinitely varied and complex and yet constantly dominated by universal laws, immutable order and omnipresent unity.

"The New Thought" of which the author writes is a forcible exposition of the remarkable changes in the ideas of modern thinkers as to the nature of man, the origin and government of the world, the character of God and his relation to nature and humanity, which have been initiated by these modern discoveries.

The Open Secret

or

Good the Final Goal

A Study of Life's Deeper Forces

By James T. Bixby

12mo; 242 pages; $1.50 postpaid

A searching study of the motive power which lies behind the mechanism of the universe, the Omnipotent and Omniscient Life which is guiding and controlling the world, not by chance or caprice, but in a far better way—by invariable laws. If the world is to progress as it should, we must go below the surface of material objects and recognize as the all-important thing the Life which is behind all and in all. The author seeks to show the rationality of his belief, not only by positive arguments, but also by refutation of the arguments which have been set forth by prominent philosophers and scientists holding different opinions regarding God and the problem of life.

The Gospel of Jesus

By Clayton R. Bowen

16mo; 235 pages; $1.10 postpaid

A brief presentation of the New Testament material concerning the life and teaching of Jesus. Nearly half of the book is given to the historical record as it may be reconstructed from the text of the Synoptic Gospels. In an appendix is the legendary material, namely, the stories of the infancy, of Jesus walking on the sea, of the feeding of the four thousand (a doublet), of the transfiguration, and of the resurrection. Concise but comprehensive notes discuss the text, section by section, interpreting narrative and teaching, and giving reasons for the rejection of variant forms of the tradition or of obviously secondary material. A detailed index of passages used or omitted enables one to turn at once to the place where any particular verse is considered in the notes.

The Life Superlative

By Stopford A. Brooke

12mo; 314 pages; $1.65 postpaid

A collection of extracts from the author's unpublished manuscripts and addresses, grouped under the headings of Religion and Conduct, Lessons by the Way, Social Problems, The Outlook Here and Hereafter, The Foundations of Life, and The City of the Soul. "There is a lucidity of thought and expression in all his books which is in itself a charm, apart altogether from the value of the thought expressed."

The Onward Cry

By Stopford A. Brooke

12mo; 385 pages; $1.90 postpaid

This volume of sermons by the author of "Jesus and Modern Thought" and "The Life Superlative," includes some of the best delivered by Mr. Brooke. Nothing of his more excellent in the way of garnered sermons has ever been issued. Some of the chapter titles are as follows: The Onward Cry, The Pattern on the Mount, the Expansion of Religion by Science, From Natural to Spiritual Religion, The Holidays of the Soul, The Earnest Expectation of the Creation, Find Me Out, The Dreamers, Illusion, One of the "Asides" of Jesus, The Eternal Life, The Pause Before Pentecost, Days of Judgment, the Patience of Job, Freedom from the Elements of the World, The Wise Virgins and Their Lamps, The Flowers of the Field.

Religion as a Personal Experience

By William Milton Brundage

12mo; 96 pages; 80 cents postpaid

In plain untechnical language, dealing with religion rather than theology, the author offers his readers a guide in the "way of the blessed life," and shares with them his own heart-experience. His book is full of a tender, gracious, reverent and loving spirit. Those who are in darkness or in doubt, those whom life has sorely wounded and left by the wayside, as well as those who have apprehended the hidden things of faith only through the intellect, will find here much to stir the heart, to brace the will and to bring the peace beyond understanding.

"Seven enlightening and pious sermons urging consecration, service, assurance of faith, transfiguration of life, worshipping and working together."—Hartford Courant.

Our Part in the World

By Ella Lyman Cabot

12mo; 204 pages; $1.00 postpaid

This work will quicken in young people the sense of personal responsibility for the moral welfare of the world. It will be a summons to enlistment in that army of the right-minded whose task it is to establish the Kingdom of God.

The Racial Conflict in Transylvania

By John M. Cabot

206 pages; $2.00 postpaid

The material of this book comes from the observations and the careful sifting of evidence presented in interviews with representative people in the province itself.

The author, without any preconceived notions tried to hear all sides in a sympathetic yet unprejudiced frame of mind. He has studied assiduously for over two years the abundant written material on this difficult subject, and this work was originally intended as his Oxford thesis.

The Heaven of the Moon

By Samuel R. Calthrop

44 pages; $1.10 postpaid

In this book of poems, Dr. Calthrop has summed up the faith that was the inspiration of his long and useful life. Philosopher, scientist, teacher, preacher and lover of humanity, he thought deeply and saw clearly. He asked the universe and man the secret of their being. The answer he received is revealed in this volume.

The poems are rich in thought, beautiful in expression, and are commended to those who are looking for a faith adequate to the times in which we live.

The Supreme Reality

By Samuel R. Calthrop

195 pages; $1.35 postpaid

The former Pastor Emeritus of the May Memorial Church of Syracuse here sums up the supreme reality as the universe itself. The product of a ministry of 53 years, it is the expression of his faith, dedicated "To all who have longed to adore infinite love and right and truth; who have sought and have not yet found." It is written for plain men and women, in an effort "to show them that with the aid of science they can know much more about the universe than they now think possible, provided always that they are willing to trust their own common sense, when that speaks plainly and clearly."

"It is a message of cheer and hope from a man who has lived long and well, and who sees that the world advances and is growing better."—Utica Daily Press.

The Historical Jesus and the Theological Christ

By J. Estlin Carpenter

12mo; 231 pages; $1.40 postpaid

This volume by the renowned president of Manchester College, Oxford, is intended to give to those unacquainted with the details of historical study some insight into the results of modern investigation into the gospel-field, and some knowledge of the process by which the ecclesiastical conception of the person of Jesus Christ was slowly formed. The account of the historical Jesus is a splendid example of fearless, but sane and reverent criticism. The author is inspired with a profound sense of the religious import of Christianity, and of the ideal, if not the literal, meaning of Christian dogma. The summary of the results of modern historical research in the domain of Christology serves to emphasize the points of kinship between traditional Christianity and the doctrines of modern philosophy.

Letters to American Boys

By William H. Carruth

12mo; 96 pages; $1.10 postpaid

Letters written to boys on all sorts of manly subjects by an educator who is kindred in spirit and in complete sympathy with boyhood's enthusiasms. These letters, written in colloquial style, give incidentally much timely and wholesome advice. Boys will enter heartily into the spirit of honor, integrity, and fair play which is the distinguishing tone of these really interesting as well as helpful letters.

A Book of Poems

By John W. Chadwick

279 pages; $1.60 postpaid

Originally published almost thirty years ago, this book, now in its tenth edition, has been acquired in order that the present generation may have the opportunity to enjoy these inspiring poems. From cover to cover it is filled with rhythmic messages appropriate for the different seasons of the year and of the life of man. Probably the best known of these selections is the one entitled "Auld Lang Syne," but the whole collection is so full of sympathy, love and beauty that it seems almost unfair to select any special one for particular mention.

Cap'n Chadwick

By John W. Chadwick

16mo; 87 pages; 85 cents postpaid.
Vol. III of "True American Types"

It presents the humble but ennobling life story of a Marblehead skipper and shoemaker, revealing the method and spirit of one who, by turning his hand to more than one vocation in the course of summer and winter, secured, with serene courage, a comfortable maintenance for himself and family. The author is himself the son of the "Cap'n."

Autobiography and Diary

By Elizabeth P. Channing

12mo; 304 pages; $1.15 postpaid

A daily record of over thirty years in a long and active Christian life, the story of which "cannot fail to promote reverence for the deep and true things of the spirit and love for things high and holy, as exemplified by her own sweet and patient spirit." The book is a narrative of a full spiritual life.

Channing's Note-Book

Arranged by Grace Ellery Channing

12mo; 110 pages; $1.35 postpaid

The "Notes" here gathered from the unpublished manuscripts of William Ellery Channing are given without revision or change of any kind. This preservation of the material in its integrity, although resulting in the retention of the incomplete sentences and abrupt constructions of the original, reveals added vigor and freedom of expression and the entire absence of self-restraint, which brings one into closer touch with the characteristics of Channing's thought and character. The Notes are arranged in topics, under such headings as Society, Friendship, Fear, Duty, Inspiration, Woman, Life, Death, Destiny, Matter, Aspiration, Sensation, Memory.

Discourses and Essays

By William Ellery Channing

12mo; 416 pages; $1.25 postpaid

Owing to the bulk and small type of the one-volume edition of Channing's Works the most vital essays and sermons from it have been gleaned into this smaller, more open-paged volume of larger and more easily read type. These selections have been edited, with a brief biographical sketch, by W. Copeland Bowie. Its contents are grouped under three general heads: I. Controversial Theology; II. Social Questions; III. The Religious Life.

The Works of William Ellery Channing

8vo; 1060 pages; $1.50 postpaid

Complete in one volume, rearranged from the six-volume edition and including the twelve discourses comprising "The Perfect Life," the latter edited by William Henry Channing from his uncle's manuscripts. The ethical, social, and religious value of the writings of Channing lies in their persuasive appeal to the culture of the inner life, to the development of a sensitive spiritual consciousness, and to the contemplation of great moral and religious principles.

The Works of William Ellery Channing

With a biographical and critical introduction by John W. Chadwick

6 volumes; 8vo; about 400 pages per volume, cloth; $6.00 per set postpaid

This reprint of the original six-volume set of Channing's Works, which had been for a number of years out of print, was issued in order to give in the most complete and convenient form the convictions of this eloquent champion of religious and political freedom, of education and philanthropy, about the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, about the worth of human nature and the blessedness of human life, about the dignity of labor and the elevation of the working classes, about spiritual freedom and the mission of Christianity. These volumes are a storehouse of spiritual things, full of the truths which abide. This edition is noteworthy as having been prepared under the direct supervision of Channing himself, and is printed from the original plates. It is made of additional interest by a biographical and critical introduction by Rev. John W. Chadwick, and is fully indexed.

Life of William Ellery Channing

The Centenary Memorial Edition, with Portrait.
By his nephew, William Henry Channing

8vo; 719 pages; $1.45 postpaid

This volume contains a full account of Channing's life, describes his relation to many departments of public activity, traces the development of his mental and spiritual life, and includes many extracts from his public utterances and private correspondence. A book of much interest and profit concerning one of the foremost leaders in the development of religious thought in America. And, as one of his biographers says, "it is not extravagant to hope that on the social plane the progress of society for a long time to come will be the progressive embodiment of his spirit and the progressive realization of his particular ideas, hopes, and plans."

Who Are the Benefactors?

By Annie Lockhart Chesley

Introduction by Samuel M. Crothers

120 pages; $1.25 postpaid

A series of human-interest sketches from the point of view of a social worker. The author maintains that while we are apt to think of those who need help only as beneficiaries they are in many cases really our benefactors.

Essentials and Non-Essentials in Religion

By James Freeman Clarke

16mo; 148 pages; Cloth, 80 cents postpaid; Paper, 55 cents postpaid

A book full of admirable presentations of the vital principles of Christian faith. With their grace of style and clearness of diction, these lectures contain many helpful suggestions, especially for those disturbed by the transition from the old to the new religious thought. The subjects are: I. Faith and Belief: Essential Belief Concerning God. II. Christ and Christianity. III. The Bible. IV. The Church and Worship. V. Christian Experience. VI. The Future Life.

Manual of Unitarian Belief

(REVISED EDITION)

By James Freeman Clarke

108 pages; $1.00 postpaid

A revised and enlarged edition of Dr. Clarke's religious views set forth in his characteristic force and clearness. After each of the twenty lessons is a group of questions.

Orthodoxy: Its Truths and Errors

By James Freeman Clarke

12mo; 512 pages; Cloth, $1.15 postpaid; Paper, 65 cents postpaid

A fair, broad-minded presentation and examination of Orthodox doctrines from the Unitarian point of view. Although the writer's criticisms are acute, the spirit of the book is conciliatory and the method reasonable and just. In a style clear and forcible is presented much wholesome theological truth.

God's Wonder World

By Cora Stanwood Cobb

12mo; 364 pages; $1.35 postpaid

The purpose of this book is to accustom children of about nine years to regard the world in which they live as full of indications of God's wisdom and love. The religious aspects of nature are kept constantly in view. While telling in a thoroughly scientific way what happens in nature, it is primarily a book of religion.

The Message of Man

Edited by Stanton Coit

12mo; 340 pages. Flexible leather, $2.00 postpaid; Cloth, $1.50 postpaid

Probably the finest collection of ethical scriptures extant. Gathered from many sources they are, in scope, quality, and arrangement, as near a perfect expression of the concentrated thought of the world's greatest thinkers as it is possible to compress into a little pocket companion. Arranged in chapters by topics with an index of authors and editions, and with footnotes giving the exact source of each quotation, the book becomes not merely an inspiration in itself, but a guide to many of the finest thoughts in all literature. It has gone through numerous editions.

Augustus Conant
Illinois Pioneer and Preacher

By Robert Collyer

16mo; 100 pages; 85 cents postpaid.
Vol. II of "True American Types"

A setting forth of the simple but significant life of a true New Englander who went west in his early days to become an Illinois pioneer, later entering the ministry, and finally the Union army, where he met his death in the Civil War. It is the story of a sterling character struggling along unembittered amid often discouraging environments, and yet with frequent rays of sunshine that brought contentment and peace.

Clear Grit

By Robert Collyer
Edited by John Haynes Holmes

12mo; 328 pages; $1.90 postpaid

A volume of sermons, lectures and poems by this great seer, none of which have ever appeared in print. Running all through the volume one finds the expression of those qualities which endeared Mr. Collyer to all who knew him—his genial, sympathetic insight into the lives of his fellowmen, his love of the beautiful, whether in art or in nature, and his irresistible fund of humor. To anyone acquainted with Mr. Collyer this book will come as a fresh inspiration, while to those unfamiliar with his writings it will be found surprisingly enjoyable and stimulating.

Father Taylor

By Robert Collyer

12mo; 58 pages; $1.10 postpaid

An untutored son of nature, rugged of build, endowed with keen power of wit and repartee, scathing in his rebuke of everything low or mean, a father to his homeless sailor "boys," frank, outspoken, fearless, lovable always, with an emotional nature generous in all its impulses and set aflame in the cause of those to whom he devoted his life, who made of his Bethel a humble temple in which his audiences, of both the rough and the cultured, were alike moved to tears at will,—such was Father Taylor, the founder of the Seamen's Bethel in the port of Boston, whose unique story has been briefly told by an old friend, with a fund of incident and anecdote that well illustrates the peculiar genius and unusual personality of the man.

Some Memories

By Robert Collyer

12mo; 248 pages; $1.40 postpaid

Delightful reminiscences, rich in varied experience, with quiet but irrepressible veins of humor and tenderness,—memories "so interwoven with my life through the fifty years they touch the sunshine and shadows, the sorrows and the joy." Dr. Collyer was not always a preacher nor did he always live in America. Yet preaching was "in his blood," and America became more than a dream. And through the struggle and glory of it all glows the rugged strength of the man and his sturdy, tender, lovable character.

Thoughts for Daily Living

From the spoken and written words of Robert Collyer
Selected and arranged by Imogen Clark

12mo; 176 pages; $1.15 postpaid

The selections in this little volume are very real, very human, very inspiring. They give counsel, cheer, consolation, and—whether the times are dark or bright—the one truth they hold is that "God's in his heaven, all's right with the world." They are indeed thoughts for daily living: Mr. Collyer shows how the problem, common to us all, of making life fair may be solved, how burdens may be borne and sorrows in some measure lightened. He has the understanding heart and an optimism so cheery that despair and doubt cannot live in its presence. His English, too, is pure, vigorous, picturesque—the English of the good old writers in days not so hurried and slipshod as the ones we know. There is a poetic quality in the beautiful simplicity of his phrases that makes his prose a continual delight.

Myth, Magic and Morals

By F. C. Conybeare

8vo; 382 pages; $3.25 postpaid

A study of Christian origins, including a careful inquiry into who Jesus of Nazareth was, what his real aims and ideas were, what the means at his command for realizing them, and how the great institutions connected with his name originated and grew up. The author is a scholar of renown, with a wide range of knowledge in the byways of Christian literature, and an unrivalled acquaintance with the archaeology, ritual and social life of early Christianity, as it appears in the light of the results of the generally accepted leaders of historical research. The pages of this book are rich in illustrative material drawn from these sources.

Transylvania in 1922

Edited by Louis C. Cornish

Frontis. of Bishop Ferencz; 176 pages; Cloth, $1.00 postpaid; Paper, 50 cents postpaid

Little known in this country until recently, Transylvania is one of the richest districts in Europe, a broad and most fertile plain surrounded with beautiful mountains. On this broad expanse are rich cultivated fields, beautiful villages built around ancient churches and a few considerable cities, among them ancient Torda and Cluj-Kolozsvar. The latter, before the war, was famed for its University and other institutions. The life of the Transylvanian people is vividly told with amusing incident and narrative.

A commission was sent in the summer of 1922 to Transylvania by the American Unitarian Association and the American Committee on the Rights of Religious Minorities. Their report gives the facts.

The Religious Minorities in Transylvania

Being the Report of the recent Anglo-American Commission to Roumania compiled by Louis C. Cornish in collaboration with the other members.

174 pages; $1.00 postpaid

Protestants, Roman Catholics, and Jews are being oppressed and robbed in Transylvania, the cradle of religious liberty in Europe. Roumania promised to protect all minority rights, but she is failing to fulfill her promises. All who believe in liberty should read this stirring report submitted by four unbiased and competent observers, who saw the conditions and listened to the sympathetic pleadings of the suffering people. Read the evidence which this Commission submitted to the Roumanian Government and the Roumanian reply.

Theodore Roosevelt, the American

By Edward H. Cotton

With Introduction by Corinne Roosevelt Robinson

English-Italian edition, 344 pages; $2.00 postpaid
English edition, 166 pages; $1.50 postpaid
Italian edition, 178 pages; $1.00 postpaid

This is a book for every American citizen. And, above all, it is one that should be put in the hands of our boys and girls that they may become more fully aware of their rich American heritage.

It is a biography after "Teddy's" own heart, a fascinating tale of struggle, of a fight to the finish against tremendous odds.

The introduction written by Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson, better known as "Teddy's" sister, is one of the features of the book. Mrs. Robinson is deeply interested in the problems of our country's monstrous "melting pot," and she is "carrying on" in the spirit of her illustrious brother.

The Church of To-day

By Joseph H. Crooker

12mo; 177 pages; $1.10 postpaid

A clear-visioned, logically stated, and thoughtfully convincing presentation and solution of the problem of the modern church. The author points out how aroused religious sentiment should exert itself in renewed church life and activity. The book reviews the proper scope of the church's work, and urges the deserving claim of the church in a treatment of the subject that is serious, earnest, trenchant, and vital.

Religious Freedom in American Education

By Joseph H. Crooker

12mo; 216 pages; Cloth, $1.15 postpaid; Paper, 35 cents postpaid

A thorough and painstaking research into the status of religious education in connection with our various institutions of learning. The religious motive in its relation to popular education is fully examined; and the present conditions and recent changes in religious instruction and freedom of worship in denominational institutions, normal schools, agricultural colleges, and State universities, receive special attention. All of this extremely suggestive material is brought to a practical close by a comprehensive array of conclusions and recommendations.

The Supremacy of Jesus

New and Enlarged Edition

By Joseph H. Crooker

12mo; 231 pages. Cloth, $1.40 postpaid; Paper, 60 cents postpaid

There is nothing negative, uncertain or evasive in the treatment of the subject here given. Written from the vantage-ground of the best modern thought, this book fills a hitherto unoccupied place in liberal religious literature.

To the previous edition of this volume has been added nearly fifty pages of new matter dealing with three topics: I. Jesus and the Modern Myth-Makers. II. The Testimony of Paul to Jesus. III. Jesus More Than Any Other Christ-Ideal. This new matter has enhanced the already well recognized worth of this reverent, sympathetic and clear-sighted exposition of the essential elements in the life and example of the teacher of Nazareth, set forth in the light of the frankly accepted higher criticism.

The Winning of Religious Liberty

By Joseph H. Crooker

12mo; 284 pages; $1.60 postpaid

A brief and thrilling account of the purpose of the struggle for religious liberty and the great achievement of the Pilgrims in establishing complete separation of Church and State.

It is particularly fitting that, at this moment, when the future of civilization is at stake, the history of the development of one of these principles should have been written anew.

The Understanding Heart

By Samuel M. Crothers

12mo; 187 pages; $1.15 postpaid

The conditions of modern society have resulted in new conceptions of literature, of morals, of religion, growing out of the necessity of continual readjustment. How may our ideals be adjusted to the actual conditions which we meet? How may our religious inheritance be harmonized with our fresh experiences? How may the institutions which have purely spiritual ends be adjusted to those which serve our material welfare? How may we at the same time live according to the rules of sound reason and according to the inspirations of religious faith? Such questions are here answered.

The First Church in Plymouth

By John Cuckson

117 pages; $1.25 postpaid

The history of 102 fugitives from religious oppression who came by the Mayflower to the New England shores to form a church universal. The summer of 1622 saw the erection of a fort "builte with good timber, both strong and comely, which was of good defence, made with a flatte rofe and batilments," which served them also for a meeting-house and was fitted accordingly for that use. Told with clearness and accuracy, this little book unfolds a bit of history as rich in characters and events, interesting, romantic and heroic, as any in the annals of our race.

The Public Ministry of Jesus

By Horace Davis

12mo; 36 pages; 60 cents postpaid

This is a layman's story, in simple, human terms, of the public life of Jesus, told with due regard to its historical setting. The life of the Prophet of Nazareth is very real to the author, and he has sought to make it as real to his readers. It is wholly free from technical phraseology or scholastic interpretations, being in truth a layman's presentation of Jesus' life as he derives it direct from the Gospel narratives themselves. The design of the book is to acquaint other laymen with the simplicity and dignity of this wonderful career, related from the point of view of one who is entirely unfettered by creed or dogma, and with the hope that the interest thus aroused may lead to further thought and study.

Twelve Hymns and Their Writers

By Valentine D. Davis

16mo; 128 pages; 30 cents postpaid

This includes biographical sketches and lesson notes on: John Milton, Thomas Ken, Isaac Watts, Charles Wesley, William Cowper, Jean F. Oberlin, John Johns, John G. Whittier, Norman McLeod, Samuel Longfellow, Alice Cary and Alfred Tennyson. For those interested in the work and lives of these famous hymn-writers this little book should be most valuable.

Works of Orville Dewey

8vo; 804 pages; $1.20 postpaid

The ripe thought and mature experience of one of the ablest minds which American Unitarianism has produced are contained in this volume. As a preacher of practical truth and the highest morality, with spiritual fervor and fine discrimination of motives and actions, his sermons are full of stimulating suggestions and wise counsel.

His lectures, when delivered, awakened great and wide interest; and they will be found not to have lost their pertinency and attractiveness to-day. The book also contains a short sketch of his life.

The Apostolic Age

By E. von Dobschutz

Translated by F. L. Pogson

12mo; 144 pages; $1.10 postpaid

The Apostolic Age remains one of the most important epochs in the life of the Christian Church. The chief reason which made it important was that everything was still in a state of transition and growth, while the spirit showed itself as a living force to a degree that may perhaps never be equalled again. It is just this combination of enthusiasm with the upgrowth and elaboration of the forms necessary to historical development which makes primitive Christianity so interesting, but at the same time renders its delineation so extraordinarily difficult.

Bergson and the Modern Spirit

By George R. Dodson, Ph. D.

304 pages; $1.75 postpaid

In Bergson Dr. Dodson sees the appearance of a new star of the first magnitude in the firmament of thought. The Bergsonian conception of evolution is expounded with a discussion of its necessary implications for ethics and religion. In the divinations of our great modern poets we find a confirmation of the vision of life which the philosopher has strained the resources of the most wonderful prose speech to express. Dr. Dodson shows that Bergson is not a man of the pragmatist temper, nor does he hold the theory of truth defended by James, Schiller and Dewey.

The Sympathy of Religions

By George R. Dodson, Ph. D.

339 pages; $1.35 postpaid

The title of this book reveals its spirit. The fundamental assumption is that back of all religions, is religion,—a universal striving for knowledge of God and desire to do the divine will. Instead of a catalogue of names, dates and articles of belief, there is a sufficient treatment of some of the non-Christian faiths to give a sympathetic understanding of them, and to show how the one Spirit makes itself felt under varying conditions. The use of this book should strengthen faith in the universal Providence, and at the same time make our own faith both clearer and more deeply appreciated. It is especially suited for use in the advanced classes of Sunday schools.

The Religion of a Gentleman

By Charles F. Dole

12mo; 219 pages; $1.05 postpaid

What young man would not choose for himself a religion which would permit of a large, normal, wholesome, active, satisfying life? It was the desire to help the youth of America to find this priceless possession which led the author in this book to relate some of his own experiences and to give expression to the thoughts that had brought to him intellectual freedom, joy and moral inspiration. Recommended as a gift book for college students and for all thinking young men.

The Spirit of Democracy

By Charles F. Dole

12mo; 435 pages; $1.10 postpaid

An exceptionally clear and comprehensive presentation of the history and growth of democracy, in which its principles are frankly discussed in the form of such every-day problems as war and militarism, the treatment of crime, taxation, immigration, labor unions, woman suffrage, etc. "Democracy," the author says, "is on trial in the world on a more colossal scale than ever before," and the working out of the experiment will depend upon the growth of the spirit of good will in the hearts of men. The abolition of slavery stands out pre-eminently among the achievements of the past as a foregleam of what may be accomplished along other lines, as men come to a better understanding of their relations to one another, a development which should receive impetus from a reading of this book.

The Theology of Civilization

By Charles F. Dole

12mo; 256 pages; 75 cents postpaid

Religion has progressed with the world—not from a childish religion to no religion at all, but to the religion of grown-up men, and no form of Christianity or theism can be so practical and workable as the religion which the twentieth century has brought to us. Its worth will be demonstrated in so far as it helps to solve the great social, economic and political problems of to-day. The author writes for busy men and women, expressing not his own thought alone but the treasured wisdom of ages, the inheritance of all who seek.

Jasper Douthit's Story

The Autobiography of a Pioneer

Illustrated. 12mo; 225 pages; $1.40 postpaid

The unique and dramatic life of a Unitarian preacher and reformer, told by himself with characteristic simplicity and unaffected modesty. Mr. Douthit's career as a lecturer, Temperance reformer, anti-slavery advocate and missionary preacher abounds in interesting and at times exciting episodes. The narrative leads as a climax to the establishment and struggle for survival of the Lithia Springs Chautauqua, the crowning work of all of Mr. Douthit's plans and dreams.

David Libbey

Penobscot Woodsman and River-Driver

By Fannie H. Eckstrom

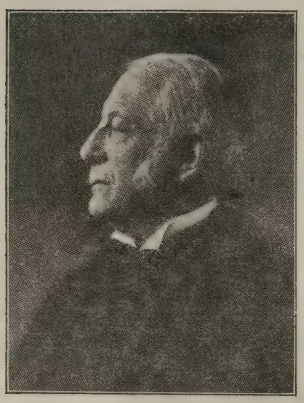
16mo; 110 pages; 85 cents postpaid. Vol. IV of "True American Types"

The narrative of the varied career of one of Maine's expert lumbermen, who was also a bold and skilful waterman and a great hunter. Until reading this book one would hardly realize the fund of knowledge, the fertility of resource, the ability for self-education and aesthetic culture to be associated with this true type, however much David Libbey himself might surpass the average of a class of men also distinguished for their honesty, courage, loyalty, versatility and singular ability to cope with emergencies.

Address to Young Men

By Charles W. Eliot

Single copies, 10 cents; 12 copies $1.00 postpaid;
100 copies, $8.00, including delivery



Although delivered to a class of college freshmen, the author leads his hearers beyond college days into a serious consideration of the successive stages of life for which one can be adequately prepared only by the exercise, far in advance, of careful thought and prudent restraint. In his simple, compelling style the conclusions of an unusually rich experience are here laid before those who, on the threshold of life, can hardly fail to realize the significance of the program so convincingly outlined.

Printed in two colors on buff Japan paper, this booklet of twenty pages (size 4x6 in.) will be found a model of attractiveness for presentation to young men.

Four American Leaders

By Charles W. Eliot

12mo; 126 pages; $1.10 postpaid

The study of history and biography of great men is an effective way by which to get a proper perspective of present men and events. Such a perspective can be obtained from this book, and these essays on Franklin, Washington, Channing, and Emerson, condensed in expression and broad in suggestiveness, summarize the influence of these great Americans in shaping the political, moral, and intellectual trend of the Republic and by their lives and writings in framing American ideals.

John Gilley
Maine Farmer and Fisherman

By Charles W. Eliot

16mo; 72 pages; $1.10 postpaid. Vol. I of "True American Types"

The brief record of a Maine farmer and fisherman, in whose simple, dignified, though obscure life is found that type of hardy character and rugged virtue in which lie the best hopes of the race. "This is the life," the closing paragraph of the book runs, "of one of the forgotten millions. It contains no material for distinction, fame, or long remembrance; but it does contain the material and present the scene for a normal human development through mingled joy and sorrow, labor and rest, adversity and success, and through the tender loves of childhood, maturity, and age. We cannot but believe that it is just for countless quiet, simple lives like this that God made and upholds this earth."

The Road to Unity Among the Christian Churches

By Charles W. Eliot

16mo; 80 pages; $1.10 postpaid

The Arthur Emmons Pearson Foundation was created to promote the "advancement of mutual understanding and helpfulness between the people of all denominations and creeds. . . . and shall not become an agency to further the particular beliefs of any sect."

The first Unification Address of this Foundation reveals the fact that creeds and dogmas, intended to crystallize religious beliefs and make them uniform and permanent, have always failed to produce either uniformity or permanence in religious thought and practice, and predicts that if the divided churches would submerge their theoretical differences and emphasize their agreement in essentials, they would find the general temper of society favorable on their part to unite for the worship of God and the service of man.

William Greenleaf Eliot

By Charlotte C. Eliot

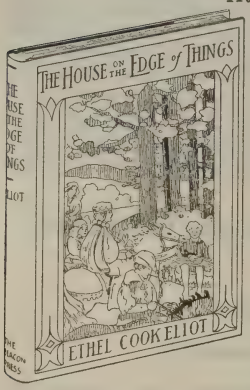
12mo; 376 pages; $1.85 postpaid

A narrative of over fifty years of labor in the interest of a higher civilization of religion, morality, and learning, which, although in the form of a personal memoir, incidentally relates to events of historical importance, and depicts life in the West during its formative period under conditions that will not recur.

The House on the Edge of Things

By Ethel Cook Eliot

Illustrated by Frances Eliot Fremont-Smith
110 pages; $2.00 postpaid



The fairy stories by this well-known author have a unique place in literature for children. Charming in style, they are wonderfully beautiful and rare in their understanding of the child's heart and mind. Gifted with an imagination, a love of nature, and an unusual understanding of children, the author carries them to fairyland, and has them play with the fairies of the rain, stars, wind and sea.

The line and color drawings by Frances Eliot Fremont-Smith admirably supplement the stories and make this a truly wonderful book for children.

The Unwrought Iron

By Frederick May Eliot

243 pages; $1.35 postpaid

Religion is here conceived as a personal experience, in which each generation receives as its heritage the results of past experiences, and works upon these results in three phases of religion—worship, thought and service. Thoroughly scientific in method and presentation it is at the same time deeply religious. The clear and forceful style impels the youthful reader to pursue the subjects eagerly; to think upon them clearly, to enter into a religious experience of his own and to embody the results in his daily life.

Heralds of a Liberal Faith

Edited by Samuel A. Eliot

Vol. I. The Prophets. Vol. II. The Pioneers.
Vol. III. The Preachers.

8vo; 375 pages per vol.; $1.45 postpaid

Biographical sketches of leading Unitarian ministers from the origin of the Unitarian movement down to the beginning of the present century. The student of the Unitarian movement can find here the whole story of its origin and development. Complete biographies are given of all the leading ministers and the volumes are an unparalleled storehouse of information, anecdote and inspiration to all who are interested in the motives and achievements of the Unitarian cause and its leaders.

Unitarian Thought

By Ephraim Emerton

311 pages; $1.35 postpaid

To those who wish to know the fundamental beliefs of the Unitarians this book will prove most helpful and valuable.

"A book intended 'neither to excite controversy nor to settle it, but only to state fairly its own constructive propositions.' . . . Every reader will admit that the author has succeeded in doing what he set out to do. The result is a distinct service to clear thinking, whatever the impression may be as to the distinctive value of Unitarian thought or its satisfactoriness as an adequate interpretation of the world fact of Christianity itself."—Chicago Tribune.

Immortality and Other Essays

By Charles Carroll Everett

12mo; 280 pages; $1.55 postpaid

"With this book in hand we sit at the feet of a teacher of sweetness and light, who has much to teach us, but far more to confide in us, rather as a friend, too, than as a mere teacher. These are delightful spiritual conversations that dwell with us after we lay the book aside, and that surely incorporate themselves into and elevate our daily thought. The message they bring is broad and humanizing and healthfully simple, pointing out paths of an unostentatious faith and a daily creed without mystery."—Boston Transcript.

The Eternal Presence

By William Henry Fish, Jr.

200 pages; $1.15 postpaid

Reason proclaims a goal for thought. Religion finds it. The Eternal Presence means not the mind's idea of God, but the reality experienced by the soul. Faith is no mere belief in a metaphysical object presupposed by all quest of truth and goodness and beauty; it is the finding of the Blessed Reality in spiritual vision. The Eternal Presence thus glimpsed is the healing of sorrows and the spring of transcendent hopes.

How a Modern Atheist Found God

By G. A. Ferguson

16mo; 128 pages; 85 cents postpaid

This is the intimate revelation of the spiritual experience of a man who was at first devout in his orthodox faith, then began to doubt, and through his reading and study became an atheist, but finally found his way to a sure faith in God. The problems which he had to solve and the difficulties he had to overcome must be similar to those which are perplexing so many seekers after truth at the present time, when science and historical criticism are making such inroads on the orthodox forms of belief. The processes of his reasoning and the books which influenced his change of thought in his religious pilgrimage are set forth in the narrative.

Freedom and the Churches

The Contributions of American Churches to Civil and Religious Liberty

By Various Authors

12mo; 115 pages; $1.10 postpaid

A series of ten papers by prominent representatives of as many denominations, setting forth succinctly the services rendered by their respective fellowships in promoting the cause of freedom in religion and the political order. The following well-known writers take part in the symposium:

Prof. Walter Rauschenbush (Baptist).
Prof. Williston Walker (Congregationalist).
Dr. O. E. Janney (Friend).

Dr. H. G. Enelow (Jew).
Dr. Lewis M. Lounsbury (Methodist).
Dr. Paul M. Strayer (Presbyterian).
Dr. Wm. Elliot Griffis (Reformed).
Dr. L. Walter Mason (Unitarian).
Dr. Isaac M. Atwood (Universalist).
Edwin D. Mead (Religious Radical).

The little volume, which has been edited by Dr. C. W. Wendte, will be found to be a stimulating and valuable contribution to the history of freedom in America.

Freedom and Truth

Modern Views of Unitarian Christianity

By Various Authors

352 pages; $2.00 postpaid

A series of essays on modern views of Unitarian Christianity by prominent representatives of the English and American churches. The contents are well indicated by the following chapters: "Three Stages of Unitarian Theology," by James Martineau; "Unitarian Christianity in the Twentieth Century," by Sidney H. Mellone; "The Idea of God," by George R. Dodson; "The Old Testament," by Robert T. Herford; "The Historical Jesus," by Clayton R. Bowen; "The Value and Significance of Jesus," by Henry Gow; "The Christian Way of Life in New England," by William W. Fenn; "The Spirit of Unitarian Philanthropy," by William G. Tarrant; "The Unitarian Movement," by Francis A. Christie.

Transcendentalism in New England

By Octavius B. Frothingham

8vo; 395 pages; Paper, 60 cents postpaid

This is not a critical or philosophical account of Transcendentalism in New England, but a plain history which presents the subject with the smallest possible admixture of discussion either in defence or opposition. The history of the movement is traced from its beginning in Kant and sufficient references are given for the direction of those who wish to better acquaint themselves with the philosophy.

We Believe

By Paul Revere Frothingham

16mo; 117 pages; $1.00 postpaid

A cultured, intellectual, helpful discourse on the five points in liberal Christianity. The author brings illuminating material out of the best thought and experience of recent years to make the five points vital. A confident promise that the doctrine of the brotherhood of man will eventually prove the white beacon light that will lead the world to lasting peace. Every page rings with hope, with comfort and with truth.

The House Beautiful

By William C. Gannett

60 pages; 85 cents postpaid

This most attractive little book describes in a most inspiring manner how to make a home beautiful. For what is a house if it cannot be called a home?

"Slowly the new home grows holy as the deepening wedding thus goes on; holy, for the making of two souls—two yet one—is going on in it. . . . Business, sorrows, joys, temptations, failures, victories, ideals, are all shared in it. . . . The supreme beauty is attained when both realize that the inmost secret of true marriage is—to love the ideals better than each other."

The Little Child at the Breakfast Table

By William C. Gannett

16mo; 81 pages; 85 cents postpaid

In many homes to-day there exists an unsatisfied desire for some simple means by which the members of the household may obtain a brief inspiration for the work of the busy day through contact with more enduring and uplifting currents of thought than may be found in the morning paper or the day's toil—a means of inculcating into the lives of impressionable and growing children that spirit of quiet reverence and worship of the divine ideal, which alone can guide them aright through the paths of life. We believe that there are many parents vaguely longing for some kind of "household altar" adapted to our own time and feeling, and accordingly we are glad to have the opportunity of offering this volume to the public.

The Story of the New Testament

By Edgar J. Goodspeed

12mo; 162 pages; $1.10 postpaid

The purpose of this book is to acquaint readers with the contents of the New Testament, to show how these writings came into existence and how they obtained the unforeseen dignity of sacred Scripture. At the same time the effort is made to show the intimate connection of the New Testament documents with the people among whom they appeared, so that these Christians may be made real to the reader, as they lived, felt, thought, and suffered during those tragic years.

"Great Affirmations" Series

A Unitarian library of paper-covered books

The purpose of this library is to furnish some of the most notable of the older books published by the American Unitarian Association at nominal prices that scarcely more than cover the cost of paper, presswork and binding. In some cases the price is even less than cost. In this way it is felt that these important books may have a wider circulation and more extensive reading than would otherwise be possible.

The list of titles is as follows:

Pillars of the Temple, by Minot J. Savage. 12mo. 226 pages. 60 cents postpaid. See page 51.

Some Ethical Phases of the Labor Question, by Carroll D. Wright. 12mo. 207 pages. 35 cents postpaid. See page 63.

The Supremacy of Jesus, by Joseph Henry Crooker. 12mo. 186 pages. 60 cents postpaid. See page 19.

Tides of the Spirit, by James Martineau. 12mo. 198 pages. 35 cents postpaid. See page 43.

Ralph Waldo Emerson

(WITH TWO EARLY ESSAYS OF EMERSON)

By Edward Everett Hale

Paper; 16mo; 135 pages; 85 cents postpaid

A little book of affectionate reminiscences and grateful appreciation of the Concord philosopher presenting the strong, simple, practical, every-day side of Emerson's character. To the charm of the style is added the freshness of personal experience. The latter half of the volume consists of two early essays by Emerson, written when a college undergraduate, and not included in his collected work.

The Hills of God

By Miles Hanson

256 pages; $2.00 postpaid

These sermons of every-day interest, illuminated by wise comment and apt illustration, reveal the author's deep concern for the personal religion of his hearers. The author has had a varied experience of human life. He has suffered and he has rejoiced. He has toiled and he has played. He comes close to the interests of his people, and this volume reveals a deep sympathy and understanding.

Behold a Sower!

By M. Louise C. Hastings

224 pages; $1.65 postpaid

A book of selections from various authors, to be used in the home or the school-room. In verse and prose the reader becomes familiar with such writers as Charles Gordon Ames, Phillips Brooks, John W. Chadwick, James Freeman Clarke and many character-building authors of the past and present.

The Readings are arranged week by week for one year, with a special subject such as The Power of Little Things, Dreams and Ideals, Work, Courage, accorded each week. A short Bible quotation gives the keynote to each day's reading. A book of 224 pages, well bound in gray green cloth, "Behold a Sower!" will prove one of the most interesting of books.

Reason in Religion

By Frederic H. Hedge

12mo; 458 pages; Cloth, $1.40 postpaid; Paper, 85 cents postpaid

A book seeking to show the necessary place which reason must hold in religious thought, since the cause of reason is the cause of religion, and should enter into the true construction of the faith of the church, if its "doctrinal fabrics" are to withstand assault. Throughout the volume is given a wholesome amount of positive religious truth.

The Jewish Religion in the Time of Jesus

By G. Hollmann

12mo; 148 pages; $1.10 postpaid

The author has sought to make concisely available the present state of investigation in his subject, as it is exhibited especially in the great works of Schurer and Bousset. "Considering the uncertainty and obscurity in which, in spite of all the labors of the last ten years, later Judaism is still involved, I have aimed to bring out sharply and clearly the decisive and fundamental lines. I have intentionally dealt somewhat more fully with the Jewish apocalyptic, because it is least known to the lay reader and because it is on this ground that so many preconditions for understanding the thought-world of Jesus are to be found."

Religion for To-day

By John Haynes Holmes

347 pages; $1.65 postpaid

"Religion for To-day" forecasts the stupendous "new order" in no uncertain language. The reader may not agree in detail with its prophetic conclusions; but that it states in language which is forceful, adequate and convincing, the inevitable changes that are taking place to-day and the necessities of religion in the impending future no one can deny. It is not a negative and iconoclastic book. Nowhere does it condemn past expressions of religion in an unsympathetic spirit. It is an earnest, truthful and eloquent discussion of changes that are as inevitable as they are vital. Best of all, the book is, itself, an illustration of religion in action.

The Apostles' Creed

By Archibald Hopkins

12mo; 207 pages; 75 cents postpaid

A thoroughly clear and discriminating examination of the Apostles' Creed, clause by clause. The special treatment in this volume is that of a layman applying principles of common sense and of clear, logical, untechnical processes of thought to the problems involved.

The Thought of God in Hymns and Poems

THREE SERIES IN ONE

By Frederick L. Hosmer and William C. Gannett

18mo; 352 pages; $1.50 postpaid

A volume of devotional verse, the beauty and devoutness of which has for years commended it to all religious minds. "These volumes contain the most important original contributions to liberal Hymnology since the books of Longfellow and Johnson."

The first two series have been out of print for some years, but in response to the persistent demand, they have been reprinted, unabridged, together with a new series, all of which are now published in one volume and offered to lovers of beautiful lyrics.

The Shepherd's Question

By Burt Estes Howard

12 mo; 62 pages; 90 cents postpaid

Here is a volume which, in the rhythmic language of the heart and with the prophetic note of the spirit, compels the reader to agree with its author that "the idea of immortality is not the product of labored reason, for man has not toiled to it up the long stairway of logic," but that "it is planted as an instinct at the very foundation of his being."

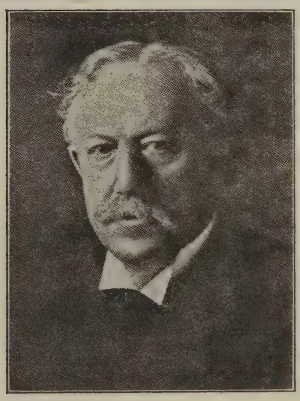
The Test

By Burt Estes Howard

12mo; 130 pages; $1.35 postpaid

Vivid descriptions of historical scenes, apt illustrations from literature and mythology, rhapsodies of Nature-mysticism, daring phrases and clear argument, all are woven into these essays. The book is a mirror of that simple gospel which Jesus taught and lived, and which the writer describes as "full of the open air of the hills, and the breath of the sea, and the freedom of children."

America's Conquest of Europe



By David Starr Jordan

85 cents postpaid

America's conquest will be by the ideals of internationalism and democracy, marking the coming of universal peace. Because of her peculiar inherent fitness for the task and the position which she holds, she can, if she will, bring about the feeling of true brotherhood among all the powers of the earth. The book also contains an address delivered in Ghent, entitled "World Peace and the Treaty of Ghent."

The Call of the Nation

By David Starr Jordan

$1.10 postpaid

A plea for "taking politics out of politics," with salient comments on Conservation, Direct Primaries, Public Utilities, National Sanitation, and other vital topics.

The Call of the Twentieth Century

By David Starr Jordan

$1.10 postpaid

Society would be done a service if this brief volume, so full of wisdom and inspiration, of sane counsel and rare insight, could find its way into the minds and hearts of all American youth.

College and the Man

By David Starr Jordan

$1.10 postpaid

Into an exposition of the value of college training, associations and ideals, is woven sound counsel upon fundamental principles of character and conduct that might well inspire young men who must be content with self-education.

The Heredity of Richard Roe

By David Starr Jordan

$1.25 postpaid

Richard Roe, a familiar figure in legal practice, serves as a lay figure of heredity, and in tracing his career some of the leading facts and principles of Eugenics are brought under notice. The purpose of the study of Eugenics is to know the kind of ancestors that we should pick for the next generation. A broader knowledge of this immensely important subject will lead to better men.

The Higher Sacrifice

By David Starr Jordan

90 cents postpaid

An appeal to college-trained youth to forego selfish or personal ambitions, and to devote their intelligent, money-getting power to the higher service of the common good, although they thereby sacrifice many opportunities for satisfying legitimate tastes and inclinations which their cultured outlook on life would enable them to appreciate and enjoy.

The Human Harvest

By David Starr Jordan

$1.10 postpaid

"A study of the decay of races through the survival of the unfit." A tremendous problem, involving the nation's and the race's future, is dealt with in a powerful, uncompromising, and convincing way that merits the attention of every serious student of present-day conditions and tendencies.

The Innumerable Company

By David Starr Jordan

60 cents postpaid

The account of an imaginary journey illustrating the diversity of paths into which differences of opinion in matters of religious doctrine lead searchers after truth, portrayed in rare sympathy of spirit and keenness of insight.

Life's Enthusiasms

By David Starr Jordan

90 cents postpaid

A little volume full of the high thoughts that give rise to noble and lasting impulses from the idealistic visions which animate youth to the steadfast purposes which guide maturer age.

The Philosophy of Hope

By David Starr Jordan

$1.10 postpaid

A scholarly philippic against pessimism, which, without being in any true sense a helping factor in human betterment, surely works unnecessary discouragement and deters cheerful endeavor.

The Religion of a Sensible American

By David Starr Jordan

$1.10 postpaid

The practical working religion of a leader and teacher of youth in a great university, as set forth by the President of that university, who intimately knew him and his influence.

The Story of a Good Woman

By David Starr Jordan

$1.00 postpaid

It is the story, as the author states early in his narrative, of "the six dark years from eighteen ninety-three to eighteen ninety-nine, those days in which the future of a university hung by a single thread, but that thread the greatest thing in the world—the love of a good woman."

The Strength of Being Clean

By David Starr Jordan

$1.35 postpaid

A brilliant White Cross address, showing the folly of the quest for unearned happiness, and treating of certain popular vices with reserve but with power.

Ulrich Von Hutten

By David Starr Jordan

85 cents postpaid

A venturesome, free-born spirit of the time of the Protestant Reformation, who took a valiant part in spreading the flame of religious and intellectual freedom.

Unseen Empire

A Study of the Plight of Nations that do not pay their debts

By David Starr Jordan

$1.35 postpaid

Dr. Jordan shows that civilized nations are all in their degree under the domination of a power stronger than kings or parliaments, more lasting than armies or navies, the unseen Empire of Finance. He further shows that this mastery is not now in the hands of individual men, however powerful, but that it has passed over into an impersonal Empire of Debt. Many of the essential statements which Dr. Jordan makes have been verified by leading bankers both in this country and abroad. There is an "unseen empire" that can to a certain, and perhaps to a large, degree sway the destinies of nations, and the method, if not the exact extent of it, is told in this highly informing and suggestive volume.

War and the Breed

By David Starr Jordan

12mo; 265 pages; $1.60 postpaid

One of the arguments advanced in favor of war is that great conflicts are necessary in the great world-scheme as "clearing storms for the population," just as a great plague in congested districts plays its part in natural selection. The author of War and the Breed opposes this assertion, bringing to strengthen his opinion a striking array of facts, showing that war reverses the process of natural selection and fails to promote the "survival of the fittest."

The men chosen for the armies are the flower of the nation, and the fathers of future generations are not those, therefore, who have been strong enough to escape the ravages of disease, but those who were physically unfit for the army or fortunate enough to escape death in battle.

Note—This set of sixteen volumes is particularly attractive for gift purposes.

Ethical Aspects of Evolution

By J. C. Kimball

420 pages; $1.40 postpaid

A collection of lectures dealing with the relation of evolution to some of the ethical problems which the world has been trying to solve; together with six sermons. The author writes from a knowledge gained by years of careful study and experience and the book interests one, not only because of the vital importance of the subject which he discusses, but also because it reveals the man behind it all, with his sympathy for mankind, his independence of thought and—not the least—his fund of humor.

The Romance of Evolution

By J. C. Kimball

325 pages; $1.40 postpaid

While the title of this volume might be considered at first to be somewhat paradoxical, the author is convinced that evolution is vastly more romantic and beautiful than the fanciful and outworn theories of the past, that truth is infinitely stranger than fiction, that the phenomena of the universe, when revealed by the light of evolution, seem more wonderful than when seen in the unreal light of tradition and conjecture. The treatment of the subject is scholarly, revealing a wealth of intimate knowledge, and at the same time is of such a nature as to make the book appeal to the average reader.

Joshua James, Life-Saver

By Sumner I. Kimball

16mo; 102 pages; 85 cents postpaid. Vol. VI of "True American Types"

One of the finest types of American manhood is to be found in the crews of the United States Life-Saving Service. For quiet devotion to duty and unpretentious heroism the thrilling annals of the Service are unsurpassed. The subject of this sketch for sixty years gave himself unreservedly to this noble form of the world's work, and thereby became probably the best known life-saver in the world.

Great Companions

By Robert French Leavens

Frontis of author. DuPont Fabrikoid; $2.00 postpaid

This book has been compiled with the full realization that a body of scriptures is a living and growing organism rather than a finished literary production. Every people has its body of inspiring traditions, every religion its holy book. Here are many human voices, each expressing a distinct faith, but it has been the intent of the author to use such care in selection and arrangement that the book should attain to a certain harmonious synthesis.

The minister will find here the classic, ethical, and religious material that he seeks for the enrichment of the church service. Its broad scope makes it an excellent book to read aloud in schools and homes, or for private reading, quiet study, and meditation. Since many of the passages need their original settings to show their full force and beauty, the book will serve as an invitation to a wider reading and other discoveries in the great volume of human writings.

The Touch of Nature

By Augustus M. Lord

Illustrated. 12mo; 152 pages; $1.15 postpaid

A delightful book for young or old, containing thirteen "little tales of great peoples." One travels with the author from the Flowery Kingdom of the Eastern seas to the green shore of the Emerald Isle, from the frigid air of the Norseland to the balmy breezes of sun-bathed Italy, and to the majestic forests of the American Indian. Although entertaining in a very real way, the book serves as well to give suggestive ideas concerning the manners, customs and characteristics of different peoples.

Self-Training for Motherhood

By Sophia Lovejoy

Paper; 16mo; 160 pages; 85 cents postpaid

Rarely has so much material of practical helpfulness been given briefly and interestingly upon the training of children. The volume written intimately as by an older, experienced friend to a young mother abounds in delightful suggestions as to the best ways of guiding the young from early childhood to maturer years. The book may well extend its influence beyond the mother in the home to the many mother associations connected with women's clubs, schools and churches.

A Study of the Christian Sects

By William H. Lyon, D. D.

Revised by John Malick

257 pages; $2.00 postpaid

A just and sympathetic account of the history and doctrines of the various religious bodies, setting forth the agreements and differences among them. The various chapters have been submitted to officials or prominent members of the sects under consideration, and in every case the suggested corrections have been made. It is an authentic presentation of the tenets of the various faiths. To those who desire the salient facts about their own church and to those who desire to learn about the doctrines of other churches, this book will prove of distinct value.

The Liberal Gospel

AS SET FORTH IN THE WRITINGS OF
WILLIAM ELLERY CHANNING

Edited by Charles H. Lyttle, Th. D.

257 pages; $2.00 postpaid

This volume consists of one hundred and eighty-four selected passages from both the "Works" and the "Life of Channing." Dr. Lyttle has made his selection with intelligent care and an infallible instinct for the best of Channing's spirit. The extracts are prefaced with a brilliant Introduction, followed by an adequate Bibliography.

The Faith of the Incarnation

By Clay MacCauley

12mo; 429 pages; $1.60 postpaid

For people who want conscientiously to know the historical value of Christianity and who desire to understand how that faith has persisted through the centuries. this elucidating volume is heartily recommended. It is the personal experience of the author, gained through many years of ministry over American churches, both of the orthodox and the liberal faith, together with a long and faithful service as representative of the American Unitarian Association in Japan, where our cause under his hands has gained large influence and an enviable standing. The book has been printed in Japan, but feeling that many persons in this country would be interested in it we are glad to add it to our list, as an important contribution to modern religious thought and larger Christian fellowship.

The Marriage Service

White leather; 16mo; $1.55 postpaid

The form of ceremony in general use in the Unitarian churches. Attractively printed in two colors on Japanese vellum. Bound in white limp leather, stamped in gold, with special marriage certificate inserted. Each book encased in a white box. Particularly fitting as a wedding gift from the minister to the bride.

Endeavors After the Christian Life

By James Martineau

12mo; 449 pages; $1.15 postpaid

Strong, calm, strengthening discourses, which treat not of subjects whose interest is critical or speculative, but of the simplest truths and aspirations of the human heart; not of matters which lose interest with the changing aspects of theology, but of those fundamental principles of the religious life which profoundly affect human conduct.

Studies of Christianity

By James Martineau

12mo; 494 pages; $1.10 postpaid

It is indeed what its sub-title indicates, a volume of "Timely Thoughts for Religious Thinkers." "Take this volume for all in all, it is the product of a bold, independent and original mind; from the beginning to the end it throbs with life, is suggestive in almost every sentence, opens wide visions of thought on questions that concern the sublimest interests of the soul, and deals with them in a manner worthy of their sublimity."

Tides of the Spirit

By James Martineau

12mo; 198 pages; Paper, 35 cents postpaid

Made up of selections from the religious and devotional writings of Martineau, this little volume is in the nature of a manual of devout thought and rational piety, marked by passages combining clear moral vision and fine spiritual judgment, together with remarkable beauty of expression. The editor, Albert Lazenby, was a pupil of Martineau, and his critical exposition of the writings of his great teacher, as illustrated in the selected passages, forms a fitting introduction.

The Influence of Emerson

By Edwin D. Mead

12mo; 304 pages; $1.35 postpaid

Emerson's philosophy is here studied largely in its relation to modern scientific and ethical problems. Emerson anticipated in a multitude of ways the distinctive position of modern science, as Tyndall and so many other scientific leaders have strikingly testified. This is brought out with clearness and force in the first portion of the book. Nowhere perhaps is Emerson's thought more distinctly revealed than in relation to two of his great religious and literary friends, Theodore Parker and Carlyle, with whom he shows such affinities and such contrasts; with this topic the last two chapters deal.

The Art of Married Life

By George S. Merriam

16mo; Flexible leather, $1.05 postpaid;
Paper, 45 cents postpaid

The opportunities, privileges, joys, duties and mutual obligations of married life presented in a most persuasive and compelling way. Eminently fitted as a gift to newly married people, and for use by ministers for this purpose, it can be had with a marriage certificate bound in facing the title page (at no extra charge). The booklet is printed in red and black throughout and is exceptionally attractive.

In two bindings: white ooze flexible calf with ripple silk paper lining, and cover stamping in gold, boxed; also paper covers, stamped in ink, and enclosed in an envelope to match.

For the Benefit of My Creditors

By Hinckley G. Mitchell
With Foreword by Dallas Lore Sharp

Frontis. 8vo; 336 pages; $2.25 postpaid

The autobiography of the distinguished professor in Boston University School of Theology with all the important letters, and documents in the famous "heresy" case.

The story of Professor Mitchell's life records the incidents of his early boyhood, the period spent in Wesleyan University, the years of theological study in Boston and those spent abroad in post-graduate work. That section of the book, however, that recounts the experience of storm and stress where the author was denounced as a heretic, will hold the reader in alternating moods of pity for the victim and indignation toward those who persecuted him.

"... Every minister in Methodism should purchase and read FOR THE BENEFIT OF MY CREDITORS, not simply for its biographical interest, but because the Mitchell case affords an instance of the tragic outcome of theological intolerance and doctrinal narrowness." Zion's Herald (Methodist).

Minister's Handbook

2 volumes; about 100 pages per volume; Leather $1.60 postpaid

The product of a competent committee of the Unitarian fellowship, containing material essential to every minister in the conduct of his work. The arrangement is most modern, while in fullest sympathy with all that has proved best by established usage. Volume II presents a choice selection of poems from a vast field of material.

Sources of Faith and Hope

By Herbert H. Mott

150 pages; 85 cents postpaid

This book gives straight answers to the questions which a thoughtful and reverent young person would ask, had such a person never heard of a church or its teachings. The human soul, what reason have we for believing in its existence? What are the relations between the soul and the body? Why should the soul of a human being recognize any direct and personal relation with God? What are the eternal laws of right conduct? Why should this life be considered preliminary to a continued spiritual consciousness?

Such questions are met frankly, wisely and sympathetically. The book is written in the language that a wise father would use if instructing his own son—simple, concise and free from all mystifying technicalities.

Peter and Paul and Their Friends

By Helen Nicolay

290 pages; $1.25 postpaid

An interesting study, by an author of acknowledged ability, of the lines of the early Apostles, told in such an intimate manner that these New Testament characters become real people.

New Pilgrimages of the Spirit

168 pages; $1.65 postpaid

The proceedings and representative papers of the interesting Pilgrim Tercentenary Meeting of the International Congress of Religious Liberals which was held in Boston in the fall of 1920.

Prayers

By Theodore Parker

12mo; 218 pages; $1.10 postpaid

"It is in the very spirit of devotion, the gentle or the martial, that these prayers were conceived and uttered. Like so many of his predecessors in the New England pulpit, Theodore Parker was 'mighty in prayer.' It was the natural language of his soul."—From the Memoir which F. B. Sanborn contributes to the volume. The Preface is by Louisa M. Alcott.

Views of Religion

By Theodore Parker

8vo; 466 pages; $1.15 postpaid

"A living book which will stimulate thought, kindle aspiration, quicken languid powers of devotion, and strengthen men in their belief in God, in their love of humanity, and in their hope of eternal life." The selections have been confined to Parker's religious affirmations, in which the warmth of heart and the devoutness of spirit of the man are best revealed. Parker believed with all his soul and strength in God, duty, and immortality. To him God was personal Friend, universal Father, whose worship filled his mind and heart.

The Works of Theodore Parker

Centenary Edition

15 volumes; 8vo; about 400 pages per volume; $1.15 per vol. postpaid

To one who is acquainted with the present drift in theology and knows the ever-broadening and rationalizing tendencies of modern religious thought, Theodore Parker spoke the truth when he affirmed, "The religion which I preach will be the religion of enlightened men for the next thousand years." In partial fulfilment of this prophecy it is to be noted that his writings have been translated into various modern languages and the vernaculars of India. It may safely be affirmed that he is the American theologian best known to the religious world in Europe to-day, and is more widely influential than any other on its religious thought and life.

In further realization of Parker's vision of future service the present complete and definitive edition of his writings is issued, having been made possible by the generous interest of a former supporter and friend of the great preacher, the late John C. Haynes of Boston, who thus desired to express his admiration and gratitude for the inspirer of his early manhood. No such valuable and authentic collection has been possible until now. The present edition aims to supply the existing need for a full, inexpensive and final collection of his writings, and it is hoped that it will create renewed interest in the utterances of this great preacher of personal religion and social reform, causing his word to go forth with undiminished inspiring and formative power to this and succeeding generations.

A complete index will be found in the last volume. The titles and editors of the volumes are as follows:

Volume XV. Bibliography and Index. Edited by Charles W. Wendte.

The Creed of Epictetus

By Ulysses G. B. Pierce

268 pages; $1.50 postpaid

The author calls attention to the eminently practical character of the mind of Epictetus. He used homely and vivid figures of speech, clothing his thoughts in simple language. His are "the words of one who speaks in the open and whose concern is for the throngs in the highway of life." Those who have limited their reading of Epictetus to the Manual are unfortunate, for there are vast and varied stores of wisdom contained in the Discourses. In his arrangement he puts before the reader the best and most inspiring thought of Epictetus. Arrian, who recorded the sayings of Epictetus, was more faithful in his recording than he was skillful in arranging the Discourses of his teacher. The author has eliminated and systematized the messages. His aim was not to gather a volume of selections, but to organize and present the thoughts of Epictetus in such a way that they will be connected. He ignores Arrian's division of the material into the Discourses and the Manual, and his arrangement of the Discourses in books and chapters, but resolves the entire subject matter into its thought elements. The labor has been great, and readers of Epictetus will appreciate what he has done.

The Soul of the Bible

Edited by Ulysses G. B. Pierce

12mo; 544 pages; Cloth, $1.65 postpaid. Flexible leather, full gilt edges, narrow margins reducing the size to a 16mo, $2.00 postpaid

Selected passages from the Old and the New Testaments and the Apocrypha arranged as synthetic readings in Biblical order. Each reading is a literary unit, dealing with but one subject, and calculated to make a definite religious impression. In each selection the whole Bible is drawn upon as needed to develop the subject. Isolated passages are brought into natural relation with the larger thought of which they are generic parts, thus utilizing many short passages of great beauty and power which would otherwise be neglected because of their fragmentary character. The readings are presented in true literary form, prose and poetry being properly distinguished. The book is provided with a list of the readings suitable for various occasions, an index of topics, and a general index. The selections are representative of what is best in the Bible, and the method of selection is such as to reveal "the soul of the Bible," not as selections merely, but as scripture readings admirably adapted for use in church, school and home.

Pioneers of Religious Liberty in America

By Various Authors

8vo; 396 pages; Cloth, $1.65 postpaid; Paper, 60 cents postpaid

The well-known contributors to this volume set forth some of the great principles through which religious freedom in this country was achieved, and the connection with these principles of the great men who advocated them and gave them their enduring power. These eleven champions of religious freedom were truly pioneers in the work in which they became so conspicuous, and the significance of our present freedom of religious thought is made clear by this account of the inception and growth of the religious principles which constitute so valued a part of our religious heritage.

Who Are The Unitarians?

By Augustus P. Reccord

12mo; 146 pages; $1.60 postpaid

A clear concise statement of the beliefs held by Unitarians, with a brief history of the origin and growth of this denomination. Although in a free church without bishops or other ecclesiastical authorities, no one is authorized to speak for the denomination, the author states the position held pretty generally by Unitarians regarding God, Jesus, the Holy Spirit, Salvation, the Future Life, and the Bible.

The Democratic Ideal

By Milton Reed

12mo; 55 pages; 80 cents postpaid

A calm, rational, dispassionate survey of the democratic method of government, with an indication of those respects in which the American people are not living up to their highest principles, but pointing out in a reasonable spirit the simple truths needing recognition to hold us true in our course of apparently triumphant democracy. The author idealizes the American spirit and American traditions, and looks beyond the temporary expediencies of these over-feverish days for the ultimate attainment of our noble destiny as a great nation.

The Sea of Faith

By Milton Reed

12mo; 111 pages; 90 cents postpaid

Faith rationalized and humanized as an essential part of man is ever seeking modification and fresh expression, but always tending toward the moral and spiritual perfection of man. The religious instinct which manifests itself in faith in the things which are not seen is one of the most profoundly interesting phenomena in the evolution of human thought, and the author of this little volume traces for us the many phases of religious faith and points out its proper place as a moral force in the life and action of our own times. The historic review furnishes an excellent perspective for adequately surveying the present religious landscape.

Living in Earnest

By Charles E. St. John

99 pages; 85 cents postpaid

This book is a collection of daily readings selected from the sermons and writings of the late Rev. Charles E. St. John. Compiled with great care by Mrs. St. John it will prove a most delightful and absorbing book for old and young alike. It would be difficult to find a more interesting collection of readings for each day of the year, and to the invalid or person confined indoors will prove a source of comfort and courage. This volume is especially suited as a gift book.

The Religion of the Dawn

By Charles E. St. John

16mo; 87 pages; Paper, 35 cents postpaid

This small book states in brief compass, as the religious convictions of a working Unitarian minister, the ideals and points of view which seem to him the most helpful to human life. The author finds in the thought of a God who is infinitely more than the universal man, and of a soul that is more than its body and therefore immortal, a standard upon which religion must forever rest. In the final chapter the author refers to the social evils of the present time, and maintains that the deepest work the church can do towards correcting them is to strive more earnestly to give all men the courage and character that spring from a knowledge and obedience to truth. The motives of love, hope, and passion for truth must be aroused in men's hearts, and it must be done with a fresh intensity of appeal to man's intelligence. This work offers the straight path toward justice upon the earth.

The Passing and the Permanent in Religion

By Minot J. Savage

16mo; 163 pages; $1.00 postpaid

The author was among the first to appreciate the religious significance of the advance of modern science, and boldly to ally religion and science in providing a satisfactory religious interpretation of life to the modern man. He speaks to the mind and heart of the great public. He brings the greatest themes within the grasp of the average man.

This title has been out of print for a number of years, but is now offered in an inexpensive edition.

Pillars of the Temple

By Minot J. Savage

12mo; 226 pages; Paper, 60 cents postpaid

This volume deals with the cardinal points of religious belief from the author's Unitarian point of view, and goes far to clear up confused popular ideas about these truths. The pillars upon which this temple is reared are sturdy columns of rational religious conceptions which devoutly concern the development of the higher life. There are chapters on "God," "Christ," "Heaven," "Hell," "The Bible," "Inspiration," "Salvation," and "The Church."

A Century of Unitarianism in the National Capital

By Jennie W. Scudder

Issued under the Auspices of the Laymen's League Chapter of All Souls Church, Washington, D. C.

A brief but complete history of the Unitarian movement in Washington, D. C., with interesting side lights on the early struggle. It also reveals the sterling character and distinguished positions of the clergy and laity affiliated with this organization from the days of its foundation.

The Nativity And The Consecration of Sir Galahad

By Eugene Rodman Shippen and Elizabeth Blount Shippen
Foreword by Percy MacKaye

Illustrated; 44 pages; $1.60 postpaid

These symbolic services were arranged expressly for presentation in the church. Seven full-page photographic illustrations and complete instructions for the simple setting, costuming and music are included in this volume. Three copies—one for the Director, one for "The Voice" and one for the Organist—are all that are required.

Sketches of Some Historic Churches of Greater Boston

By Various Authors

12mo; 150 pages; $1.60 postpaid

A decidedly interesting and remarkably complete story of the development of Unitarianism out of the hard, conservative Puritanism of early New England, as reflected in the history of twelve churches in Boston and vicinity.

The Great Affirmations of Religion

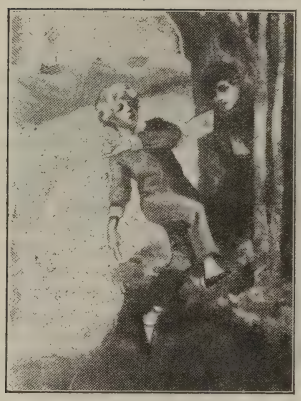
By Thomas R. Slicer

12mo; 248 pages; Cloth, $1.35 postpaid

The answers given by traditional religion do not satisfy a time marked by honest doubt and strenuous endeavor. The demand is urgent that religion shall give some account of itself which may leave it in possession of the field of attention, on which dogmatic theology and mediaeval usages find it difficult to maintain a footing. This volume is "not for beginners, but for beginners again,"—for those who, having given up old rounds of faith, are "out in search of a religion." The things here set forth are both intellectually reasonable, and spiritually efficient, contributing to the constructive process which is the very service Religion should render to Life.

Erick and Sally

By Johanna Spyri
Translated by Helene H. Boll

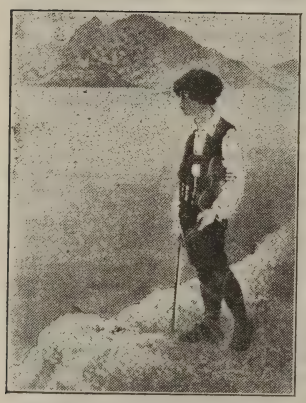


Illustrated in colors; 12mo; 173 pages; $1.50 postpaid

Written by the author of "Heidi" for children of ten to fourteen years it possesses a real plot and mystery in which the little aristocrat stands the test of lonesomeness and wins friends that stand by him until his astonished grandfather takes him to his heart. Both "The Story of Rico" and "Erick and Sally" are charming and safe. They will both help in the difficult task of inculcating a right spirit in the early years of adolescence.

The Story of Rico

By Johanna Spyri



Translated by Helene H. Boll

Illustrated in colors; 12mo; 163 pages; $1.50 postpaid

A book, which is wholesome and has interest and charm, written by the author of "Heidi", for children of the adolescent period. It unfolds the story of a little Italian orphan violinist who wanders from the mountain heights of Switzerland to a beautiful lake in Italy, where, to his amazement, he finds that he is the legal heir to an extensive estate.

Captain Thomas A. Scott
Master Diver

By F. Hopkinson Smith

16mo; 76 pages; $1.10 postpaid Vol. V of "True American Types"

Captain Scott, the head of the Scott Wrecking Company until his death, was a deep-sea worker and wrecker who had the reputation as a diver of going under water deeper and staying longer than any other man. Captain Scott is the original of Captain Joe in "Caleb West, Master Diver." At least two of the events here narrated would seem incredible from the pen of a less veracious biographer. Such heroism deserves this permanent record.

Social Ideals of a Free Church

By Various Authors

12mo; 150 pages; Cloth, $1.15 postpaid; Paper, 60 cents postpaid

Twelve papers of great interest and value to all students of social problems in their relation to the church by

Francis G. Peabody	Mrs. Annie L. Chesley
Mrs. Anna Garlin Spencer	Edgar S. Wiers
Frederick Almy	James O. Fagan
Dr. Charles P. Putnam	Charles F. Dole
Samuel M. Crothers	Paul R. Frothingham
Elmer S. Forbes	Edwin A. Rumball

Edited by Elmer S. Forbes, Secretary of the Department of Community Service.

A remarkable combination of mature and progressive theory and successful practice. Indispensable for one seeking to keep pace with the best efforts in this great field.

Sons of the Puritans

By Various Authors

Illustrated. 12mo; 244 pages; $1.65 postpaid

The eleven men whose careers are here described were all efficient servants of the public welfare. They were successful men of affairs, yet in their various callings and professions they were dominated by ideals of private honor and public serviceableness which made their careers different from those of men who seek selfish ends. To read the record of these lives is to have our eyes and thoughts lifted to the heights of honor. To each of the following a chapter is

From the Gospel to the Creeds

By William L. Sullivan

12mo; 212 pages; $1.10 postpaid

The author sketches the growth of Christianity, from the time when the Beatitudes were sufficient to the time when the creeds were obligatory, showing how doctrines and practices not found in the original Gospel became incorporated with it, with unfortunate results. This work will aid careful students, in an age of creed-questioning and religious unrest to rediscover Jesus' teaching, and to find therein spiritual insight and reassurance.

The Priest

By William L. Sullivan

12mo; 269 pages; $1.35 postpaid

A strong appeal for what may be called, in a large sense, religion rather than art; for a faithful reproduction of a profound spiritual struggle rather than for the technical perfection of the narrative that describes it. To those who are interested in the deeper side of life, in this profounder region of reality, this contribution to the literature of a great movement will be found most acceptable.

Because Men Are Not Stones

By J. T. Sunderland

164 pages; $1.50 postpaid

Every thinking man and woman in this age of science must, at all times, but particularly in moments of tragedy and despair, ask the question:—Is there a God? Does he know and does he care? What is the answer? Can it be answered affirmatively? The author believes that it can. His answer is not of dogmas and theologies but is the response of the whole rational, ethical and spiritual nature of man.

This is a book of vital religion dealing with the most living experiences and faiths that man can know. It is for minds that dare to think, for hearts that long for a better world and souls that cry out for a God that is not dead. It is an appeal to an age starving for a living religion.

The Origin and Character of the Bible

By J. T. Sunderland

12mo; 322 pages; $1.65 postpaid

This book, an enlarged and revised edition of "The Bible: Its Origin, Growth, and Character," and brought up to date in every way, embodies the results of the latest investigations along these lines. With illustrative tables, lists of the best books for reading and study, and several entirely new chapters, it sets forth the facts forcibly, in the light of large knowledge, yet in an eminently candid, catholic, and reverent spirit. At once scholarly and popular, it is probably the best exposition of the new view of the Bible yet published.

Evolution and Religion

By J. T. Sunderland

12mo. 162 pages; Cloth, $1.65 postpaid

This book meets the wants of those who find themselves compelled to believe in the truth of the doctrine of evolution, but who are anxiously asking the question, Does it not disturb the foundations of Christianity? There are chapters on the Evolution of the World, of Man, of Religion; on Pain and Evil, Immortality, the Bible, Jesus, and Christianity in the light of Evolution. The effect of modern knowledge of evolutionary processes upon our intellectual, moral, and religious conceptions is explained. Rational application of accepted facts of science is made to the world of religious ideas, and the necessary modification in the old conception of things clearly pointed out.

"Theological Translation Library"

From the German

The purpose of this library is to afford in careful, accurate and authorized translations some of the most important works of the liberal German scholars and professors of world reputation. These books incorporate the results of the latest and ablest researches in biblical and Christian sources, written in the strongest light which the most recent study and exploration furnish.

The volumes so far issued are as follows:

The Jewish Religion in the Time of Jesus, by G. Hollmann. 12mo. 148 pages. $1.10 postpaid. See page 33.

The Apostolic Age, by E. von Dobschutz. 12mo. 144 pages. $1.10 postpaid. See page 21.

Christ: The Beginnings of Dogma, by Johannes Weiss. 12mo. 160 pages. Cloth, $1.35 postpaid. Paper, 85 cents postpaid. See page 60.

A Minister of God

By John Hamilton Thom

Edited with a Memoir by V. D. Davis.

12mo; 216 pages; $1.10 postpaid

This volume of selections from the occasional sermons and addresses of the author is one notable, as are all of his other books, for its spiritual insight. Professor L. P. Jacks, editor of the Hibbert Journal, writes in part as follows: "His published writings convey the simple utterance of a man of God. As such they will long survive their author, and long continue to touch the deepest springs of human life. The sermons of Mr. Thom form a lasting storehouse of the bread of life. They are the expression of a soul manifestly impelled to utterance by the power of the spirit. If, as some say, Time has a secret for sifting out and preserving the true grain of human speech, then surely the work of this man is a permanent addition to the spiritual treasury of the race."

A Free Catholic Church

By J. M. Lloyd Thomas

12mo; 116 pages; 90 cents postpaid

A plea for the universal church by the submergence of dogmatism in theological thought and the recognition of a common, natural, and earnest spirit of reverence, worship, and service. The author dwells only on essentials, and relegates non-essentials to their proper place. The result is a sketch of the common ground on which all sincere, Christian people can worship.

"True American Types" Series

A unique series of books of which the aim is to "set forth in separate little volumes short sketches of the sterling American manhood which travels along the bypaths of life rather than in the highways of fame."

The list of titles is as follows:

Vol. I. John Gilley, Maine Farmer and Fisherman, by Charles W. Eliot. 16mo. 72 pages. $1.10 postpaid. See page 25.

Vol. 11. Augustus Conant, Illinois Pioneer and Preacher, by Robert Collyer. 16mo. 94 pages. 85 cents postpaid. See page 14.

Vol. III. Cap'n Chadwick, Marblehead Skipper and Shoemaker, by John W. Chadwick. 16mo. 87 pages. 85 cents postpaid. See page 9.

Vol. IV. David Libbey, Penobscot Woodsman and River Driver, by Fannie H. Eckstrom. 16mo. 110 pages. 85 cents postpaid. See page 24.

Vol. V. Captain Thomas A. Scott, Master Diver, by F. Hopkinson Smith. 16mo. 76 pages. $1.10 postpaid. See page 54.

The Unitarian Faith

set forth in fifty

Unitarian Hymns

60 pages: 85 cents postpaid

This collection of hymns has been selected from the large number written in the past one hundred years by men and women, all of whom have been known as Unitarians. The list of authors contains the names of fifteen Unitarian ministers, ten laymen, and three laywomen.

The multitudes who sing these hymns are usually quite unaware of their Unitarian origin, and are ignorant of the faith from which the writers drew their inspiration.

It is a hymnology of the Spirit, the song of those who have a cheerful interpretation of life.

Heroic Lives

By Albert R. Vail and Emily McClellan Vail

354 pages; $1.10 postpaid

A course of study based on the biographies of men and women eminent in history. Old and New Testament heroes, leaders of other great religions, heroes of thought and life, are chosen. The course opens to its readers the idea of religion as a universal endowment of humanity.

Twenty Years of Life

By Thomas Van Ness

12mo; 205 pages; $1.15 postpaid

These sermons have been selected by congregational vote,—one for every year during Mr. Van Ness's ministry, 1892-1912, at the Second Church, Boston, when on Copley Square. As a frontispiece is printed an excellent reproduction of its historic pulpit. The sermons themselves immediately impress the reader with their frequent evidences of the preacher's enthusiasm for humanity. The style is lucid and incisive, and the messages to which these sermons give voice are brave, vigorous and suggestive. Covering, as they do a period of twenty years, they reflect the religious thought which obtained during the closing years of the nineteenth century and the beginning of the twentieth. Being selected by congregational vote, the sermons reveal the especial interests of their time by showing not simply what subjects were uppermost in the preacher's mind, but what topics received the general approval of his hearers. They are valuable, therefore, in a historical sense, aside from the spiritual messages which they convey.

The Religion of New England

By Thomas Van Ness

205 pages; $1.60 postpaid

An unusual presentation, in a clear and concise way, of what has been happening, religiously, in New England since its early settlement by the Pilgrims and Puritans.

The author, during his long residence in Boston, has been fortunate in meeting and knowing personally most of those of whom he writes who, during the latter part of the 19th Century, figured prominently in contributing to what he calls "New England Religion." Among the more prominent of these are Ralph Waldo Emerson, Edward Everett Hale, Julia Ward Howe, and Mary Baker Eddy.

Sermons

By James Walker

8vo; 416 pages; $1.50 postpaid

These sermons were for the most part delivered in the college chapel to the students of Harvard University. A man of keen intellectual powers and great strength of character,

Dr. Walker preached with deep conviction and abounding sympathy. Clearness of thought, force of logic, attractiveness of rhetoric, richness of diction, were all combined in making plain his convictions of right and duty.

Christ: The Beginnings of Dogma

By Johannes Weiss

12mo; 160 pages; Cloth, $1.35 postpaid; Paper, 85 cents postpaid

In this latest addition to the "Theological Translation Library" from the German, the celebrated professor and scholar of Heidelberg deals with the problem of the development of the dogma of the deity of Jesus Christ, and especially with the events of its earlier stages as found in the New Testament, tracing the different steps in the evolution of belief away from the simple humanity of Jesus toward his deification. And so the idea of Jesus being the "Christ" is the beginning of dogma in the early church.

The book is a study in evolution and in criticism. It is an excellent example of research into the language and limits of thought to be found in the New Testament scriptures. The author is here the man of science using his microscope; he is comparable to the chemist analyzing and synthesizing what he finds, and to real effect, for the labor ends in illuminating discovery.

At Christmas Time

By Charles W. Wendte

Illustrated; 12mo; 136 pages; 85 cents postpaid

The eight fascinating tales comprising this book, which have for their background the breadth of our continent and glimpses of Europe, are drawn from the varied personal experiences of the writer in his nearly fifty years of public service at home and abroad.

This inexpensive book is especially fitting as a Christmas gift.

Thomas Starr King, Patriot and Preacher

By Charles W. Wendte

5 Illustrations; 8vo; 344 pages; $3.25 postpaid

In the dark days of the Civil War, when the cause of the Union hung in the balance in California, this gifted preacher, popular lecturer and nature writer, by his political genius, his marvelous oratory, and utter devotion to country and humanity, became the saviour of California and shamed into obscurity the firmly-rooted attempt to form a separate Pacific Coast Republic. It was he who headed the movement to raise a million and a half dollars for the United States Sanitary Commission, the Red Cross of that day. In 1864, in his fortieth year, utterly exhausted, he paid the full sacrifice for the privilege of serving the twin causes of undivided Union and equal rights of all men, white and black, to which he was so devoted.

The people of California have treasured the memory of this great leader and recently their State Legislature voted an appropriation to place a marble effigy of Starr King in the National Hall of Fame in Washington, as one of the two representative heroes of Californian history.

Dramatic Services of Worship

By Isabel K. Whiting

With Foreword by Samuel M. Crothers

220 pages; $2.00 postpaid

This book of ten Dramatic Services has been arranged for the training of youth in the experience of worship. The traditional church days and times of special religious significance have been chosen for commemoration. Important episodes in Bible history and literature, and memorial records of devoted spiritual leaders have been set in dramatic form within the ritual of a religious service. Complete instructions are furnished for the simple settings, costuming, and music.

From Desert to Temple

By Eleanor Wood Whitman

Illustrated; 304 pages; $1.25 postpaid

The Old Testament story is set forth so graphically that the Hebrew people seem to live again, and the Biblical writings actually throb with human interest. The approach is vital rather than literary and especial attention is given to the life, work and influence of the Great Hebrew prophets.

Our Unitarian Heritage

By Earl Morse Wilbur

496 pages; $2.00 postpaid

This book traces the work of the Spirit of Truth through the Christian centuries, culminating in the Unitarian movement in America. The purpose is to acquaint Unitarian young people with their rich religious inheritance, and to summon them to such breadth of view and fervency of devotion as shall befit those so richly endowed.

Talks to Young People on Ethics

By Clarence Hall Wilson and Edwin Fairley

224 pages; $1.00 postpaid

The fundamental assumption of this book is that young people intend to do what is right and are willing to take chances in carrying out a worthy life program. Here is no appeal to "play safe," but a challenge to think, choose, act, and take the consequences. It is the virile life rather than cloistered virtue that is commended. Chapters treating such topics as The Battle of Life, The Grand Adventure, Courage, Liberty and Mastery, and, for the climax Getting Square with the World, indicate the character of the discussion. The body of the book is by Dr. Clarence Hall Wilson. The Questions, Problems, and Suggestions for Reading, which follow each chapter, make the book of inestimable value and constitute a new and significant step forward, by the successful introduction of the case method in teaching religion and morals. These have been prepared by Rev. Edwin Fairley, New York Secretary of the Department of Religious Education.

The Little Red Wonder Book

By Lewis G. Wilson

Illustrated. 16mo; 64 pages; 55 cents postpaid

"A Faith Book of Religion for Little Children," with entertaining pictures and jolly thumb-nail sketches. The brief chapters are arranged in the form of intimate and simple questions and answers intended to bring the teacher and the small tot into a mutual and close understanding, and to teach the child through its personal relationships the beauty and value of religion. Attractively bound in decorated red covers.

One Hundred One-Minute Sermons

By Lewis G. Wilson

108 pages; Cloth, $1.00 postpaid; Paper, 75 cents postpaid

A book of religious suggestion suitable for the practical work of Publicity as well as a useful and illuminating Gift Book. These sermons, appearing week after week in the paper, carry a message to the sick and shut-ins; elevate public sentiment and broaden religious convictions. They are also of value for home reading.

Some Ethical Phases of the Labor Question

By Carroll D. Wright

12mo; 207 pages; Cloth, $1.15 postpaid; Paper, 35 cents postpaid

An important book written from the ethical point of view by a former U. S. Commissioner of Labor, who until his death was the leading authority in this country on industrial problems and labor conditions. The contending forces of modern industrialism will result in a candid examination, to quote the author, "into the treatment of the uses of wealth, as well as its accumulations, distribution, and exchange, and incited discussion upon the relations of labor and capital on an ethical basis, combining with the old question the old school always asks, 'Will it pay?' another and higher query, 'Is it right?'"

The Spikenard and Other Sermons

By Stopford A. Brooke

138 pages; $1.35 postpaid

These sermons have been printed from the manuscripts left by Dr. Brooke upon his death. They are uncompromisingly veracious attempts to show the power and beauty, in life and thought, of a non-miraculous Christianity.

The First Three Gospels

By J. Estlin Carpenter

418 pages; $1.10 postpaid

Whoever would try to know and understand Jesus must study the Synoptic Gospels with care and diligence, and especially in their relations to the Fourth Gospel. The Fourth Evangelist, for instance, sought to combine two widely separate ideas, that of the Jewish Messiah and the Greek Word. In the synoptic narratives, however, are there any traces of like processes? Are their stories genuine deposits of trustworthy tradition? Or do they, too, betray the influence of the beliefs and hopes of their narrators? This is the inquiry to which this volume is devoted, and although difficult and by no means altogether positive in its conclusions, it is surely well worth the time and effort spent in the study.

Life in Palestine When Jesus Lived

By J. Estlin Carpenter

184 pages; $1.10 postpaid

It does not require to read more than half-a-dozen pages to feel that our attention is not likely to flag during the rest of the volume. The country, people, government, and religion are all discussed in turn—nothing hurried or curtailed, every sub-division given its due share and the result is a whole upon which the author may fairly be congratulated.

Unitarian Thought

By Ephraim Emerton

311 pages; $1.35 postpaid

To those who wish to know the fundamental beliefs of the Unitarians this book will prove most helpful and valuable.

"A book intended 'neither to excite controversy nor to settle it, but only to state fairly its own constructive propositions.' . . . Every reader will admit that the author has succeeded in doing what he set out to do. The result is a distinct service to clear thinking, whatever the impression may be as to the distinctive value of Unitarian thought or its satisfactoriness as an adequate interpretation of the world fact of Christianity itself."—Chicago Tribune.

The Place of Judaism Among the Religions of the World

By Claude G. Montefiore

61 pages; $1.35 postpaid

A distinct contribution to a true understanding of the aims and hopes animating Jewish hearts throughout England and America. One would have to go a long way to find a more admirably succinct and altogether illuminating statement of the present mission of Judaism as it is conceived by its own best teachers and leaders.

The Story of the Isles of Shoals

By Louis C. Cornish

35 pages; $.60 postpaid

Popular demand has necessitated this new revised edition of the address delivered by Dr. Cornish upon the occasion of the Twentieth Anniversary of the Unitarian Summer Meetings, together with a brief account of the ten years from 1916 to 1926. Unitarians everywhere will be interested in this significant story of the islands. The new version in its more attractive form will delight those who are familiar with the booklet in its original, and will make an excellent gift book for a Unitarian friend.

The Order of Evening Worship in the Meeting House on Star Island

By Isles of Shoals Committee

$1.50 postpaid

The new edition of the Star Island Service Book has lost none of the attractive features of the original. The book, artistically printed in two colors, catches something of the illusive charm of the islands so dear to all Unitarians. There can be a no more fitting memento of happy hours spent at the Summer Meetings, nor a more suitable gift to some friend who is unable to attend.

A Far Journey

By Abraham Mitrie Rihbany

352 pages; $3.15 postpaid

Some twenty years ago a young Syrian landed at New York, with nine cents in his pocket, to seek his fortune in the New World. To-day he is pastor of one of the most famous churches of America. In "A Far Journey" he tells the story of his life, a story stranger and more interesting than a novel. The story of his childhood glows with that strange mixture of Oriental imagery and Christian faith so characteristic of the Holy Land. In his journey to America the lad crossed a gap of twenty centuries, and henceforth the record is of intellectual growth and spiritual adventure. As a revelation of what America can offer to her adopted children, this book will be a splendid inspiration to every reader.

The Syrian Christ

By Abraham Mitrie Rihbany

436 pages; $3.15 postpaid

There is unusual significance in this study and interpretation of Jesus Christ by a Syrian who came to America a penniless immigrant and who now occupies the pulpit made famous by James Freeman Clarke. Conditions of life in the Orient have changed but little since the days of Jesus, and the author's own experience has enabled him to illuminate from a new angle the life and teachings of Christ and to reproduce for Western readers the original atmosphere of the Bible. Written in a simple and reverential manner, without technicalities or doctrinal appeal, it is distinctly a volume for the home library as well as the minister's study.

Wise Men from the East and from the West

By Abraham Mitrie Rihbany

301 pages; $2.50 postpaid

A notable interpretation of the East to the West. The author explains the Eastern type of mind, analyzes the religious, industrial, and social differences, considers the reasons for the present revolt of the East against European domination, and points out the remedies for present conditions. A Syrian by birth, now one of America's leading clergymen, the author thoroughly understands the viewpoint both of the Orient and of the Occident, and his book deserves the widest attention here and abroad.

The Living Word

THE BIBLE ABRIDGED

By Henry Hallam Saunderson

727 pages; $3.25 postpaid

Those passages from the Old and New Testament, having the most beauty and spiritual value, are woven together into chapters of convenient length for reading in the church service or in the home. The value of the book is enhanced by its three full indexes.

The Power of An Endless Life

By Henry Hallam Saunderson

114 pages; $1.10 postpaid

Faith in immortality is here presented from a new viewpoint. The central idea is that only a conviction of immortality can dignify and purify human life.

Letters to His Holiness

By William L. Sullivan

280 pages; $1.60 postpaid

These letters are not intended to create a sensation, but to prepare for a future, which, in moments of enthusiasm, seems near at hand. They have a twofold purpose. On the one hand, our author wants to make the Curia feel its enormous responsibility, and on the other hand, to educate both priest and layman for the work of reconstruction. This book is both educational and constructive. It attacks nothing that Truth itself and Progress are not attacking—and it has something to offer for all that it takes away. Every word of it is written in sincerity, and many words of it were written in feelings which, if possible, are deeper still.

BENZIGER BROTHERS PRAYER-BOOKS FOR CHILDREN

Benziger Brothers Prayer-books for Children are notable for the following characteristics:

They have been especially compiled for children, and thus particularly suited to the comprehension of the average boy and girl. — They contain the necessary and usual prayers required by children. — They also have the special Prayers for First Communion Day and general Communion devotions. — Legible type, neat attractive bindings, and reasonable prices make Benziger Brothers editions the most desirable Prayer-books for children.

THE DEVOUT CHILD

ILLUSTRATED. 94 pages; small 48mo.; size, 2⅜ x 3¾ inches.

A small and cheap but very compact and useful little Prayer-book for Catholic children. It is more complete and up-to-date than similar books sold heretofore in this country. Conforming to the Decree "Quam Singulari," this prayer-book contains Instructions and Prayers for Confession and Holy Communion. It has also the approved Litanies and handsome full-page Mass pictures.

TO THE TRADE

The books listed in this catalogue are mainly our own publications. The others are importations or books the sale of which is in our hands as agents; these are usually marked with an asterisk (*) and are subject to special discount.

Discount to the actual trade made known on request. We believe it generous enough to induce the trade to carry many of these publications in stock.

We carry constantly in stock practically everything in print of Judaica and Hebraica. We specialize in scarce and out-of-print volumes. No other concern in the world carries such a large and varied collection of old and new Jewish books.

Complete descriptive catalogues of Religious School Books, Bibles, Music, Plays, Prayer Books, Fiction, sent on request.

Crewe Train

By Rose Macaulay

This title is derived from a well known English music hall ballad, the refrain of which ran:

"Oh, Mr. Porter, whatever shall I do?
"I meant to go to Birmingham and they've sent me on to Crewe."

The new novel by Rose Macaulay, author of Potterism, Dangerous Ages, Told By An Idiot, and other famous novels, is in the opinion of all those who have read it as fine as anything she has yet done.

In Orphan Island Miss Macaulay shipwrecked a number of typical Mid-Victorians on a desert island. In Crewe Train the author shows us the reverse side of this sociological medal.

The heroine, who is one of the most delightful of all Miss Macaulay's creations, has been brought up by her father, a clergyman who revolts from the confining, gregarious atmosphere of his English parish, takes his young daughter with him to a rather uncivilized part of Spain where he marries again very much "below" him, finding some sort of happiness in the solitude which his new wife and new brood of half-caste children allow him. The story of his lovely English daughter, "rescued" after her father's death from this life that she loves so much and her reactions to the smart life of London which is forced upon her, her loves and her hates, afford Miss Maucaulay a plot and milieu to which she only of living novelists can do full justice. As whimsical, as penetrating and as sound as anything Rose Macaulay has ever written and with a "story interest" probably greater than that of any of her other novels. $2.50

Wedlock

By Jacob Wasserman

Translated by Ludwig Lewisohn

This new novel by the author of The World's Illusion, The Goose Man, Faber and Gold has been published in Germany under the title of Laudin Und Die Seinen. Ludwig Lewisohn writes regarding it:

"It is a book on marriage, of monumental power and shattering insight. None of us has gone so deep. It is uncanny. Wasserman has woven into his main theme a story of, to my mind, furiously melodramatic character disguised of course by the magnificence of his style and the profoundness of his observation and observations. These make the book better than The World's Illusion or Gold."

Harry Hansen of The New York World says of the book:

"Always richly equipped to delineate the physical and psychical bonds that unite two human beings of the opposite sex, Wasserman takes for his principal characters, Frederick Laudin and his wife Pia. Round about these two people Wasserman has placed many subsidiary characters that emphasize the chaotic character of the age and the collapse of marriage as a device for achieving social unity, companionship and the rearing of the next generation. Mental and physical torment comes to groping human beings who seek peace in human contacts; slowly but with the practiced hand of the Master, Wasserman reveals the ordeal in which individuals vainly fight to retain their entities as autonomous social factors, and discloses his belief that the social unit of the future is of two parts, man and wife sharing in mutual sacrifice the tasks of rebuilding the social structure." $2.50

The Story of the Pardways

By Lester Cohen

This is the story of the rise and the decline of a great merchant family, the backbone of the Republic. Through it runs all the strength of our bourgeois class and the Achilles' heel of their weakness. The panorama reaches from New York to Chicago; from the Revolutionary War to the present day; and against it the Pardway Family wax to power and wane beneath the alien conquerors.

The Pardway fortune, started by the two brothers, Daniel and Thane, is based on the thrift and shrewdness of Daniel and the cleverness, daring and unerring gambling instinct of Thane. More particularly, it grows through running the Civil War Blockade with cotton, selling short on Black Friday, doing the same at the time of the Chicago Fire, the organization of a tremendous cut-price department store in Chicago, two corners in the wheat market engineered by Thane and the wise purchase of real estate.

But the growth of the family fortune is only the skeleton on which the story is erected. Its protagonist is the spiritual Family Pardway and its progress upward and downward. Thane has no children. Daniel's four children by his first marriage have in them none of the Pardway strength. In the irony of a second marriage, he finds himself too old to plant what might be worthy seed.

And so one by one, the supports give way. The alien conqueror, Ullman, former manager of The Bazaar, is the ruler of what had once been the Pardways'.

This novel is superb in scope, power and implication. The pattern of its story, the figures of its characterization,and the simplicity of its style make it a novel of the greatest importance. $2.50

Tin Wedding

By Margaret Leech

The story is concerned with the events of a single day—the tenth anniversary of the marriage of Jay and Lucia Fanning. These are two people whom the world believes happily married. Perhaps they are. But as the day unfolds, the wife finds that all her ideas, all her values are slowly being undermined. She is forced to accept the fact that her husband is unfaithful to her. The minute hints which for her make up the sum of a great revelation are shown to the reader through Lucia's eyes alone. This book is entirely concerned with the psychology of the wife, gentle, unsuspicious and completely devoted to her husband.

This is not the story of the breakup of a marriage. It is a glimpse of the interior mechanisms of a marriage which the world has judged successful—which the world will continue to judge successful. It is an illumination of the passion and disappointment and heartache which underlie many relations which seem founded on a suave and solid happiness.

Margaret Leech's previous novel, The Back of the Book, revealed her as an analyst of character, temperament and mood so clear and incisive that the reader involuntarily found himself saying—it takes a woman to know these things so uncannily well. Margaret Leech is an artist. Tin Wedding finds the truth in a focus of married life; but Miss Leech is as rare a story teller as a truth seeker. The reader will find Tin Wedding an enthralling book.

Revelry

By Samuel Hopkins Adams

This is the story of a Prince of Good Fellows, an easy-going, dynamic, not particularly brilliant opportunist who is incidentally The President of The United States, successor to President Coolidge.

Nothing seems to him unattainable as long as he plays his luck. His play is for the highest of stakes and he wins everything before he loses everything. His catastrophe, overwhelming as his triumph, overtakes him because a man cannot be a good fellow and The President of the United States at the same time.

The vivid career of Willis Markham as pictured by Mr. Adams, is a cross-section opened into the very core of our government. This is not politics as seen by the man in the street, but the universal, seismic human forces that lie behind and beneath and direct all political action.

Sometimes combined with, sometimes hostile to these forces, in their effect upon the pivotal character, is the strange and secret influence of a woman, herself a mystery, a riddle and a subtle splendor of womanhood to those whom she enlists or opposes in the battle of minds. Behind important and intensely exciting events in American public life the characters play their masked roles. Fiction has the privilege of essential facts. Revelry is latter-day historical fiction.

This is an entirely new field to Samuel Hopkins Adams. Bringing to it his magnificent story telling faculties and his gift for characterization, he has a fine, enthralling and pertinent part of our national life to work with. $2.00

The Hard-Boiled Virgin

By Frances Newman

When James Branch Cabell classed Frances Newman with Elinor Wylie as the most opulently gifted young woman now publishing in America, he spoke a truth which reveals its full significance for the first time in The Hard-Boiled Virgin. This is the first piece of long fiction undertaken by the author of The Short Story's Mutations and the O. Henry prize short story, Rachel and Her Children. Sophisticated, dripping with knowledge casually displayed, full of understanding and rich in humor, it is a delightful and witty book.

With the advent of The Hard-Boiled Virgin a new style in contemporary fiction will have been born—a style as startling and as brilliant as the contents are amazing and revealing. For Miss Newman has created a form of her own which fits perfectly the matter it conveys. The Hard-Boiled Virgin is the story of Katharine Faraday, a girl of the very flower of Southern aristocracy; but unlike the usual Southern-girl heroine, Katharine Faraday possesses two important gifts—sophistication and humor. In a frank and fascinating manner, Miss Newman leads us through a world in which Katharine Faraday and other women exist, and in doing so presents one of the most astounding documents of modern literature.

Her novel's title is used in cynical commemoration of Katharine Faraday's accidental discovery that conversation about her unimpassioned nature was extremely provocative to her admirers, and an equally cynical commentary on her somewhat round-about method of discovering that her phrase was an accurate description of herself. It is serious without ever being solemn and gay and clever without ever being merely facetious. $2.50

The Red and the Black

The third work and the fourth and fifth volumes of the complete translation of

(HENRI BEYLE) STENDHAL

Translated by Scott Moncrieff

THE great Taine, who was an international critic rather than a French critic, confesses to having read The Red and the Black between thirty and forty times. This indicates the tremendous power and readability of a novel that has influenced succeeding novelists and has helped in some ways to remake the novel.

The Red and The Black is perhaps the first novel to depend for its interest upon action within the mind. It is not only the first but probably the greatest. Many succeeding writers have essayed the same task, the story of the development of a hard will, its achievement of power over the objects of its titanic ambitions and its frustration in success. Seeing love only in terms of conquest the hero begins his career with the seduction of his employer's wife; and with this conquest is born the confidence and courage for his career as a Nietzchean victor.

The book is said to be autobiographical, a history if not of actual events, of aspirations and realization. It offers a profound psychological portrait of an egoist, a wonderful understanding of the bourgeois mind and perhaps the deepest understanding of the complex motives surrounding a love intrigue that literature has to show. No better assurance of the quality of the translation need be offered than the mention that the famous translator of Marcel Proust into English, Mr. Scott Moncrieff, has undertaken the task. The Charterhouse of Parma was issued in the Fall of 1925. The Abbess of Castro and Other Stories was issued in the Spring. The volumes are uniform.

The Charterhouse of Parma, two vol. 12 mo. boxed, $5.00

The Abbess of Castro and Other Stories, one vol. $2.50

The Thibaults

By ROGER MARTIN DU GARD

Translated by Madeleine Boyd

ROGER MARTIN DU GARD has embarked on a novel in ten volumes entitled The Thibaults, which has already created as great a sensation in France as anything that has appeared since Jean Christophe. So far four volumes have been published, and two more volumes are promised immediately.

The Thibaults is a story of middle class life in the suburbs of Paris. It traces the history of the Thibault family and in so doing gives us a complete picture of present day life and living in France. French and English critics feel that it is of an interest and importance which will make Roger Martin Du Gard live years after most contemporary writers are forgotten. For Du Gard, being a story teller has but one aim; to create characters and to tell us about their lives. Having no literary axes to grind he approaches his characters with marvelous objectivity, blended with sympathy. He permits each character to be himself. He is justice personified—and in this respect above all he is imposing. For into his work he brings all types of people, surrounding them all in an atmosphere of truth and sturdy tolerance.

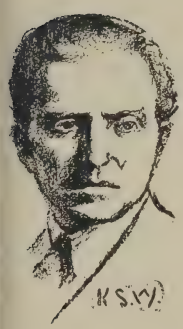
His style is honest and workmanlike. It goes straight to the point. He no more imitates the present fashion in writing than he affects the debraille. He has found a simple vibrant living language at hand, and has adopted it for his own. All in all, the story is so compelling in itself that instead of looking back at the volumes already read, one is impatient to go on to the next ones.

Vol. I The Grey Note Book, The Penitentiary
Vol. II The Springtime of Life.

Two volumes boxed, $5.00

Ninth Avenue

By MAXWELL BODENHEIM



THIS new novel by the author of Replenishing Jessica deals with the opposite type of woman to Jessica; a girl attempting to rise above the tawdriness of her own family and the desires of many men; a girl with indistinct, chaotic, unformed desires for things of which she has no efinite intimation; one who is constantly beset y desires and is as constantly at war with hem.

But the book has an even more fascinating acet than this. It is an attempt to study the resent tendency in New York toward misegenation; the mingling of blacks and whites ot in its fad phase as indicated by slumming arties to Harlem, but in its really revolutionry aspect where the middle class of our present ivilization is perilously playing with the angers of mixed color.

There is also the story of an extraordinary amily of six people of Ninth Avenue; their urious acquiescence to the immorality of the laughters; the story of the crooked prizeighter son and the no-account father. The tory of this strangely assorted, yet curiously omplete family and the fulfillment and rustration of their lives is exceedingly well lone. The novel does not offer a solution, nd is entirely devoid of propaganda. Maxvell Bodenheim is one of our important ovelists. He has proved it in Crazy Man, Blackguard, and Replenishing Jessica.

Ninth Avenue is Bodenheim's most importnt book to date. $2.00

Summer Bachelors

By WARNER FABIAN

TRAMP, tramp, tramp, the wives are marching. Every summer they repeat the hot weather exodus to the pleasant places of the country leaving the husbands to their offices, their clubs, their loneliness and to——?

What substitute for the feminine associations which make up so essential a part of the normal man's life are these summer bachelors to find or devise? In the circle surrounding Derry Thomas, the suddenly released business girl and Willowdean French, the young brilliant and disillusioned actress, the question finds its answer in varying forms, tragic, passionate and unexpected. Derry, with her aversion to the surrender of marriage, in conflict with her realization of her womanhood in all its demands and implications, is a companion figure to the Pat of Flaming Youth, but more rebellious, clearer in self-vision, less the creature of convention and accidental adventure.

In the development of the story there becomes apparent Mr. Fabian's interesting thesis that what passes for man's sensuality is often only a pure desire for comradeship and affection.

Many of the characters appeared in the earlier books of Mr. Fabian, Flaming Youth and Sailor's Wives, those books which established him as a fascinating portrayer of certain phases of American life. There is no writer who can disguise a theme of importance or an idea of wide application behind a fascinating and swiftly moving story as can Mr. Fabian.

Mr. Fabian's books have become by far the most popular of our contemporary studies of the American jazz age. Flaming Youth and Sailors' Wives have reached tremendous sales because they portray in fascinating and true fashion the life we see around us. So with Summer Bachelors. $2.00

Dread Dwelling

By RICHMAL CROMPTON

IN this novel of English life, a house becomes the protagonist which motivates the whole story. At first, it is merely a house wherein a very happy upper class English household has taken up residence. Then slowly, insidiously it takes shape as a living, breathing, virulent influence, a sinister and horrid enemy, visiting personal and malevolent evil on the destinies of all the family.

The metamorphosis is brought about so delicately that there is no feeling of revulsion or horror, only a consciousness of what an apparently insensate thing can become.

Donald, one of the sons, is the hero. He comes home from school, with a companion, to the new house of his family, to find his father suddenly become a hard drinker, his mother unhappy, his twin sisters quarreling, and another sister unfaithful to her husband. His companion feels the spell of the house and flees, but Donald, being psychic, alone senses the fact that it is the house that is misshaping the family life and it is his story and his love that thread the book with a great deal more than an air of mystery or horror.

One loves all the characters, as one loves their happy family life which gradually, yet so relentlessly, is brought to an end by reason of the malign influence of the old house they went to live in. Despite the uncanny atmosphere, there are many amusing and lively incidents and a charming love story admirably preserving the balance of the tale. $2.00

The Triumphant Rider

By FRANCES HARROD

(Frances Forbes-Robertson)

THE earlier books of Mrs. Harrod won the praise of Henry James and George Meredith both of whom were very sparing of their good opinion. The Triumphant Rider is a modern novel in its audacity and in its outlook, but it has the depth and the maturity that is lacking in some of the younger "moderns."

It tells a story so improbable at first glance that it draws wonder, yet so true to its own reality that it is read with a continuing sense of conviction and a growing sense of its realistic portraits of the souls of modern men and women. The heroine, Marcia, is the daughter of a woman who follows Mrs. Warren's profession. She grows into sensitive and beautiful womanhood, and at her loveliest flowering is "sold" to a rich acquaintance of her mother. But instead of living over her mother's life she takes advantage of this transfer of her body to make her escape. She finds her way into London's smart society, becomes the idol of the men within that circle, and eventually among her suitors, meets the man to whom she has been sold. What ensues is magnificent in its climactic force and its sudden nobility of men and women who seem sodden in their lusts.

For the reader who loves beautiful writing and brilliant thinking there is satisfaction in every line of this book.

"The book is a most brilliant one. A more startling creation of modern young womanhood has not come before me than this of Susan Brode."—The London Sphere.

"It is a book to be amused by; but as well a book to be pondered, to be treasured, as the work of a fine artist, a fine spirit deeply stirred by thought and by experience."—The London Daily News. $2.00

Ann Lee's and Other Stories

By Elizabeth Bowen

This is a new collection of short stories by he author of Encounters. It is in every sense finer, more mature collection than the ormer. One admires above all, the author's cute awareness and sharp presentation of nall things; she has the hawk's eye for imponerables.

The agony of a little boy staying with ind aunts while his mother is dying, his hopeess desire to know the worst before somebody ells it to him and his hysterical outbreak bepre his sad and bewildered father make A Visitor one of the most haunting stories in the ook.

Again in Charity the mind of a schoolgirl ntertaining a school friend for the first time n her own home is given with a wealth of deliate perception and details of wonderful aturalness.

Her style has extraordinary sharpness of utline. "The wind caught the villa full in the ace, one stinging challenge like the slash of a auntlet. Elegant, rococo, with an air of balance elicately perilous, it yet struck down deep into he rock, deep as a fortress. It braced itself, nd now the assailing forces of the wind came inging between the pillars of the parapet. Row n row, the windows looked unflinchingly out nto the sky, though here and there the swingng-to of a shutter was like the nervous and nvoluntary flicker of an eyelid. The attack egan, the clouds brought up their artillery; ightning, splitting the sky, shimmered across he flagstones of the terrace. The honeycolored façade, soaked and languorous with unshine, stood up, naked, sensitive as flesh, o the stinging onslaught of the rain that beat gainst the windows with a faint, fine, initesimal clatter."

Miss Bowen gives us perfectly what she perceives—the sudden shocks of quiet life and the ominousness of its minor reverberations. $2.00

Tropic Death

By Eric Walrond

Realistically done, the ten stories in Tropic Death represent a cross-section of tropical Negro experience. Only the exotic intermingling of races below the Gulf Stream could yield such a bountiful harvest. Culled from a varied and authentic experience, Eric Walrond's work is stark, brilliant, true. There is poetry, folk essence in it. Peopled by sharks and snakes, vampires and West Indian peasants, the action in Tropic Death shifts from a lonely cabin on the Essequibo River in Guiana to the sizzling deck of a fruit ship off the Honduras Coast, the West Indian slums in Panama and the lodgings of the marl diggers in the Barbadoes. The people who come within the range of the author's vision are as colorful as a pheasant. They are British whites—buckra johnnies—and upstage blacks, senoritas and wordy West Indians, American marines and Latin seamen. It gives a cross-section of tropical life indeed.

Hitherto, stories by American negroes have busied themselves largely with problems of race either in the South or in our larger northern cities. Here, for the first time, are purely objective stories, devoid of prejudice, propaganda or excessive race consciousness.

With this book the least sentimental of Negro prose writers arrives, and a region hitherto steeped in utter mist looms broodingly on the literary horizon. Some of the stories included in Tropic Death are: Drought, Panama Gold, The Yellow Ore, The Wharf Rats, Subjection, and The Vampire Bat. $2.50

Stories by THEODORE DREISER

NINETEEN TWENTY-FIVE goes down in literary history as the year which saw the publication of Dreiser's An American Tragedy.

A similar recognition as a master of the short story must come to Mr. Dreiser with the publication of these powerful, vivid short stories. There are a hundred phases of life, seen without sentimentality but also without brutality, with a light that reveals the significance of every detail.

Dreiser's previous books of short stories, Free and Other Stories and Twelve Men (brief biographies of some American personalities written in short story form) won immediate recognition. Some critics place these two books among the finest from his pen.

This new collection represents his maturest work in this field. Here that quality of reality which made the critic John Cowper Powys among others call Dreiser "a greater realist than Zola" is at its finest. From An American Tragedy and Twelve Men we know how Dreiser can take known men and women and known occurrences and write them into literary forms so that the written life is more actual than the people and events in real life. Whether the people and the events in these stories are actual or imagined, their truth is inescapable.

Among the titles of the stories in this book are The Teller of the Tale, The Victor, Fulfillment, The Old Neighborhood, Marriage-For-One, Phantom Gold, and Sanctuary.

There will also be a signed edition of this book in a special format, limited to 440 copies, 425 of which are for sale. These will sell for ten dollars a copy.

The Financier

By THEODORE DREISER

IN the Fall of 1912, Theodore Dreiser gave to his publishers of that day the original manuscript of The Financier. He gave them the manuscript in the form in which it was then printed, under heavy economic pressure. The suppression of some of his earlier books, and the fact that his ruthless realism was beyond the comprehension of most of the minds of that period, had placed him in a position which made it impossible for him to do anything but live up to his strict contractual obligations. He had promised the firm who was then publishing him, a book for that season, and if he wanted to eat and live, he had to give it to them. Theodore Dreiser realized that The Financier was not in the shape that he wished it to be in, but with a few minor revisions—all that the time afforded—it was published, in the Fall of 1912.

During all these years Mr. Dreiser has been re-writing The Financier, putting it into the shape that he wished it to be in originally, rearranging, cutting, clarifying. Now we are happy to announce the publication of a new book by Theodore Dreiser—the new edition of The Financier.

Many people—among them James Huneker, H. L. Mencken—consider The Financier Theodore Dreiser's greatest book, and Frank Cowperwood his greatest character. It is surely only logical to suppose that such a book, rewritten leisurely and dispassionately over a period of years, as a labor of love, can not help but be immeasurably intensified thereby. And it has been. The tempo has been increased—the characterizations clarified. Anybody who read the old "Financier" will enjoy the new one. And those who read it now for the first time will be more firmly convinced than ever of the genius that is Theodore Dreiser.

Tar, A Midwest Childhood

By SHERWOOD ANDERSON

THE following description of this book is by the author: "The book takes up a boy from the ages of consciousness and until adolescence begins. A wandering family settles in a small Ohio town. The father is an ex-soldier who becomes, first a small merchant then a laborer. He is unreliable and popular, the mother hard working and inclined to silence.

"The idea back of this book, when it formed itself in my mind was to show the child's consciousness of the life about him beginning in a room of a house, going out to other rooms, the entire house, the yard, the street, the town and finally to a dim consciousness of the vastness of the world and the smallness of himself in it. A part of the experiences that make a child no longer a child are imaginative, a part physical. I have tried to keep these balanced. Such a book cannot be highly dramatic. What I have tried to give is charm. It is, of course, partly autobiographical, as such a book would be bound to be, but it is not written as autobiography. The child is aware of, first his mother, then the father and his brothers and sister. Their lives at once begin to affect his life. There is the little circle of family life and the big world outside. He thrusts out into the world more and more boldly. What happens to him and his imagination while he is so thrusting out is the story of the book.

"It is at any rate a happy childhood just as my own was a happy one." Large 12mo. $3.00

There will also be a specially designed, autographed edition of this book, limited to 350 copies, 325 of which are for sale at ten dollars a copy.

More Miles

By HARRY KEMP

AFTER the wanderings so powerfully recounted in Tramping on Life Harry Kemp did what, for him, was "settling down" in the artistic community of New York. More Miles is, except for the record of occasional pilgrimages and escapes, the story of his New York life.

Here he led a life as active and adventurous as his Tramping on Life days. Again his extraordinary capacity for searching out and attracting significant personalities came into play. More Miles is full of those human encounters that make up perhaps the most precious portion of life.

Here again Kemp's life is one of revolt and the search for spiritual freedom, a search that leads him into strange byways of art and life. Each quest develops its own drama.

With Kemp, you meet always diverting, sometimes enthralling people; with him you walk into temples and through alleys. With him you face the exhilarating and perhaps never solvable problem of individual freedom. With him you keep in touch with the advance guard of contemporary art and thought.

And always, above the scene and the adventure shines out the rich, fine, vigorous questing and indomitably honest figure of the author himself—one of the most arresting personalities in the history of American literature.

Of More Miles it can well be written what Heywood Broun wrote of Tramping on Life—"One of the most enthralling of modern autobiographies. . . . It is a beautifully simple prose. . . . He reveals himself to an extraordinary degree." Octavo. $3.00

Napoleon

By EMIL LUDWIG

Translated by Eden and Cedar Paul

EMIL LUDWIG'S first book, a poetic drama, appeared in 1903. Eight more dramas followed in the next ten or twelve years, among them Napoleon, Frederick, Crown Prince of Prussia, and a trilogy entitled Bismarck. Ludwig also published several novels, a book of essays, biographies of Dehmel, Wagner, Bismarck, Goethe, and a series of portraits of twenty great men, entitled Genius and Character.

His real fame rests on these biographies. His latest book, only published in 1925, Napoleon, is a most remarkable book. It makes a strong appeal both to the scientifically trained scholar who demands strictest historical accuracy as well as to the general reader who appreciates a work of art. Emil Ludwig is not a biographer in the ordinary sense of the word any more than he is a professional historian. He is a poet and an artist with a keen analytical mind. His purpose is to write the history of Napoleon's soul, to lay bare the secret motives that impelled him and to explain his successes and failures. More important than his military exploits are Napoleon's ideas as a statesman and legislator, his reactions toward revolution and legitimacy, his ideas about the European problem as a whole. Of great importance are his relations to his family, remarks to his generals and associates, letters to his wife or mistress, moods of joy or melancholy, acts of kindness or resentment. There is hardly a page without copious quotations from Napoleon's 60,000 letters, his memoirs, his notes and decrees, from diaries and reminiscences of associates.

By means of his sympathetic imagination and creative power, the author has produced a book which is stranger than fiction and yet nothing is invented.

Illustrated with twenty-four half-tones.

Epoch

The Life of Steele MacKaye, Genius of the Theatre, in Relation to His Times and Contemporaries

A MEMOIR BY HIS SON, PERCY MACKAYE

STEELE MACKAYE was one of the most romantic and thrilling figures of the Nineteenth Century. He touched life everywhere and everywhere the contact gave forth an undoubted spark of genius. He was the inventor of almost all of our modern stage devices. He was the first American to play Hamlet in London. He was the author of Hazel Kirke. He was the organizer of two great theatrical projects in New York. He planned the magnificent Spectatorium at the Chicago World's Fair. He was the friend and intimate of nearly everyone of importance in the public life of his epoch.

And so this biography is in reality the biography of an epoch. In the tempestuous, adventurous, teeming life of Steel MacKaye, the last half of the Nineteenth Century is seen from every facet. All its great and its near great, all its nobility and knavery, its brassness and its prudery, its splendour and its tawdriness are drawn through the needle's eye of this man's life. His fortunes rise and fall and rise and fall again; tremendous enterprises are proposed, must be financed, enemies must be fought, swindlers forestalled, great men seen, first nights faced.

The book is the life work of Percy McKaye, illustrious son of an illustrious father. Percy MacKaye has as many contacts with life and as many accomplishments as had his father. This book is the magnificent tribute of one genius to another genius—and the unforgettable portrait of an Epoch.

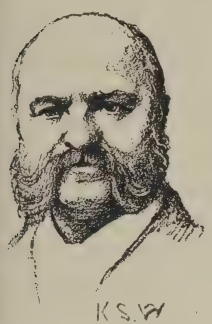
Anthony Comstock

By Heywood Broun and Margaret Leech



Anthony Comstock, whose portly figure and flowing mutton - chop whiskers have furnished inspiration for countless cartoonists, has been one of the most widely discussed figures in American life. Since George Bernard Shaw invented the term, "Comstockery," in 1905, his name has become a byword to many people who know little of his work. For more than forty years, until his death in 1915, Comstock pursued his crusade against vice. Always a deeply religious man, he felt that he was dedicated to God's work, and his sincerity won him many friends and admirers. By others he was loudly denounced. Many attacks were made on him, including several attempts on his life. Hundreds of epithets, frequently satirical, were bestowed on him, such as "the modern Galahad," "an incorporated conscience," "the unsleeping protector of the morals of the metropolis."

The full story of Anthony Comstock's stormy career is interestingly presented. Some of the people who play a part in the tale are the notorious sisters, Victoria Woodhull and Tennessee Claflin, Robert Ingersoll, Harry Thaw, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and Bernarr Macfadden. The Chicago World's Fair, The Art Students' League, Three Weeks, Mrs. Warren's Profession and September Morn are also entertainingly discussed.

Much material never before published appears in this biography, such as long extracts from the diary which the young Comstock kept as a soldier in the Civil War. The book is generously illustrated with photographs, sketches and cartoons. Octavo. $3.50

Time-Exposures

By Searchlight

Being Portraits of 21 men and women famous in our day: together with caricatures of the same by diverse artists

The appearance of these portraits has been one of the sensations of that sensational weekly, The New Yorker, ever since its bright and impudent beginning. The editors have been kept busy, not editing the magazine, but evading the question of who wrote them. "Who is Search-Light?" has been almost as frequent a remark this last season, in fashionable and literary circles, as "Who is Your Bootlegger?" And the rare bloods who knew what well-known author was having the time of his life under this nom de plume, making these trenchant exposures of his contemporaries, have been careful not to share their secret with too many.

Whoever he is, he seems to know the very souls of many of our most celebrated men and women; and he is able to portray them with an art both deep and dashing. For if these portraits are brilliant they are also true. And the light pencil of the artist who wrote them reveals the penetrating vision of the man who thought them out. So intimate is the knowledge of the portraitist that friends of the subjects have been certain that only a personal friend could be the author. But no one man could be the "friend" of such a diverse lot of men and women: bankers, poets, actresses, musicians, etc. And no personal friend could write with such calm indifference to the feelings of his subject.

Among the figures created are Charles Chaplin, Otto Kahn, Theodore Dreiser, Max Steuer, Katharine Cornell, Thomas Beer, Ignace Paderewski and many others. Here is a true picture gallery of our day. The touch is light; the wit is satirical and often cruel. The ensemble is a portrait of our times, its tastes and ideas and its leaders, which is as searchingly critical as it is delightfully alive. More Ports, More Happy Places

Further Adventures of An American Mother, Her Daughter and Her Sons in Europe

By Cornelia Stratton Parker

In its review of Mrs. Parker's remarkable travel book, Ports and Happy Places, first published in the spring of 1924, The New York Herald Tribune said that it ought to become about as popular as The Swiss Family Robinson and that most books about Europe should be written by Mrs. Parker.

Since its publication in 1924 six large editions have been necessary and it seems evident that Ports and Happy Places will prove an enduring classic of travel even if it does not reach through the years the enormous sales that The Swiss Family Robinson has enjoyed.

More Ports, More Happy Places continues the adventures of Mrs. Parker, her daughter and her sons in Europe. There is in it the same humor, historical appreciation and vivid descriptive qualities that characterize the first volume—the same engaging intimacy that is as pleasing for its revelation of the author and her young companions as it is of foreign places and manners and people. More Ports, More Happy Places takes the Parkers from the Swiss Mountains to Geneva, Vienna, the French Riviera, Normandy, Brittany, Touraine, Budapest and Scandinavia.

"Anything more delightful in the line of travel than the reading of this chronicle would be difficult to imagine. We see the lands through which the Parkers travel through eyes sensitive to the color of each. More, we feel their personalities, through an understanding as sympathetic as it is keen."—The Boston Transcript, regarding Ports and Happy Places.

Bolshevism in Labor Unions

A Plea for Constructive Unionism

By John A. Dyche

Introduction by Julius Henry Cohen

This book is the most important contribution to the literature of unionism that has appeared in this country in many years. John Dyche has been a worker in the garment trade and General Secretary for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. Mr. Dyche was the leader in many great strikes, but more than that he was the main factor in their settlement. He watched the garment industry forced out of the hands of large manufacturers into the hands of small outside shops and the union torn into two warring factions engaged in a fratricidal war, exceeding in bitterness anything known in the American labor movement. He himself was forced out of the union, because of his inability to fall in with the principles of unionism as exemplified in the garment industry. Julius Henry Cohen, in his introduction to this book, writes:

"This book is experience for the inexperienced. It is judgment and knowledge. It is a primer of facts—a case book—for all who would try to organize industry for social progress. That elusive factor—the human element—is here revealed, revealed by an expert, a real expert."

Mr. Dyche starts with a chapter "Who I Am and What I Want to Do." He follows this with a study of the causes of the breakdown in the industry caused by tyrannical unionism. Then follows a fine consideration of the mind and soul of the worker himself in relation not only to capital and unionism but to the aspirations that motivate him and the desires that keep him alive.

For worker and employer, for students and laymen interested in economics, psychology and labor, this book is a necessary one. It is the most pertinent and clearest on the subject now available. 12mo. $2.00

The Whispering Gallery

Leaves From the Diary of An Ex-Diplomat

Of all the delightful and sensational revelations of indiscretions published in recent years, none approaches this for its intimate detail and frankness. In this astounding chronicle the author has recaptured words, and sometimes, even the moods of the speakers, and if the record is the Whispering Gallery, it is chiefly so because some of the disclosures should only be spoken in a whisper, but partly also because the accents reach us from the past, down the long corridor of Time.

This entire book has been compiled from a diary which was kept by the author while he was in the British Diplomatic Service from 1895 to 1924. The Whispering Gallery is a phrase which means that one moves in high social or diplomatic circles where no secret can be breathed without the startling reverberation of rumor from an unexpected quarter. Many of the secrets revealed in these pages have already found their echo in circles of hearsay where the words and the events were most of the time distorted.

The work is not malicious; there is no desire to flatter; it is a desire to tell the truth without fear or favor.

The author has to use a pseudonym, but the publishers know who the author is, and have proven the authenticity of the work before contracting for its publication in America. Through the author's pages appear the figures of Lord Northcliffe, Lord Roberts, Sir John French, Marshall Joffre, Cecil Rhodes, Joseph Chamberlain, the Kaiser, King George V, Wells, Shaw, Kipling, Mark Twain, Lloyd George, Asquith, Balfour, Lord Curzon and Winston Churchill; Mrs. Asquith, Nancy Astor; also President Wilson and Father Vaughan. They are all here, and much is said about each one of them, as the author knew them well.

I Have This To Say

The Story of My Flurried Years

By Violet Hunt

"I was ready to commit the eternal error. I was full, not of Love, but of Loving-kindness, and obsessed by the illusion of all women that they can Save. But, in fact, Woman has always been powerless to save, and there is no such thing as Loving-kindness between her and Man. It is bound to be Love, or nothing, with a dash of hate. The sexes are ravening beasts when once you come to brass tacks."

These words of the author are the keynote to this amazing autobiography. She sets down with an astonishing frankness, all the experiences; the one particularly intimate one, and the things that impressed or depressed her in her Flurried Years. There are some things no one tells; some things that no woman tells, but people know them just the same.

These memoirs, which are astonishing even in an age of revealed intimacies, are always frank and never clumsy. Throughout these pages appear the personalities of Joseph Conrad, Henry James, W. H. Hudson, H. G. Wells; her own family, and more than anyone else Ford Madox Ford (Hueffer), all set down and described with an appealing frankness. She knew them all well and Violet Hunt tells her story in one of the most surprising autobiographies that has ever come out of England. Moreover, the writing itself, in the vigor of narrative and the uncanny life-likeness of the portraits has a bright distinction. Many of her sentences will roll off appreciative tongues in quotation. Her story, beginning with the preparations for the English Review in 1908, is thronged with celebrities. But her main story (a moving and rather tragic story too) scintillates with vivid glimpses of the literary stars of this century. Octavo. Illustrated. $3.50

It Seems To Me

By HEYWOOD BROUN

IF you were asked which page of a New York newspaper had more ardent fan readers than any other there could be no possible hesitation about the answer.

More people turn, morning after morning, to the page of The New York World containing Heywood Broun's "It Seems To Me" column than any other page with the possible exception of the sports and the stock market.

After all baseball is a National Avocation and business a National Vocation. Heywood Broun we are tempted to say is a National Vacation.

For Broun is five minutes of stimulating relaxation to hundreds and thousands of readers. He is, by turns, witty and sad, mordant and kindly, dramatic and literary. One day he is writing a fine panegyric on the pitching arm of Walter Johnson, the next a polemic on the style of Donn Byrne. The next day he is indulging in pure 99 5/10% nonsense.

It is a gamble what we shall read every morning in "It Seems To Me." But whatever subject is touched on by Broun is sure to be entertaining. It seems to us that he is the man-of-all-work play-boy of our day, the knowingest, cleverest, kindest and fairest.

He can be romantic and whimsical, as witness Gandle Follows His Nose.

He can be profound and penetrating and informative as, witness Anthony Comstock. He can be all things and all things well, as witness this collection of the best of his columns for the last few years.

Here are the health-giving capsules we are used to taking daily after breakfast, in one cover, for consumption as the case demands.

The Life And Times Of Martha Hepplethwaite

By FRANK SULLIVAN

FRANK SULLIVAN was in his garden playing with his pet fuchsias when our representative called on him to ask him about his new, and first book.

"You ask me about my new book," said Mr. Sullivan, with a deprecating laugh, as he fondled a fuchsia. "Oh now, really, I'd much prefer not to talk. . . . Hold on! Wait a second! Don't go. I'll talk. My goodness, can't you take a little joke?"

"In the first chapter of the book," said Mr. Sullivan, "I begin at the dawn of human life on this planet, just after the various gases had cooled, and a person could go out of doors without a gas mask.

"I take up the development of the congressman, who is the earliest known form of life, as you know. The congressman, of course, was originally unicellular. That is to say, if you took a congressman and cut him into two sections, the two sections immediately became two entirely new congressmen, each with its own central heating system and frock coat.

"My second chapter will be devoted to a resume of the Great Lovers of History. This chapter will be suppressed, but I expect to publish it privately later on, and will sell it for twenty dollars, each copy autographed and with a lot of French pictures thrown in, showing the Champs Elysees, with and without the Champs.

"The third and fourth chapters are going to be very dull, I fear me, so we'll skip them.

"The fifth chapter will for the first time divulge my sovereign remedy for colds, bruises, sprains, aches, 'that tired feeling,' phthisis, acne, vertigo and suicidal mania. It consists of two parts Bacardi rum, one part pineapple juice, the white of an egg and a dash of maraschino, well shaken." $2.00

Romantic—I Call It

By ETHEL HARRIMAN

Introduction by Noel Coward
Illustrated by Kyra Markham

THIS is another original and brilliantly witty diary, supposed to emanate from the naive pen of a familiar type—the club woman person of say, Marmaroneck. Emerson, somewhere or other has said:

"What an ornament and safeguard is humor! Far better than wit for a poet and writer. It is a genius itself and so defends from the insanities."

Mrs. Samuel Shimmyall is the proud president of The Wom n's Club of Marmaroneck. In her pursuit of Culture, Romance and Happiness, all with capital letters, she gives off enough humor for three books.

"I had a long talk with Ernest," she says, "when we got home. Ernest telling me to take even more pains than I do to ingratiate myself with everyone."

And Mrs. Shimmyall certainly will ingratiate herself with everyone. She is one of the most delightful creatures of modern literature.

Among the chapters of the book are the following:

Goodbye All (Mrs. Shimmyall is sailing for Europe to help our boys make the world safe for Democracy).

Just Romantic I Call It.

In Which I Liken Myself to a Chameleon.

How Simple It Is to Make Folks Happy.

So to Speak, Remade.

"You Will Receive a Letter."

Where One Urn Stood, Stand Two.

We venture to say that "Romantic—I Call It" will become part of our language, our comic strips and the songs we sing.

Songs From the Heart of a Boy

By JESSE LASKY, JR.

IT is rare pleasure to read verse of such refreshing and unpretentious loveliness as is contained in this volume. Jesse Lasky, Jr., is sixteen years old; because of this and not despite it he writes with a freedom and spontaneity lacking in much of the sophisticated and labored verse of our day. He writes of many things; he philosophises with the charming insouciance of youth; he makes love unconscious of desire; he apostrophizes nature with no effort to find figures of speech that will startle. This book is a book to be read if one wants again to feel the untired glory of being very young, very much in love, and very full of life. $2.00

Robinson Jeffers

The Man and the Artist

By GEORGE STERLING

THIS book will satisfy the great interest aroused in the life of the genuinely great American poet, whose emergence after years of obscurity is the outstanding literary e ent of a decade.

Mr. Sterling himself is a poet of distinction, and one of those who, in devoted appreciation, helped to bring about the triumphant recognition of Robinson Jeffers.

The book is first of all a portrait of the man, of the strange figure who, after years of traveling settled down on the wild, sea-beaten cliff at Carmel, California, in what was virtually a literary hermitage, and there set down the tragic folk-tales of Northern California in epical verse, that for once brought a modern poet within range of the greatest Greek poets.

But it is as well the most complete critical consideration of the poet that has yet appeared, a survey and analysis that gives the reader a view of the work as a whole and makes clearer the work of a profound and original poet. $1.00

Avowals

A New and Revised Edition

By GEORGE MOORE

THIS work has heretofore been available only in an expensive limited edition now out of print. In this new edition, the author has made corrections and additions so that it will remain the standard text.

In Avowals we find some of the most interesting criticism ever written. The discussion about English prose narrative; the exquisitely perceptive pages on Turgenieff; the analysis of the work of Walter Pater, Rudyard Kipling and Henry James, all of these are sufficient reason for reading Avowals. Rarely has there appeared such a delightful mixture of criticism and gossip in a tone perfectly adapted to it. Written in that incomparable English prose, perhaps the most interesting prose in modern English literature, Avowals makes a book fascinating in its interest. Large 12mo. $2.50

Life of Sir Charles Sedley

By V. DE SOLA PINTO

SIR CHARLES SEDLEY (1639-1701) English wit, courtier, rake and dramatist was a contemporary of the Earl of Rochester, Dryden and other distinguished men of that time. In his writings he was almost as licentious and brilliant as Rochester, whom he greatly resembles. Sedley's daughter was the mistress of James II, a situation which caused much disturbance even in those gay and careless times.

This work by Dr. Pinto is the first important work on one of the most conspicuous figures of the Restoration period in England. It is also a comprehensive history of those times. All the great figures from 1639 to 1701 appear in these pages, where a most delightful narrative has been related with charm and interest. Boni & Liveright are planning to follow this work next spring with a collected and unabridged edition of all Sedley's plays, poems and satires. Large Octavo. Portraits. $6.00

The Story of Mankind

Enlarged Edition

By HENDRIK WILLEM VAN LOON

FIVE years ago a young historian who had written half a dozen books and had tried to find a new form of historical expression more in keeping with the needs of our modern age was peddling a manuscript along the literary rialto of New York and was peddling it unsuccessfully. Some publishers, when he explained his plans, laughed and others wept, but all agreed that this was not the way to teach history to nice little boys and girls. To make a long and rather amusing story short, we took the book and published it.

Today The Story of Mankind has run through more than twenty-five large editions in America. It has been translated into almost all the better known languages of Europe and Asia. It is a popular seller in New Zealand and in Cape Town. The Germans absorbed ten editions within a single year. And it has revolutionized the teaching of history in the schools. Meanwhile the world has been making history at such a rapid clip that it has become necessary to revise The Story of Mankind and add several chapters to make it up-to-date.

This new, enlarged edition is now offered with all the original illustrations and maps. $2.50

The Physiology of Taste

Or Meditations on Transcendental Gastronomy

By ANTHELME BRILLAT-SAVARIN

Introduction by Frank Crowninshield

ANTHELME BRILLAT-SAVARIN, French lawyer, politician, magistrate, literary man, said the golden words: "Tell me what you eat, and I will tell you what you are." This lawyer and judge, this member of the Constituent Assembly owes his place with posterity to his Physiology of Taste which appeared in 1825, the year before his death. Brillat-Savarin was a learned and affluent gentleman and scholar who chose for his pleasure to become the hero of gastronomy.

Brillat-Savarin was alive to the necessity of charming and even amusing his readers and he was not averse to a certain exaggeration, which however we shall greatly misjudge if we think it either satirical or frivolous. He regards food quite seriously as the most important thing in existence. Those who decline to admit the merits of a roast turkey, varnished in golden gravy, emit a paradox which demands and obtains a double refutation. He watched the effects of diet on the human body through a whole lifetime, and at last his physician obliged him to release his manuscript to the press just in time.

The reader watches for his anecdotes as for purple patches, for he was a perfect narrator and he tells his stories with incredible gusto. The book is full of information on curious points which lie outside the range of ordinary knowledge. The reader will browse for hours in the pasture of this delightful book. It is the one masterpiece on the subject. Health, happiness, hospitality, culture, converse, love, the whole art of keeping fit and of good living are bound with it. It is uniform with our editions of Tristram Shandy, A Sentimental Journey and Marco Polo and contains a fine introduction by Frank Crowninshield.

A Sentimental Journey, Letters To Eliza, and Other Pieces

By LAURENCE STERNE

Edited with an Introduction by Professor Wilbur L. Cross, Yale University

IN this beautiful volume, Professor Cross has brought together A Sentimental Journey, Letters to Eliza and a selection from the miscellaneous correspondence, making an excellent volume of the works of Laurence Sterne.

A Sentimental Journey is a pretended (and no doubt partly real) autobiographic account of a journey through France to the Italian frontier and is planned on no very different general principle than Tristram Shandy, having its own medallions of characters. The book is uniform with Professor Cross' edition of Tristram Shandy, published by Boni & Liveright in 1925. The two volumes make the most satisfactory edition of the works of Sterne now in print, containing everything that could in any way interest the now large and constantly increasing number of readers of Sterne.

Poems in Praise of Practically Nothing

By Samuel Hoffenstein

The occasional appearance of some of this verse in Vanity Fair and in the Conning Tower of the New York World, created at once an immediate demand for their publication in book form. Henry L. Mencken describes them as "the incomparable dirges of Samuel Hoffenstein, possessing genuine distinction."

It is not easy to describe the peculiar charm of these verses. They seem to be serious in purpose—they really are the most delightful and amusing commentary on life and manner and affectation of today. They are brilliant, subtle and judicial. In point of style and manner and text we cannot imagine anything more interesting than these verses of Mr. Hoffenstein. They are both provocative and suggestive, always giving much and never going too far. His book throughout has a definite characteristic of originality, and if it is self-portraiture, then it is vivid, sensuous by treatment, delicate and coarse, and there is a humor in it, a superior humor not easily described, but on the whole it is amiable and entertaining.

Poems

By Dorothy Parker

No verse, light or serious, has been more discussed or more definitely appreciated in recent years than that of Dorothy Parker. Heretofore it has only appeared in the pages of magazines and in newspaper columns, the printing of which in each case attracted immediate attention.

This is the first volume containing her representative verse, both serious and light, and will be followed by others, for we are certain of the immediate acclaim for these poems. All of Miss Parker's poems are delightful; she writes with charm and imagination, with tenderness and with gentle cynicism. She is most skilful in the use of rhythm and one accepts her work for what it is—a high quality of perfection in thought, in idea, and in form. Such work is bound to endure, for it possesses the sort of beauty and delicate humor which is lasting; her verse takes hold of one and remains in the mind, provoking admiration.

Personae

The Collected Poems of

Ezra Pound

In Paris lives a tall, spare-bearded man, now in his middle years. Younger French writers flock to his door to discuss the arts with him. American writers and artists just arrived in France, make pilgrimages to him.

He is that strange American, Ezra Pound, one of the most interesting men of letters of our time, and certainly its finest ironic poet—the man who has joyfully fought for unrecognized artists, who has seen many of them established in the forefront, and who, incorrigible crusader, is even now leading the fight for an American composer of genius, Antheil.

His collected poems are indeed a rich offering. They included his caustic portraits, his comments, brilliant with the malice of high intelligence, his strangely beautiful imagistic poems into which he has poured the fruit of his forty odd years of vivid life and observation, making them as packed with subtle and revealing ideas as they are shining with beautiful poetry, and his spirited translations from the French poets, the robust Latin poets, Catullus and Propertius, the Italian, and the Provencal trouveres.

A number of the inclusions are from limited editions now unavailable. Square Octavo. $3.50

The Poems of Francois Villon

Including the Little Testament and the Great Testament
A Complete and Unabridged Translation

THIS volume was published by us in the Fall of 1924 in a special format, limited to 1,000 copies, which are now selling at a premium where available. We are republishing this volume complete, identical except in format with the limited edition, in a trade edition which we now offer for sale.

We believe that John Lepper's translation of Villon's poems reproduce the spirit of the original more closely than any previous translation. With this text there is a delightful introduction by Lepper, copious notes and also translations of Villon by John Payne, D. G. Rossetti, A. C. Swinburne, Arthur Symons and Ezra Pound.

Through the medium of this book there is offered for the first time a complete and spirited as well as an accurate translation of the work of an incomparable poet. Large 12mo. $3.00

An Anthology of Catholic Poetry

Edited by Joyce Kilmer
New Edition, with sixty-four added pages, edited by Shaemas O'Sheel

THIS anthology which has had such a remarkable sale since its publication under the editorship of that fine poet and soldier, Joyce Kilmer has been here almost doubled in value by the addition of many important poems and poets, arranged by another well-loved poet, Shaemas O'Sheel. O'Sheel is the author of two poems which will live as long as poetry; He Whom A Dream Hath Possessed and They Went Forth To Battle But They Always Fell.

There is a new introduction and a new index. In passing it might be said that most of these poems are entirely secular in matter and the anthology besides appealing to Catholic readers has a much greater general appeal.

The Midnight Court and The Adventures of a Luckless Fellow

Translated from the Gaelic by Percy Arland Ussher
With an introduction by William Butler Yeats

ALTHOUGH several translations have been made of this delightful poem from the Gaelic none can approach this new one of Mr. Ussher, now offered to the English and American public. The translation is unabridged and this delightful Rabelaisian, Irish poem, is now first presented complete to English readers. There is the quality of Chaucer in this poem, and modern readers will be surprised at the free speech and buffoonery expressed in the work.

The Midnight Court is a court of love where Venus sits as judge of the fit and the unfit to enter the great amorous state of which she is the highest symbol. 12mo. $2.00

By HART CRANE
Introduction by Allen Tate

ASK almost any poet about the work of Hart Crane and he will break into superlatives. The career of Crane is like that of several of our outstanding contemporary poets who arrived at public notice by way of a preliminary recognition from their brother poets.

Crane's poetry is distinguished and beautiful. He has a rare sweetness of sound so that the reader who finds him difficult finds himself nevertheless reading the poem through. Graceful but unobvious rhythms lead him on, and vivid and original metaphors beguile him, and when he rereads "to get the sense," he is rewarded by a revelation of new and greater beauties.

The publication of Mr. Crane's first collection of poems is, we feel, an event in American poetry; it contains a fine introduction by Allen Tate who is one of Mr. Crane's greatest admirers. 12mo. $2.00

The American Essence

A Biography of the American Mind

By LEWIS MUMFORD
Author of Sticks and Stones

MR. MUMFORD'S American Essence aims to do for American ideas what Sticks and Stones did for American architecture. It traces current ideas and values back to their point of origin in the past; and relates ideas to experiences and actions to ideas; in short it is an interpretation of both American life and American culture.

The first chapter, on the Beginnings of the American Mind, shows how the breakdown of European culture paved the way for the American settlement. The succeeding chapters on The Blasted Pioneer, The Transcendentalist Protest, The Golden Age, The Pragmatic Acquiescence and The Pillage of the Past carry the stream of American ideas and experiences out onto the ocean of contemporary life.

Coming at the end of a decade of criticism which produced such books as Mr. Brooks' America's Coming of Age and Mr. Waldo Frank's Our America, The American Essence is the first attempt to treat the subject in historic sequence; it contributes a fresh reading of cultural life in America and a new valuation of American history. Mr. Mumford heaves many of the old idols out of their accustomed niches around our American holy of holies; at the same time, he lights candles before new altars and in his discussion of the present issues in American culture, suggests new objects of veneration and interest. From Pascal to Proust

By G. TURQUET—MILNES

THE author of this delightful volume of literary essays which is really a study in the genealogy of a modern attitude of mind, has been described as a Bergsonian critic. Artist and poet must inevitably feel a close affinity with a philosophy that seeks by a sympathetic effort to search into the mysterious depths of being, rather than with one which is conten to analyse from without by the cold concep of pure reason.

Some of the essays are on Pascal, Thibaude and Marcel Proust. The scheme of thes essays may be described by a passage fro Albert Thibaudet's works:

"The universe contains an internal life whic we cannot grasp, which we see dimly throug veils and which probably is the genius of Plato, a Leonardo da Vinci, or a Goethe multiplied to the power of infinity. Supracon sciousness may have had, like genius, its tragi moments. Perhaps the great tragedies of th stage and of history, the great dramas o spiritual life, enable us to communicate wit this cosmic supraconsciousness from whic worlds have fallen like dead leaves from a tree.

Social Anthropology

A Psychoanalytic Study in Anthropology an A History of Australian Totemism

By GEZA ROHEIM, PH. D.

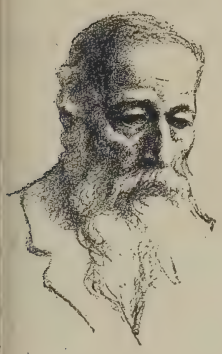
NUMEROUS have been the attempts to unve what Andrew Lang called the Secret of th Totem, a question upon which Sir J. G. Fraze once said he had changed his views repeatedl and was prepared to change them with ever new piece of evidence.

Dr. Roheim is a young Hungarian anthro pologist whose work has already attracted th attention of English authorities. Freud an Rivers are pioneers in this field, but Roheim work is the first attempt to submit a specif anthropological question to detailed psych analytic investigation. In result, it will b seen that the application of the investigatio of unconscious mental processes in the ind vidual to a study of the Australian native giv a profound meaning and universal psycholog significance to customs whose understandi has hitherto baffled scholarship.

The book is not a translation; it was writte by Dr. Roheim in English. Large octavo. $7.5

Travels in Arabia Deserta

By CHARLES M. DOUGHTY



CHARLES M. DOUGHTY saw more of desert life in Northern Arabia and has described it more minutely and faithfully than any other explorer. Traveling down from Damascus in 1875 with the Haj caravan, he stopped at El Hajr, one of the pilgrim stations, with the intention of awaiting the return of the caravan and in the meantime of exploring the rock-cut tombs of Medain Salih and El Ala. Having successfully completed his investigations, he determined to push on farther into the desert. He wandered over the whole of the borderland between Hejaz and Nejd visiting Tema where, among other ancient remains, he described the famous inscribed stone, afterwards acquired by Huber for the Louvre. He pushed on to Aneza and eventually after many hardships and perils he found his way to the coast of Jidda.

From this life time of travel has come this extraordinary work. The first edition (1888), which consisted only of a few hundred copies, has long been out of print and is seldom offered for sale. In cooperation with Jonathan Cape and the Medici Society we have republished it, first several years ago in two volumes and now in its entirety with all illustrations, charts and maps in one volume on thin paper. This makes available at a popular price the greatest travel book ever written. J. Middleton Murry wrote of it: "This is the achievement of a pure and deliberate art; very little prose of this assured magnificence has been written in our day; and certainly no other book has been maintained on such a level for centuries. Arabia Deserta is incomparable."

An Anthology of Chinese and Japanese Poetry

Compiled and Edited by

JOSEPH LEWIS FRENCH

CHINESE poetry is the largest body of verse in the world coming from a people of whom Ampere remarks, "Of all the nations the Chinese seem to be the fondest of poetry—all the educated write verses." This statement applies in modern times to the uneducated as well. Sometimes an independent author addresses himself directly to the people. He writes his verses on the wall to the entrance of a quarter, most often without signing them. If a scholar passes and finds a poem worthy the trouble he makes a copy of it which he keeps for his friends, and eventually he puts it with others similarly discovered. Poems kept in this manner are soon wafted from mouth to mouth, become famous and in the end popular. Chinese poetry is not only the largest but the oldest body of poetry in the world.

Japanese poetry is a growth. The main body of Japanese poetry is freely imitative, as was nearly all esthetic impulse in that country—deriving for the most part directly from Chinese sources.

The aims of the present compilation are dual. First to present a fairly representative compendium of the whole body of Chinese and Japanese poetry as translated and rendered into English thus far and secondly to give pleasure to the reader. The selections have been made largely from the latter viewpoint. Again in the interest of the general reader, the various renderings from the same poet are interspersed throughout the book, generally according to the order of the translator's appearance and not chronologically with the original. This book has been prepared in a most beautiful format.

The first edition consists of one thousand copies, specially printed and bound. $7.50

Droll Stories

(Contes Drolatiques)

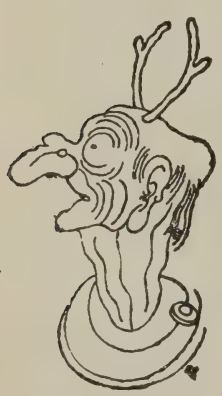
By HONORE DE BALZAC

Illustrated by Ralph Barton

The Translation Revised by Ernest A.Boyd. Two volumes with 36 full-page illustrations in two colors and many sketches

No complete or desirable edition of Droll Stories by Balzac exists at present in English. Because of this the publishers feel justified in offering this unusually beautiful edition for private subscribers. Balzac defines these stories as "Etudes analytiques," thus letting us infer, even before we read them, that his purpose was to hold the mirror up to nature. Being no more a doctrinaire than Chaucer, or Shakespeare, he believes that there is a soul of goodness in things evil and indeed, as he says in the Develes Heir, that good and evil are intermingled in this world.

Ernest A. Boyd, who has arranged this edition for the press, is well known as a scholar in French and Irish literature. The text is in the spirit of the original and it is complete.



Ralph Barton, one of America's best known illustrators, made a special pilgrimage to Touraine, the country of the Droll Stories, and made numerous sketches of the scene. Owing to the necessity of Mr. Barton's prolonged absence in Europe, there has been a delay in the completion of the pictures and the publication of the book.

The edition will be strictly limited to two thousand numbered copies, printed from type on special rag paper. The two volumes will be bound in buckram boards, size 6½ x 9. This edition will not be issued again. The price before publication will be twenty dollars.

Sex Expression in Literature

By V. F. CALVERTON

Author of The Newer Spirit and Editor of The Modern Quarterly

Introduction by Harry Elmer Barnes

SEX expression in literature is a challenge to the moralists. Mr. Calverton attacks prudery and puritanism as characteristics injurious to contemporary literature which has broken from the fetters of a decaying social class. It is an exposition and a justification of the freedom of sex expression in our new art.

Literature is linked with society and sex expression with economic evolution.

Today is an era of new morality. A new sex life is forcing its way into contemporary society. Our literature, in fact world literature, is expressing this new sex life, embodying a new sex attitude in its substance. Sherwood Anderson, Theodore Dreiser, Floyd Dell and a score of others in America, James Joyce, Wedekind, Thomas Hardy, Ivanov, Toller in foreign lands, all announce the birth of a new fearlessness in their approach to sex in fiction.

For the first time in the history of literary criticism, the changing attitudes toward sex expression are analysed and related to their social origins. What was one time considered changes of taste or cycles of caprice, Mr. Calverton shows to have been in reality changes in social life, changes in class moralities and art. The sweep of Mr. Calverton's work extends all the way from the sex ethics in Elizabethan dramatics to the sex antics in the modern novel and musical comedy. Tracing the vestiges of sex worship on the Elizabethan stage, the analysis is carried up to the present time with illustrations of the Cabellian symbolism and Andy Gump pornography.

The Mystic Rose

A Study of Primitive Life

By A. E. Crawley

So great has been the demand for this classical work in anthropology that its republication has long been contemplated. It was the author's wish, however, that the new edition be thoroughly revised and enlarged to include the new material and the various revisions of ideas that new discoveries made necessary.

He was completing these revisions when his death occurred. However his widow and his friend Theodore Besterman who had collaborated with him in preparing the material were able to complete the work for publication. The result is almost as Mr. Crawley would have had it himself had he lived to see the work through the press.

This work is not only a thorough study of the psychology of the lower races in their marriage systems and customs, it is also a basis for inquiry into the simplest and most elemental aspects in which the individual appears in relation to society. The ultimate appeal in these questions is to universal facts of human physiology and psychology. In its form the work will contain interesting chapters on Sexual Taboo; Human Relations; Sexual Relations; Marriage and Its Ceremonies; Theory of Union and Change; Parents, Children and Relatives; Love; Obscenity; Chastity; Orgy and Kissing; etc. Bibliography and Index.

Since its first publication in 1905, this work has remained a classic of social anthropology. Requiring revision, the work has been out of print for some years, and copies have become scarce and valuable, showing the real need for a new and definitive edition. This is now available. In its two volume form and content the work definitely becomes part of the great literature on Anthropology and as necessary to the librarian or the cultivated reader as Tylor, Frazer and Westermarck in which category it belongs.

Civilisation or Civilisations

An Essay in the Splenglerian Philosophy of History

By E. H. Goddard and P. A. Gibbons

Introduction by F. C. S. Schiller, M.A., D.Sc.

The idea of progress has been one of the typical beliefs of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, a faith which has consciously or unconsciously engendered in us a feeling of superiority over the past; and though the war has shattered so many of our illusions, we cling all the more to our belief in progress, which almost alone enables us to take an optimistic view of the human race. Any such forecast of the future must, however, involve a comparison between the present and the past, and in any such comparison some standard of progress is indispensable.

History in no wise shows the clear line in which civilization has constantly progressed; taken on the whole it shows rather a chaotic series of human achievements. It was because of this and other facts that Spengler was prompted to propound his Law of Civilization which has recently been published in England and America under the title The Decline of the West.

To elaborate and to expound clearly and shortly in an intelligent manner this great idea of Spengler's is the ambition of this book. Within its pages you will find a complete synthesis with a commentary of the entire idea prompted by Spengler in his book, and for the general reader one might say it is even better in its lucidity and its analysis than the original work itself. The provocative introduction is by the noted author of Tantalus, or the Future of Man in the Today and Tomorrow Series.

The Shanghai Gesture

By JOHN COLTON

Co-Author of Rain

With an introduction by John D. Williams

JOHN COLTON, who has already won distinction for his part in the making of Rain, has in the opinion of critics, more than equaled that high achievement in his new play, The Shanghai Gesture.

It is a masterpiece of melodrama. The background is the International Settlement at Shanghai where East meets West more completely perhaps than any place else in the world. The brotherhood of passion and vice makes the union possible.

Against this drama, a situation of terrifying intensity and power works itself out. A rejected native woman schemes a diabolic revenge. Making her plight a road to power, she becomes the feared, mysteriously powerful Mother Goddam, keeper of a dive from which radiate most of the crime and violence that cow the city.

Its drama is so fundamentally based on human character and passion and a situation so compelling that the reader quickly falls under its magic. 12mo. $2.00

Bride of The Lamb

By WILLIAM HURLBUT

Introduction by Arthur Pollock

THIS thoroughly American play is, in many ways the outstanding drama of the season. Its story, its people, its background are all American. It tells the history of a small rural community during the progress of one of the religious revivals so characteristic of our countryside. In particular it tells the story of mild gentle Ina Bowman whom Fate chooses as the evangelist's hostess. Religious frenzy gives her the momentum to enter into a love relationship with the revivalist. The intrigue is half-sensual, half-religious ecstacy. It leaves her adulteress, murderess and mad-woman and, in her own mind, Bride of the Lamb.

Alexander Woollcott wrote in The New York World:

"This is an acute, searching merciless study of a parched, unhappy woman in whose sorely wrung heart and poor jumbled brain there is a hopeless, hysterical mixture of religious ecstacy and a great hunger for the strapping preacher who presides over its jubilant and tumultuous sessions. A play hewn from the stuff of American life as clearly and as honestly as Mr. Dreiser's An American Tragedy." 12mo $2.00

The Good Fellow

By GEORGE S. KAUFMAN AND HERMAN J. MANKIEWICZ

THIS new play deals with a familiar though as yet untheatrical figure in American life—the practicing hail-fellow-well-met, the relentless joiner, the professional lodge member. Jim Helton, its central character, has, in the words of his mother-in-law, joined everything Wilkes-Barre has to offer except the League of Nations. The secrets of no lodge are foreign to him; in twenty-five years he has accumulated enough sashes and plumes to start a forest fire. And during those same twenty-five years, unfortunately, his family, dependent upon him, has gone from bad to worse, while his reputation as a good fellow has steadily grown outside the home.

The play, though it deals with an essentially pathetic and tragic personnel and situation, is written in terms of comedy. Mr. Kaufman, of course, is the well-known author of The Butter and Egg Man and co-author of Dulcy, Merton of the Movies, Beggar on Horseback, etc. Mr. Mankiewicz, here represented by his first play, was formerly a member of the dramatic department of the New York Times and dramatic critic of the New Yorker. $2.00

Understanding Ourselves

By HAROLD DEARDEN

WHAT is happiness and why do only some ossess it? How can one person be rich, youthful, admired and yet profoundly wretched, hile another in his poverty and sickness knows ie real meaning of peace through all his ials? Can one alter one's temperament? And hy do small things hurt one person more than nother? What are "nerves" and nervous exaustion, and can they be cured and how? Vhy do we at times, seem forced to do things hich we abhor; and why do we detest in others ie faults which we ourselves possess?

Why on approaching a theatre do we become nvinced that we have left the tickets at home; why are we compelled to rise from bed that e may satisfy ourselves that the front door is deed securely fastened? Why can not some eople stand closed rooms, while others are raid of open spaces; and why do some comit crime, and is the criminal born or made?

These questions and many others are dealt ith by Dr. Dearden in this book; and the lain reader as well as those who find life fficult is likely to benefit equally at his ands.

The second part of the book is devoted to ie subject of sex; and the pitfalls to be enountered and the difficulties to be overcome e handled with a boldness and delicacy itherto unapproached. Large 12mo. $3.00

The South Africans

By SARAH GERTRUDE MILLIN

The distinguished author of God's Stepchildren and Mary Glenn now presents us with a serious and comprehensive study of the South African.

Today there is a feeling running through the land like the feeling that is communicated silently from one to another in a crowd 'till suddenly there rises up a common cry. The white and the black men are irking one another, and the yellow man is troubling them both. And here is this rich country, rich in gold, in diamonds and in minerals of all kinds; will it remain a white man's country, or eventually become once again the black man's land; or will they all live together with the least unhappiness and enmity?

We can cordially recommend this book as an important contribution to the social study of this day.

Cleopatre

By HAROLD LOEB

To give so delightful a tale away would be an unpardonable sin (even for a publisher) so no more than a hint of the profound question the hero has to decide may be offered the reader: What are you to do when the girl you love is discovered to be, quite naturally, a murderer of some of your race? John Myers meets his big problem, and his friend meets another problem, a no less difficult one.

"Indeed, it may be questioned whether there is another poet writing in America today—or in England for that matter—who can, when he so desires, write in so indelible a fashion. . . . To us it seems that there are in this book pages, many, many pages, which are equalled only by the very great."—Percy A. Hutchinson in the New York Times.

"A strange book, filled with masculine verse, a dark book in which move the shadows of the mighty Greeks, a book of sounding lines of blank verse, of three long poems, two at least of memorable quality. . . . If you don't find him, you are missing a poet."—New York Post.

"Always with Mr. Jeffers, as with other major poets, humanity breaks into fire."—Mark Van Doren in The Nation.

Important Announcement

GEORGE WASHINGTON

THE IMAGE AND THE MAN

by W. E. WOODWARD

Author of BUNK, LOTTERY, BREAD AND CIRCUSES

WE ARE honored—and happy—to announce for publication on October first GEORGE WASHINGTON—THE IMAGE AND THE MAN, by W. E. Woodward.

For the past six years, W. E. Woodward (his novels, Lottery, and Bunk, are well known to you, and have established him highly in the estimation of book commentators everywhere) has been working on this biography of Washington.

Quietly but exhaustively he has sought and studied to satisfy his own deep curiosity as to what manner of man Washington really was. There is no bias, no prejudice in Woodward's painting of the sitter, no will to be iconoclastic or to create a new mould of fashion in style, (the book is straight reading), no impulse to be a new, bold, bad biographer.

And yet, from the book there emerges a figure that the reader is bound to feel is the real George Washington at last, freed of the glamorous fictions with which romantic historians have invested him. His entire career is weighed and appraised by a student of men and is judged by the standards of Washington's own times as well as in the clear light that today's knowledge of the human mind and motives affords.

Mr. Woodward's work becomes as much a history of Washington's times as it does of the man himself, through the author's method of treatment. It is absorbingly fascinating reading.

We believe this is very likely the big biography of the season.

Publication—October first. Octavo. Sixteen full-page plates. $4.00.

LOVE-LIFE IN NATURE

The Story of the Evolution of Love

by

WILHELM BÖLSCHE

Translated from the German by Cyril Brown

¶ THIS is the sensational book which has sold over 100,000 copies in Germany, translated for the first time in English. The evolution of love, holy and profane, as the great cosmic force in all life throughout the ages, is the amazingly frank subject matter of this monumental masterpiece.

From the first birth of stellar worlds in space, and the first germ of life on earth by spontaneous generation from inorganic matter, physical love is followed through all the kaleidoscopic phases of reproduction, from the bacillus to man.

The love life of the cave man and of the blind worm, of the spider, the jelly-fish, the bee, of fish, flesh and fowl, of plants, and the whole love-complex of savage and civilized man and woman—all these are presented in a series of vivid, fast-moving motion pictures. While the work is modestly intended to be an Evolutionary History of Love, it constitutes really a brilliant and daring modern philosophy of love.

(To be published in October)

FORD MADOX FORD

Author of No More Parades

A Man Could Stand Up

¶ WITH the publication two years ago of Some Do Not . . . Ford's reputation as one of the finest writers in the English language today was firmly established. Since then, after the appearance last year of No More Parades, his stature has grown even more, and this novel became a best seller as well as the most highly praised novel of the year by a great number of critics. In his latest book, Ford continues the development of ideas and characters from the previous ones, and his host of admirers will certainly not be disappointed in it, representing, as it does, the climax of the three volumes.

(To be published in October) 12mo. cloth, 320 pages. $2.50

NOTE:

¶ SOME DO NOT . . . by Ford Madox Ford has just been added to our list, and is issued in a binding uniform with the other novels. NO MORE PARADES, called by The New York Times, "one of the notably important contributions of the present century to the English novel" is now in its fifth edition. The price of each of these novels is $2.50.

EDMUND WILSON

Discordant Encounters:

Plays and Dialogues

¶ THIS popular young writer and critic discourses on all manner of present day topics playing on the eternal conflict between new and old, and then turns to two satiric plays carrying further the same idea.

The six pieces all deal with different aspects of the same situation, and the collection dramatizes the contemporary conflict of social forces and ideals, especially as it is reflected by contemporary American culture.

(To be published in September) 12mo. boards, 340 pages. $2.50

JIM TULLY

Author of Beggars of Life

Jarnegan

¶ SINCE the hobo days, described in his autobiography, Beggars of Life, now a classic of biography, Jim Tully has lived in Hollywood. For thirteen years he has been an extra player there, a publicity writer, and reader for the studios. Jarnegan is the first honestly written novel about Hollywood.

The story traces the dynamic career of Jack Jarnegan, sometime usher, bill-poster, high-diver, assistant to a medical faker, ex-convict, and later—the greatest director in Hollywood. At the last, surfeited with women, wealth and drink, Jarnegan, hardly forty, with a salary of $5000 a week, sums up his life. It is a character study from first hand observation of a type new to fiction.

(To be published in August) 12mo. cloth, 288 pages. $2.00

CUTHBERT WRIGHT

The Story of the Catholic Church

¶ A PLAINSPOKEN, but intensely atmospheric treatment of the oldest of Christian institutions. All previous histories of the Catholic Church have been written either by the biased pens of theologians or by the equally biased ones of the free-thinkers. Here for the first time appears a book which combines sympathy with frankness, and interprets the religious standpoint both of the artist and the ordinary man. Such aspects as the growth of the Church, its relations with the State, with everything in modern life from the Fine Arts to the Ku-Klux-Klan are discussed with marked freedom and humor.

(To be published in September) 12mo. cloth, 318 pages. $2.50

GEORG BRANDES

Translated from the Danish by Edwin Björkman

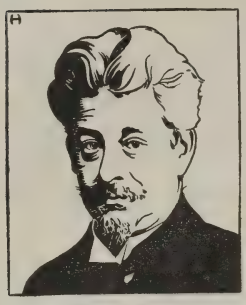
Jesus: A Myth



¶ THE greatest critic of modern times, after a complete and searching study of the evidence, holds that Jesus never existed as a man, but is a wholly legendary figure. Popular history is full of legends —that of William Tell, for example,— which no good critic or historian accepts as true. Now the legend of Jesus is shown to be of a piece with other legends, no more true, with no greater support in the evidence, but maintained, with all the force of dogma and superstition, by the powerful system of Christianity. Brandes has never employed his critical-analytical abilities more finely than in developing this important argument.

(To be published in September) 12mo. cloth, 192 pages. $2.00

Author of No More Parades

A Mirror to France

¶ "ONE of the best books on France that has appeared of late years. It is not really concerned with geographical boundaries. It is the France of good cookery in private homes and small, unpainted inns and restaurants, of the peaceful towns little frequented by foreigners, of a race which still obstinately sets its face against what is commonly called progress. A charming book. . . . the author has no difficulty in summoning up the French spirit, simply because his own approaches it so closely."

—The London Times.

Large 12mo. cloth, 292 pages, illustrated. $2.50

(To be published in August)

E. R. EDDISON

Author of The Worm Ouroboros

Styrbiorn The Strong

¶ JAMES STEPHENS has said that E. R. Eddison "is a vast man." Those who have read his first book know the high quality of his imagination which leads him into unknown worlds of romance. For this novel he has delved deep into the oldest Norse sagas, and has forged a tale of derring-do that sweeps mightily onward even like the tales of old. It is a story of war and of love, of high conquest, and of ancient kingdoms, but Mr. Eddison knows little sentiment in his lusty narrative.

(To be published in September) 12mo, cloth, 230 pages, ill. $2.00

Also by E. R. EDDISON

The Worm Ouroboros

¶ JAMES RBANCH CABELL, in his foreword, says of this book, "It is a majestic example of pure romance, which purchases, through its own unadulterate magic, and for no utilitarian ends whatever, the momentary 'suspension of disbelief' in many very beautiful impossibilities."

"Here I touch the skirts of bewildering romance and by them I am bewitched; here by some magic far different from the common magic of the art I know, I am made aware of and become a part of a new world. An amazing book."—The Independent.

HERMANN BAHR

Expressionism

With 96 full-page plates illustrating the modernist elements through the history of art from the early primitives to modern times. This is the definitive book on modern art expression.

¶ WHILE Expressionism has been invading every branch of the arts, the explanatory literature on the subject has been conspicuously absent. We have had much comment and exposition in English, but no satisfactory theory and analysis of the principles underlying a development now familiar to movie fans and first-nighters no less than to connoisseurs of sculpture and painting.

"The work in question is concisely entitled 'Expressionism' and the author is Hermann Bahr, novelist and dramatist, whose charming comedy 'The Concert' may still be remembered by those who saw it in the somewhat denatured version, played by Leo Dietrichstein. This is, within its limits, which do not include literature and the theatre, the clearest analysis of a movement usually obscured by the metaphysical dissertations of its friends."

From an Article on "Expressionism" by ERNEST BOYD in Vanity Fair.

ALAIN LOCKE, Editor

The New Negro

A Symposium

¶ "THIS volume is one of epoch-making significance. It brings together in a single volume the work of an important group of Negro intellectuals. Its contents render it an important contribution to contemporaneous American literature, definitely ushers in a distinct phase of Negro culture."—DuBose Heyward.

The contents include: Essays on Negro Art in America, The Negro in American Literature, Negro Pioneers, The Negro Digs up his Past; many of the finest examples of Negro fiction, poetry, music and drama; and a complete bibliography. Some of the contributors are: W. E. B. Du Bois, J. W. Johnson, Walter White, Countee Cullen, Langston Hughes, Paul Kellogg, W. A. Domingo.

(Already published)

The book is bound in colored boards, buckram back, illustrated with 17 full color plates by Winold Reiss, with many black and white drawings by Reiss, Covarrubias and Douglas, and examples of the art of famous collections. The price is $5.00.

ULRICH STEINDORFF

From the Sands of the Desert

TALES OF ANCIENT EGYPT RECOVERED FROM THE GRAVE OF THE GREAT SAHARA

¶ THERE have been scientific, literal translations from the wealth of legends and stories found in ancient Egypt, but this is the first English version of these fantastic, grotesque narratives, steeped in the color of the East by a writer who has given them the Oriental touch and fantasy they deserve.

8vo. boards, 288 pages, illustrated. $2.50

(To be published in November)

THORNTON NIVEN WILDER

The Cabala

¶ ALTHOUGH The Cabala is the first book by Mr. Wilder to be published, the press has greeted him in terms generally accorded only to recognized authors of the greatest distinction. "Here is a significant literary event," says The New York Times. "His style bears comparison with Pater, Saltus and Cabell." "Witty and stimulating and thoughtful."—The New York Sun. "More perfecly by Carl Van Vechten than the best of Peter Whiffle." —The Saturday Review.

The story deals with a high-life clique in Rome today. As queer a collection of characters are brought together, subtly and brilliantly analyzed and exposed, as can be imagined.

(Already published) Large 12 mo. boards, 230 pages. $2.50

W. C. HANDY, Editor

Blues: An Anthology

¶ CONTAINING over forty musical numbers selected by Handy, the "Father of the Blues," with introduction and notes by Abbe Niles, and many illustrations by Covarrubias, this anthology has won its place among the musical classics.

Harry Hansen, in The New York World, says, "The story of American folk music has been enriched by this book. Quite the most comprehensive book on the subject I have read." Carl Van Vechten claims "these moans of primitive Negro lovers far transcend the spirituals in their poetic values." The New York Sun finds that it is a veritable treasure of characteristic music, ranging from Negro spirituals to excerpts from the music of Gershwin."

A book that will be found in every library that aims to keep pace with the latest development in the arts. (Already published.)

SUZANNE LA FOLLETTE

Concerning Women

¶ A VIGOROUS and picturesque account of the modern woman and her problems. The author deals with women as a class gradually overcoming the denial of economic opportunity which has kept them in subjection to men. It is shown, however, that both men and women are victims of a fundamental economic injustice that hampers them in all their relations. Women have so nearly overcome their special handicaps that it is time for them to sink the lesser cause of equal rights for themselves in the greater cause of freedom for all human beings.

(To be published in September) 12mo. cloth, 288 pages. $2.50

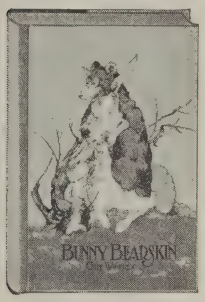
BUNNY BEARSKIN

By GUY WINFREY
Illustrated by Louise Tessin



The whimsical tale of the bunny who would go swimming in the ice cold water. Shivering, shaking, he scurries into Mr. Bear's back-yard and there, on the line hangs Mr. Bear's extra skin. What would you have done? Well, Bunny did appropriate the bear's skin and scampered away with it, and then and there began a series of adventures such as never before happened to a rabbit.

Guy Winfrey brings many a laugh to his youthful audience in this rollicking tale, and Louise Tessin's soft delicate illustrations—fifty of them—depict all the prominent incidents of Bunny's brief but exciting experience.

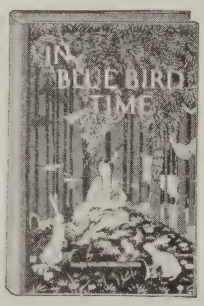
IN BLUEBIRD TIME

By ELLEN MILLER DONALDSON
Illustrated by Hildegard Lupprian

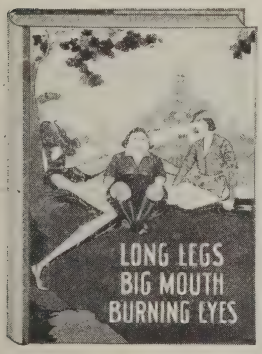


Twilight in Pueblo land—before the flickering embers of a smoldering campfire sits a little Indian girl listening intently to the stories told by a grandmother squaw. It is bluebird time in the land of dreams. In sonorous tones that lull the little dusky maid to sleep, the tale unfolds scenes of sunshine, flowers, animals, birds and all living things.

Ellen Miller Donaldson presents these stories of nature and Indian life as only one can who has lived in the Indian atmosphere and environment. Over forty illustrations by Hildegard Lupprian picture the story in artistic manner and the jacket, a tone poem in blue, completes a beautiful book. Price, $1.75

LONG LEGS, BIG MOUTH, BURNING EYES

By OLGA KOVALSKY and BRENDA PUTNAM
Illustrated by Rhoda Chase and Albert Cugat



Long Legs, Big Mouth and Burning Eyes, "three musketeers" of Russian fairyland come forth to meet the boys and girls of America, in a book of beautiful making and many colors. In old Russia days, the children of the Czar listened with delight to the adventures of this unique trio, and one little girl, by the name of Olga Kovalsky, was so impressed by them and other dream-world characters that when she grew up she brought these charming fairy people with her to America and had Brenda Putnam, the famous sculptress, translate their stories into English, to bring pleasure to the boys and girls of her adopted land.

In this book Mme. Kovalsky tells many of these delightful tales each of which Rhoda Chase has pictured in the true style and brilliancy of Russian art. Albert Cugat furnishes the beautiful cover onlays and attractive end-papers.

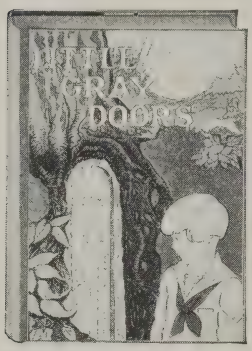
LITTLE GRAY DOORS

By ALEXANDRINA WOODS
Illustrated by The Phillips



Doors that open to the land of enchantment and happiness invite the reader to enter and enjoy these five cheerful and effervescing stories for younger boys and girls. "Little Gray Doors" tells the story of the boy who would not wash his hands; "The Mirror" of the lad who learned to be good by seeing his faults reflected in a looking glass; "The Magic Needle" of the little girl who wandered into Fairyland; "Paternoster" the story of a little boy who learned the lesson of nature from the insects; "The Fairy Glen" of Betty, the little girl who dreamed of the shepherd boy and his China shepherdess.

There is a broad range of creative subject matter and background to each of these stories which Alexandrina Woods has accumulated through years of teaching under Canadian methods. The Phillips have caught the cheerful spirit of the text in their seventy colorful illustrations.

THE FACE IN THE MIST

By HOMER B. HULBERT
Illustrated by Henry Hintermeister

A story of romance and adventure for boys and girls and older folks who still react to the thrill of youth. The scene is laid in the Far East and the islands of the Pacific. The leading characters are a young American Naval Officer, an Irish seaman, and the ever present American boy. The action covers the quest of this trio in search of a mysterious cryptogram which reveals the secret of a treasure horde hidden from the Mongolian tribes that swept over the isles of the China Sea in the sixteenth century. Mystery, thrills and action combine to make this a book of intensely gripping, readable quality.

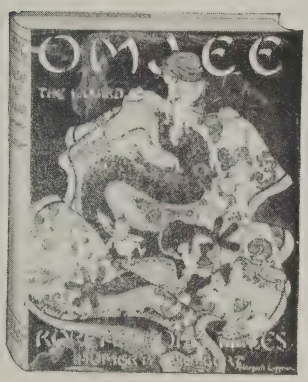
OMJEE, THE WIZARD



KOREAN FOLK TALES

By HOMER B. HULBERT
6 to 12 Years
Illustrated by Hildegard Lupprian

Korea—land of mystery and superstition where facts of life are stranger than fiction of the white man, and imagination finds truth in occult phantasies—presents a background for fanciful tales, unrivaled by any other section of the world.

It is from the folk stories of such a country retold by its people for many generations, that Mr. Hulbert has gathered the material for his book of Omjee the Wizard, and this he has done by personal contract with Korean peasants, having lived among them for several years.

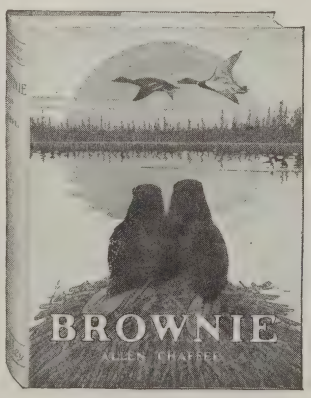
In "Omjee" are incorporated the best and most inspirational of all Korean folk tales and legends, told for boys and girls in a language which they can understand and appreciate. The illustrations and marginal decorations in color on every page convey an artistic and pleasing visualization of the fantastic characters of the stories.

"Omjee the Wizard" is a beautiful story book for young readers, and a valuable addition to racial literature. Size 7¼ x 9⅝. Price $1.50

BROWNIE

THE ENGINEER OF BEAVER BROOK

By ALLEN CHAFFEE
Illustrated by Paul Bramson



Brownie is the Utah beaver, whose habits his present biographer has studied first hand. He is the engineer of forest and waterway, changing, through his marvelous industry and genius, the topography of the country he inhabits as our own roads and cities are undergoing transformation for the needs of a changing civilization. This thought gives Brownie's story an important place in child literature, but the book has an even closer touch, through its theme of constructive energy, with the instincts of the child.

The book is full of nature facts told in the story form all children love. It will be read by boys and girls from eight to twelve years. It will be enjoyed by younger children as soon as they want true stories.

The illustrations by Mr. Bramson, who has no equal in the interpretation of our animal life, are superb. Size 7¼ x 9⅝. Price $1.50

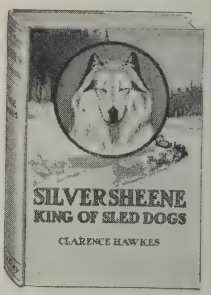
TOM CARDIFF'S CIRCUS

By HOWARD R. GARIS
Illustrated by W. B. King

The crunch of wagons, the din and shout of the mid-way, and the brilliant coloring of the big top call the abused orphan lad to the life in the open. Raised in the environment of a New York State Indian Reservation Tom finds that the achievements taught him by the friendly redskins in his boyhood stand him in good stead for a life of action under the big canvas. Realistic illustrations add to the interest of the story. Price, $1.50

BOOKS BY CLARENCE HAWKES



SILVERSHEENE

Illustrated by Charles Livingston Bull

In the midnight stillness the wolf-cry calls the half-breed back to the wild. Silversheene the mighty is stolen from the domestic hearth to become a member of a dog team in frozen Alaska. His adventures with friend and foe and his final meeting with his old master Dick, added to the thrilling Alaska Sweepstakes, make of this latest work of Mr. Hawkes his finest contribution to animal literature. Price, $1.50

THE WHITE CZAR

Illustrated by Charles Livingston Bull

From the frozen wastes of Labrador come the hardy characters of this thrilling narrative—Eiseeyou, little Oumauk, Tukshu, and Tunkine, the Eskimos; Omingmong, the wild musk ox; Niksuk, the seal; and Whitie, the bear, who was to become the White Czar of the great North, are the principals. The exciting events on ice floe, in open water, and in that world old city of Quebec, hold the fascinated interest of the reader. Price, $1.25

PEP
THE STORY OF A BRAVE DOG

Illustrated by William Van Dresser

Every lover of dogs will treasure this book. Pep, a blue ribbon bull terrier, follows his master to France and plays his part in the great struggle. While some of the scenes are laid along the battle line, it is not a war tale, but a human interest story of a faithful and intelligent dog. Price, $0.85

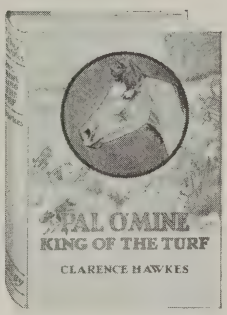
PAL O' MINE

KING OF THE TURF

Illustrated by Charles Livingston Bull
12 to 16 Years



In the blue-grass of Old Kentucky, with its stately mansions, formal manners, and old-world customs, is foaled the thoroughbred Pal O' Mine. Trained by his young master in the fox-hunt, he develops into an entry for the Derby. He must win to save the old ancestral estate—he does, and in such a thrilling manner as only Mr. Hawkes can depict.

The dark clouds of internecine strife roll over North and South. Torn between conflicting emotions Halsey Eaton and his mount enter the Ohio Cavalry. The escapades and adventures of this band of free-raiders give Pal O' Mine and Halsey their opportunity to share in the saving of the Union.

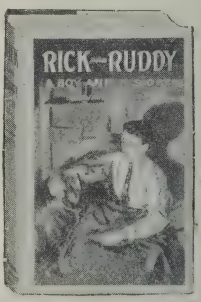
THE RICK AND RUDDY BOOKS

By Howard R. Garis

Rick, the boy, and Ruddy, the dog, will find a warm spot in the heart of every boy and girl. Their adventures as told by Mr. Garis are such as any real boy and his faithful dog might experience, adding the interest of realism to the entertainment of well told tales. There are five titles in the series, all illustrated by well known artists.

RICK AND RUDDY
A BOY AND HIS DOG

Illustrated by John Goss



Cast up by the sea from a wrecked ship off the Jersey coast an Irish setter pup is found by a coast guard, who carries him to the home of Rick Dalton, a twelve-year-old boy who longs to own a dog. Rick finds his heart's desire realized in the shipwrecked puppy whom he names "Ruddy", and boy and dog become constant companions. Many are the good times that these two have together, hiking, hunting, swimming, doing those things that are a part of every normal boy's life; and where danger threatens, Ruddy proves his worth in no uncertain manner. A clean-cut story, of absorbing interest for boys and girls. Price, $1.50

RICK AND RUDDY IN CAMP

Illustrated by Milo Winter

Rick and Ruddy go camping with a Boy Scout troop and experience new adventures in field and forest, where Ruddy's canine instinct often proves superior to the woodcraft knowledge of his masters. Price, $1.50

RICK AND RUDDY AFLOAT

Illustrated by W. B. King

A cruise with Uncle Tod upon the motorboat Sally brings to Rick and Ruddy many mysterious and interesting experiences. The brass bound box with its glistening contents, the strange fat Indian, sly Nick Slithers, the false attack, Rick and Ruddy's journey in the night over the foaming waters during an electrical storm, are only a few of the thrills that come from the exciting narrative. Price, $1.50

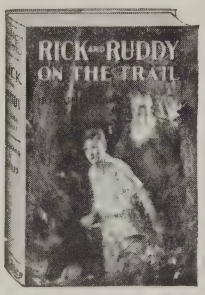
RICK AND RUDDY OUT WEST

Illustrated by W. B. King

Rick and Ruddy motor overland at the call of Uncle Tod to assist him in locating the "Lost River." The course of the underground steam has been diverted by the nefarious Lawson crowd, who need the water for their placer mining.

Rick and Chot, and not to forget Ruddy, solve the mystery and are rewarded by equal shares in the newly-named "Ruddy Mine."

Price, $1.50



RICK AND RUDDY ON THE TRAIL

Illustrated by W. B. KING

Rick and Ruddy, returning from an errand one morning, came across a traveling showman in great trouble. His partner had taken French leave during the night and with him went the showman's trick dog. Rick and Ruddy are allowed by Rick's father to accompany the old showman in his search for the seemingly unfaithful partner. The trail leads them all over the United States, and the experience of boy and dog are many and novel.

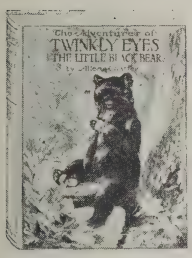
THE ALLEN CHAFFEE NATURE STORIES



THE ADVENTURES OF TWINKLY EYES
THE LITTLE BLACK BEAR

Twinkly Eyes is one of the most delightful little characters ever created in animal literature. In adventures with his brother Woof and Mother Black Bear, he learns the vital lessons of life through experiences, the moral emphasis of which is conveyed clearly to the minds of young readers. The habits of the bear and other animals introduced in the book are faithfully portrayed, and the refreshing environment of green forests and open fields is sensed in every chapter.

Price, $1.25

TWINKLY EYES AT VALLEY FARM

When Twinkly Eyes, the yearling cub, visits the sugar camp once too often he finds himself in a trap, and the boy from the Valley Farm takes him home. The little black rascal manages to pass the time by getting into fifty-seven varieties of trouble. But he is never really happy till he wins back his freedom.

Price, $0.85

TWINKLY EYES AND THE LONE LAKE FOLK

More true-to-nature stories, the scene laid in the North woods where Baldy the Eagle and the Fish Hawk and Kingfisher families can still best the mere human angler at landing a speckled trout, and where that little black rascal, Twinkly Eyes, the bear, and Mother Black Bear and her two new babies, and Unk Wunk the Porcupine, and Old Man Lynx, and Frisky Fox have new adventures, and make the acquaintance of Madame Mink, and the Otter and Raccoon families, and cross old Mother Badger, and Mephitis the Skunk.

ADVENTURES ON THE HIGH TRAIL

When Bart Blaisdell secured the contract for guiding the Sequoia Club on its hike over the "High Trail," he little dreamed of the adventures which awaited him. A rival packer, Carlin, who formerly had this contract, determined to make Bart's effort a failure if possible. With the aid of an unscrupulous Mexican he connives to place many unexpected obstacles in the way of the little party, creating situations which tax the courage and prove the mettle of Bart and his followers. The scene of the story is laid in the Sierras and the route of its action follows the trail of the famous Sierra Club hike of 1922, of which the author, Allen Chaffee, is a member.

Price, $1.50

UNEXPLORED!

This story deals with a department of U. S. Government Service little known to the average reader—the Forest Rangers of the West. The scene is laid in that wild region near Mt. Whitney marked "Unexplored" on the Government Survey Maps. The hero, with the aid of a speedy biplane, performs gallant rescues in the path of a great forest fire, and plays a vital part in capturing the incendiaries. This is a swiftly moving story which will appeal to every red-blooded boy, also the reader will gather much geological information which is interwoven with the story. Price, $1.50

LOST RIVER

TWO BOYS IN THE BIG WOODS

Separated from their camp-canoe party, a Boy Scout and a backwoods boy get lost in the wild lands of Maine, and have to find their way through one hundred miles of untracked and all but impenetrable forest, with little save their knowledge of woodcraft to aid them in the struggle for food and shelter and a means of transportation.

Every normal American boy will pronounce this realistic fiction one of the most entertaining books he ever read. Price, $1.25

MAMMY COTTONTAIL

Here, in true-to-nature form, are some of the comic, daring or pathetic exploits of Mammy Cottontail, Jimmy Crow and brave, grumpy old Fatty Chuck, for whom Frisky Fox and others kept things lively. And here is the boy from Valley Farm, who knew just what to do in some of the emergencies that befell his furred and feathered friends. While there are a few big words for the grown-ups, they are all explained for the young readers. Price, $1.25

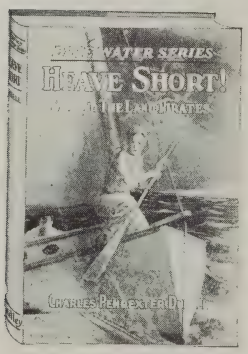
STORIES OF SEA AND SHORE BY CHARLES DURELL

THE SKIPPER OF THE CYNTHIA B

Illustrated by Harold Brett

A city boy, Samuel Hotchkiss, forced by his father's ill health to spend a summer on Cape Cod, begins his visit with a complaint about the dullness of the place. Inside of twenty-four hours, however, he becomes acquainted with Uncle Seth, a retired sea captain, owner of a cat-boat called the "Cynthia B," and from that day forth Sam's vacation is filled with more adventures than he had ever hoped to experience. Interwoven with the main story are many stirring tales of the old Nantucket whaling days, all founded on facts.

Price, $1.50



HEAVE SHORT!

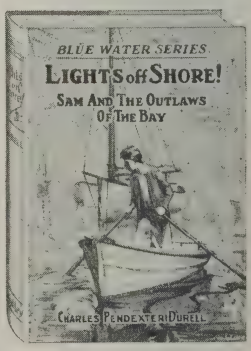
Illustrated by Harold Brett

A splendid story of Cape Cod shore and open sea. Sam Hotchkiss, during his vacation days, meets with stirring adventures afloat and ashore, and learns many of life's finer lessons from his experiences and from the sound and quaint philosophy of Uncle Seth, the old sea captain who can "tolerate anything but a bluffer." Fighting a forest fire, rescuing a comrade from the flames, foiling a fraudulent stock salesman, capturing a notorious swindler for the Boston police, building and sailing the "Surprise" and the boat race in which Sam opposes Uncle Seth, are among the incidents that keep the action of the story at a lively pace.

Price, $1.50

LIGHTS OFF SHORE!

Illustrated by Harold Anderson



In these days of discussion of constitutional amending and law enforcement, Mr. Durell feels that our growing boy and girlhood should be instilled with the patriotic motives and principals on which our forefathers founded this great nation. Here is a powerful tale of action and adventure with our old friends Sam Hotchkiss and Captain Seth Nickerson unintentionally cast among the law breakers operating about Cape Cod. There is no glamor to the modern smuggler and pirate as Sam discovers after many harrowing experiences. The law will run its course. The author shows an intimate knowledge of the ways and methods of present day outlaws of the coast and the lives of these people are pictured as they really are, with the mystery dispelled and the sordidness revealed. In this third title of the Blue Water Series, boys and girls will find the most thrilling narrative of the season. Price, $1.50

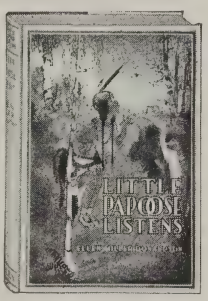
TWO BOOKS BY ELLEN MILLER DONALDSON

LITTLE PAPOOSE LISTENS

Illustrated by Hildegarde Lupprian



The carpet is of soft pine needles and velvety moss. The walls are of gently swaying trees. The music is the singing of the brook, the melodious song of birds, the buzzing of the hosts of insects, and the tuneful noises and mysterious silences of the wild. The characters are the birds, the flowers, and the untamed things that came to the sight and hearing of the little Papoose who tries to sleep before the wigwam entrance.

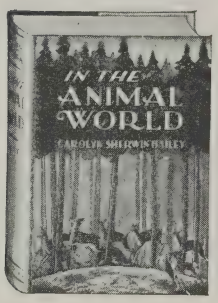
THE WORKS OF CAROLYN SHERWIN BAILEY



IN THE ANIMAL WORLD

Stories of animals familiar to children, expressing the touch of animal life to child life through racial psychology. The stories are selected from primitive material, literature and modern fiction. These are stories to tell for sympathy, for inspiration through humor and truth, for developing the emotions as none but an animal story can. Price, $1.75

ONCE UPON A TIME ANIMAL STORIES

Illustrated by Power O'Malley

Children never tire of hearing about animals to which human traits are attributed. The animals in these stories talk, work and play much like human beings, and the results of their activities convey valuable moral lessons. Many old time stories are embodied in new and carefully edited form, while many more of the tales are wholly original with Miss Bailey, and here published for the first time. The book is printed in large easy-to-read type and illustrated with full-page pictures. Price, $1.00

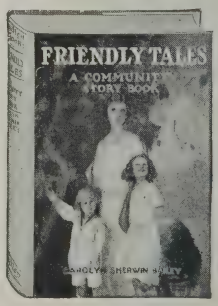
STORY TELLING BOOKS

FLINT: THE STORY OF A TRAIL

One of the really big stories of the American Indian. Flint, a white boy, captured in infancy by the Iroquois, is brought up as one of them. Submerged memories and white impulses struggle through years against savage customs, till grief over the sacrifice of his faithful dog persuades him to run away. His escape and capture by a rival tribe, his trials and adventures, and the final triumph of white blood over savage. furnishes a story of unusual dramatic interest for boys of all ages. Price, $1.50

FRIENDLY TALES

STORIES OF COMMUNITY LIFE



Stories for today of social contact in the child's world; his world of play, fairy and folk lore; of his dumb friends, animals, birds and insects; of holidays and of community life as a child lives it in his neighborhood. Each story is a group story, not of the child alone. The book is the first offering for a new day in nationalism when we find ourselves no longer isolated but necessary members of a commonwealth. It puts children in this membership, not alone, but as common makers of a new child's world in which helpfulness and co-operation are the pattern.

More than seventy-five stories of immediate value to the teacher, community worker, parent, and librarian.

EVANGELINE

By HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW
With Historical Version by Carolyn Sherwin Bailey

This unusually attractive volume contains Longfellow's immortal poem, and a historical prose version, based upon authentic records of the wanderings and trials of the unfortunate Acadians. The lives of these people have been definitely traced by Miss Bailey, providing a historical background for the romance of the poem. This book is more than a story—more than a fine edition of Evangeline—it is an important contribution to American literature upon a subject about which little has been written. The book is beautifully printed and bound and illustrated with twenty duotone prints of scenes from the photo-play.

LORNA DOONE

By R. D. BLACKMORE

Illustrated by Harold Brett
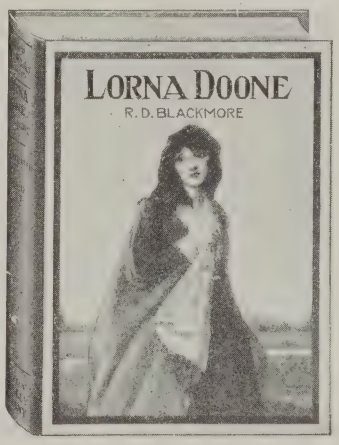
Abridged for Juvenile readers by Carolyn Sherwin Bailey
De Luxe Edition



This beautiful volume of Lorna Doone is published in answer to the demands of librarians for an edition of this famous classic adapted to the needs of juvenile readers. The text itself is unchanged, reprinted from the original, except that by judicious elimination of some of the lengthy descriptive matter, the action is quickened and the interest of younger readers more easily sustained. In the beautiful colored pictures Mr. Brett has caught and symbolized the influences and environment of the real Lorna Doone as no artist has ever done before. His portrait of the heroine leaves an impression of beauty and character which will ever remain in the memory synonomous with the Lorna Doone the author has given to the reader. Price, $2.50

LORNA DOONE

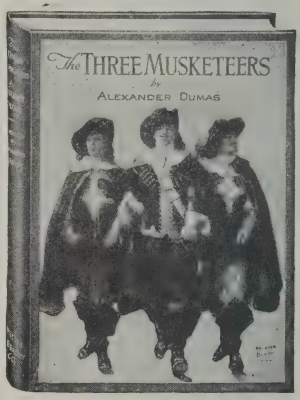
THE THREE MUSKETEERS

THE GREATEST OF ROMANTIC CLASSICS RETOLD FOR CHILDREN

By ALEXANDER DUMAS Edited by Carolyn Sherwin Bailey
Illustrated by Harold Brett



This edition of the Dumas masterpiece is a real achievement in the editing of a famous classic, presenting it in practically the exact words of the author, yet by elimination of questionable passages, making of it a book which the most conscientious parents will not hesitate to place in the hands of their children.

All historical features of the story are embodied in the abridged text, and all the incidents of stirring adventure, the shining examples of loyalty and courage, the fellowship and sympathy of the companions in arms, are retained. These are, in fact, emphasized for the child reader, by the deletion of the amours of Milady and details of court intrigue of which the normal child understands little and cares less.

The superb illustrations are reproduced in full color from original and remarkable drawings by Harold Brett, one of the foremost illustrators in this country.

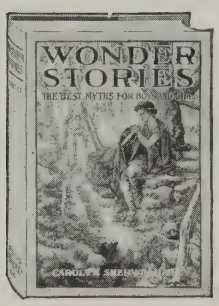
WONDER STORIES

THE BEST MYTHS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Illustrated in color by Clara M. Burd



The choicest stories of ancient mythology charmingly retold in simple language. These stories, older than history itself, possess a never-failing fascination for the young, and lay the foundation for a later appreciation of classic literature.

As a healthy stimulant for the youthful imagination, the myth is preferable to the ordinary fairy story. Every home and school library should contain this storehouse of entertainment and instruction.

Like all the Bradley Quality Books, Wonder Stories is written in accordance with a well-defined educational plan. The great lessons of life are instilled into the youthful mind in such a manner as to leave a vivid and lasting impression.

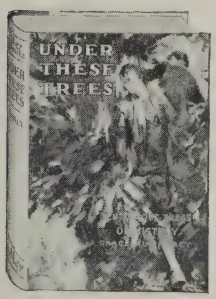
UNDER THESE TREES



From time immemorial trees have played an important part in leading episodes of the world's history. In collecting authentic data concerning ten of the most important historical events in which famous trees have been recognized factors, and weaving the results of her research into interesting and informative stories, Miss Humphrey has contributed a work of real value to historical literature. The trees about which she writes are "The Fig Tree" of the Roman Forum, "The Trysting Oak" of Robin Hood's Band, Jeanne D'Arc's "Fairy Tree of Domremy," "The Royal Oak" of Charles II, "The Talking Oak of Dodona," "The Eliot Oak," "The Liberty Tree," in Boston, "The Penn Treaty Elm," "The Washington Elm," and "The Charter Oak" at Hartford.

Through each story runs a strain of true patriotism which appeals and thrills the reader. It is a book which young and old can read with interest, and profit by a new light upon some high spots of history.

BOOKS BY LAWTON B. EVANS

THE TRAIL BLAZERS

PIONEERS OF THE NORTHWEST

By LAWTON B. EVANS
Illustrated by Oliver Kemp

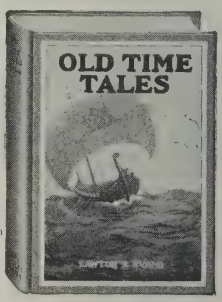
In all American History there is no more romantic record of achievement, patriotism and heroism, than the story of George Rogers Clark and his sturdy band of pioneers, and their conquest of the Northwest Territory by which five great states and part of another were added to our common union.

In "The Trail Blazers," Mr. Evans has brought to this historical episode the idealism and thrilling interest which only the master story teller can convey. His presentation is true to history in every detail, his people are the rugged, rough conquerors of the wilderness who built the foundation of our present day Americanism—brave and tenacious, high principled and patriotic.

The Trail Blazers, while written for younger readers, is a book which those of all ages will find entertaining and educational. Price, $1.75

OLD TIME TALES

Illustrated in color by E. P. Ottendorff



An unusual book containing in story form a general resume of World History from the earliest records to modern times. The first part of the book contains stories based on ancient mythology before the time of actual historical record, and the remainder of the volume includes authentic historical stories. The collection is so extreme and varied that from this one volume a teacher may select a story to supplement the history lesson of any period of the world's progress. Price, $2.00

WORTH WHILE STORIES FOR EVERY DAY

This book contains 185 complete stories of miscellaneous character, choice selections from mythology, nursery rhymes retold in prose, Mother Goose tales, natural history stories, stories of birds and animals, biographical sketches of the great in history and stories of realism, each chosen for its ethical value. A unique feature is the moral of each story printed beneath its title so that the story teller may conveniently select a story adapted to illustrate any point or trait of character.

ALL COPYRIGHT TITLES

FOR BOYS 12 to 16 YEARS

Handsomely Bound in Cloth. Full Library Size.

PRICE, 60 CENTS PER VOLUME. NET.....

CAPTAIN JACK LORIMER; or, The Young Athlete of Millvale High.

Jack Lorimer is a fine example of the all-around American high-school boy. His fondness for clean, honest sport of all kinds will strike a chord of sympathy among athletic youths.

JACK LORIMER'S CHAMPIONS; or, Sports on Land and Lake.

There is a lively story woven in with the athletic achievements, which are all right, since the book has been O.K'd by Chadwick, the Nestor of American sporting journalism.

JACK LORIMER'S HOLIDAYS; or, Millvale High in Camp.

It would be well not to put this book into a boy's hands until the chores are finished, otherwise they might be neglected.

JACK LORIMER'S SUBSTITUTE; or, The Acting Captain of the Team.

On the sporting side, the book takes up football, wrestling, and tobogganing. There is a good deal of fun in this book and plenty of action.

JACK LORIMER, FRESHMAN; or, From Millvale High to Exmouth.

Jack and some friends he makes crowd innumerable happenings into an exciting freshman year at one of the leading Eastern colleges. The book is typical of the American college boy's life, and there is a lively story, interwoven with feats on the gridiron, hockey, basketball and other clean, honest sports for which Jack Lorimer stands.

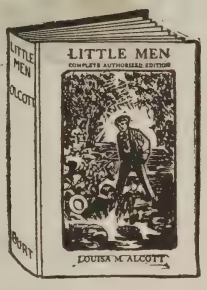
LITTLE MEN

Complete Authorized Edition

By LOUISE M. ALCOTT

A Sequel to "LITTLE WOMEN," Cloth, 12 Mo. JACKET IN FOUR COLORS

PRICE 60 CENTS. NET.....



The story of life at Plumfield with Jo's boys.

Few books for or about children have been so thoroughly taken into the hearts of the American people as Louisa M. Alcott's stories; among them "Little Men" ranks second only to "Little Women."

Jo grows up, is the presiding genius of her school at Plumfield, where she and Professor Bhaer are the wise and loving autocrats of a houseful of young people.

Sensitive, music-loving Nat, harum-scarum Tommy, studious Demi, undisciplined Dan, domestic little Daisy and hoydenish Nan are a few of the active-minded, true-to-life children who romp into and out of trouble all through this endearing story.

An Old-Fashioned Girl

(Authorized Edition)

By LOUISA M. ALCOTT

Author of "Little Women," Etc.

Cloth Bound, Wrapper in Colors, Drawn by Jessie Wilcox Smith

Being one of the illustrations from the Little, Brown & Company high-priced edition

PRICE 60 CENTS. NET.....

No books of their class have ever been read with greater delight than the Alcott Stories. "An Old-Fashioned Girl" is one of the best of them, if a comparison can be made in the list.

Miss Alcott in this story describes "The good old Fashion, which makes women truly beautiful and honored, and renders home what it should be, a happy place where parents and children, brothers and sisters learn to love and know and help one another." The book is to be welcomed among the books for girls, because of its wholesome spirit and happy atmosphere.

Little Women

By LOUISA M. ALCOTT

Cloth, 12mo. PRICE 60 CENTS. NET.....

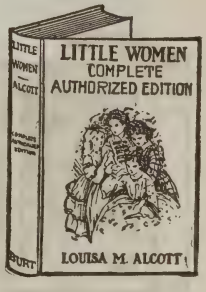
Jacket in Four Colors. Drawn by Jessie Wilcox Smith.



This being one of the illustrations from the original Little, Brown & Co. high-priced edition.

Of the many books for girls and boys that have come and gone in the fifty years since "Little Women" was first published, not one has had such a lasting popularity.

"Little Women" has always been considered the most popular girls' story that has ever been written. Children of the present day are just as eager to read of Meg, Jo, Amy and Beth as the children of the earlier generations.

Already "Little Women" has been read by millions of children, and is certain to be read by many generations to come. This story will never grow old.

The American Library Association lists "Little Women" as the most popular juvenile title ever published, and goes further by saying that it is a book that should be permanently in every home.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S WELCOME

Dear Children.

Opening the covers of a book is like opening the front door of a house, so that you may go inside and have jolly times. And how good it is when some one who loves you stands at the front door and says:

"Oh, how glad I am to see you!"

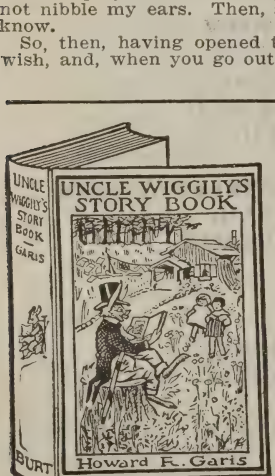
That is what I say to you now, as you open this book.

"Come in and have some jolly fun with me!"

You know that I love you, children, and I want you to enjoy these stories about me. They tell how I escaped from the bad chaps who wanted to catch me. The pictures show what tricks I played on the Fuzzy Fox, the Woozie Wolf, and the Puffing Pipsisewah so they might not nibble my ears. Then, also, there are tales of some of the animal children whom you well know.

So, then, having opened the covers of this book, come in and read! Stay as long as you wish, and, when you go out, invite some one else to enter.

Your loving friend,
UNCLE WIGGILY.



Uncle Wiggily's Story Book

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Cloth, 16 Full-page Illustrations in color, 29 in Black and White, by Campbell.

PRICE, $2.50. NET.....

Nearly every event in the life of a child, from the first tooth that needs pulling, to the first tumble and fall, is told of in connection with some delightfully imagined happening involving Uncle Wiggily. There are little lessons for the children in contentment, happiness, kindness to animals, bravery and self-sacrifive. To a child, gettting lost or cuttting a finger is an event of great moment, and it is just such events as these around which the stories are constructed.

PRESENT DAY ETIQUETTE

INCLUDING SOCIAL FORMS

By VIRGINIA VAN DE WATER

Approved by Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson

12 MO. CLOTH BOUND. $1.00. NET.....

Mrs. Van de Water belongs to an old New York family and her fine manners and social observance are inborn. She is a daughter of Marion Harland and sister of Albert Payson Terhune, the well-known novelist. Her experience enables her to write an etiquette book of unequaled excellence. She writes of rules and regulations in a concise way quickly readable and understood, In writing this book, Mrs. Van de Water has had in mind not the immensely rich, but people of average means and aspirations.

This volume is especially rich in the form letters which it supplies to meet every social occasion—invitations, acceptances, letters of introduction, of condolence, etc., etc.

A complete index makes possible immediate reference to the discussion of every doubtful point.

As Mrs. Gibson says in her introduction, "An intelligent adherence to the suggestions given in this book will lead any man to greater business and social success, and any woman to added graciousness and charm."

PRICE LIST OF PUBLICATIONS
THE CARNEGIE INSTITUTION OF WASHINGTON

The Carnegie Institution of Washington has issued or has in press the publications listed herewith. Copies of each publication, except the Index Medicus, are sent gratuitously to carefully selected lists of libraries throughout the world, while other copies are held for sale.

The prices quoted are for books in strong paper covers. A few are bound in cloth; these can be had at an advance on the catalogue price, usually one dollar.

Publications will be sent post-paid at the prices indicated. Each order should be accompanied by a remittance payable to the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

Correspondents desiring price-lists, as issued, may have them by furnishing requisite addresses. Descriptive lists will be sent to those interested in special classes of publications. The following list of subjects will indicate the nature of the publications:

Archæology.
Astronomy and Mathematics.
Botany.
Chemistry.

270. Reichert, E. T. A Biochemic Basis for the Study of Problems of Taxonomy, Heredity, Evolution, etc., with especial reference to the Starches and the Tissues of Parent and Hybrid Stocks, and to the Starches and the Hemoglobins of Varieties, Species, and Genera. Quarto. (In 2 parts.) $18.00

Part I. Summaries and Comparisons of the Properties of the Starches and of the Tissues of Parent-stocks and Hybrid-stocks. Applications of the Results of the Researches to the Germ-plasm, Variations, Fluctuations, Sports, Mutants, Species, Taxonomy, Heredity, etc. Notes and Conclusions. Pages XI+1 to 376, 34 plates, 820 charts.
Part II. Special, General, and Comparative Laboratory Data of the Properties of the Starches and of the Tissues of Parent-stocks and Hybrid-stocks. Pages VII+377 to 834.

271. Contributions to Embryology, Nos. 24 to 26. Vol. VIII. Quarto, 198 pp. (Cloth.) $6.00

This book contains the following papers:

STREETER, GEORGE L.—The Developmental Alterations in the Vascular System of the Brain of the Human Embryo. (Contribution No. 24.) 38 pp., 5 pls., 12 figs.
COWDRY, E. V.—The Mitochondrial Constituents of Protoplasm. (Contribution No. 25.) 120 pages, 1 plate, 9 figs.
KUNITOMO, KANAE.—The Development and Reduction of the Tail and the Caudal End of the Spinal Cord. (Contribution No. 26.) 38 pages, 4 plates, 2 text figs.

272. Contributions to Embryology. Nos. 27 to 46. Vol. IX. Quarto, 561 pp. (Cloth.) $19.00

This volume (a memorial to Franklin Paine Mall) contains the following papers:

MACKLIN, CHARLES C.—The Development and Function of Macrophages in the Repair of Experimental Bone-Wounds in Rats vitally stained with Trypan-Blue. (Contribution No. 27.) 46 pages, 4 plates.
DURESBERG, J.—Cytoplasmic Structures in the Seminal Epithelium of the Opossum. (Contribution No. 28) 38 pages, 2 plates, 5 text figures.
CORNER, GEORGE W.—On the Widespread Occurrence of Reticular Fibrils produced by Capillary Endothelium. (Contribution No. 29.) 9 pages, 2 plates.
WHEELER, THEODORA.—Variability in the Spinal Column as regards Defective Neural Arches (Rudimentary Spina Bifida). (Contribution No. 30.) 13 pages, 11 figs.
VAN DER STRICHT, O.—The Arrangement and Structure of Sustentacular Cells and Hair Cells in the Developing Organ of Corti. (Contribution No. 31.) 34 pages, 4 plates.
RETZER, ROBERT.—The Sino-ventricular Bundle: A Functional Interpretation of Morphological Findings. (Contribution No. 32.) 14 pages, 1 plate.
JENKINS, GEORGE B.—A Study of the Superior Olive. (Contribution No. 33.) 16 pages, 2 plates, 1 text figure.
SCHULTZ, ADOLPH H.—The Development of the External Nose in Whites and Negroes. (Contribution No. 34.) 18 pages, 1 plate, 7 figures.
LEWIS, MARGARET REED.—Muscular Contraction in Tissue Cultures. (Contribution No. 35.) 22 pages, 2 plates, 6 text figures.
SABIN, FLORENCE R.—Studies on the Origin of Blood-vessels and of Red Blood-corpuscles as seen in the Living Blastoderm of Chicks during the Second Day of Incubation. (Contribution No. 36.) 50 pages, 6 plates, 1 text figure.
BEAN, ROBERT B.—Notes on the Post-natal Growth of the Heart, Kidneys, Liver, and Spleen in Man. (Contribution No. 37.) 22 pages, 8 text figures.

272. Continued.

MILLER, WILLIAM S.—A Morphological Study of the Tracheal and Bronchial Cartilages. (Contribution No. 38.) 14 pages, 2 plates, 11 text figures.

LEWIS, WARREN H.—The Cartilaginous Skull of a Human Embryo 21 millimeters in length. (Contribution No. 39.) 26 pages, 5 plates.

MEYER, ARTHUR W.—Hydatiform Degeneration in Tubal and Uterine Pregnancy. (Contribution No. 40.) 40 pages, 6 plates.

MYERS, BURTON D.—A Study of the Development of Certain Features of the Cerebellum. (Contribution No. 41.) 11 pages, 6 figures.

ESSICK, CHARLES R.—Formation of Macrophages by the Cells lining the Subarachnoid Cavity in response to the Stimulus of Particulate Matter. (Contribution No. 42.) 12 pages, 1 pl.

STREETER, GEORGE L.—A Human Embryo (Mateer) of the Presomite Period. (Contribution No. 43.) 36 pages, 7 plates, 4 figures, 3 charts.

WEED, LEWIS H.—The Experimental Production of an Internal Hydrocephalus. (Contribution No. 44.) 22 pages, 2 plates.

CLARK, ELIOT R., and ELEANOR LINTON CLARK.—On the Origin and Early Development of the Lymphatic System of the Chick. (Contribution No. 45.) 36 pages, 7 plates, 15 text figures.

BARDEEN, C. R.—The Height-weight Index of Build in relation to Linear and Volumetric Proportions and Surface Area of the Body during Post-natal Development. (Contribution No. 46.) 72 pages, 11 charts, 2 text figures.

273. Contributions to Embryology, Nos. 47 and 48. Vol. X. Quarto, III+103 pages, 16 plates $6.00

This book contains the following papers:

EVANS, HERBERT MCLEAN, and KATHARINE J. SCOTT.—On the Differential Reaction to Vital Dyes of the Two Great Groups of Connective-Tissue Cells. (Contribution No. 47.) 55 pages, 11 plates.

MACKLIN, CHARLES C.—The Skull of a Human Fetus of 43 Millimeters Greatest Length. (Contribution No. 48.) 48 pages, 5 plates.

274. Contributions to Embryology, Nos. 49 to 55. Vol. XI. Quarto, 173 pp. (Cloth) $15.50

This book contains the following papers:

DANCHAKOFF, VERA.—Myeloid Metaplasia of the Embryonic Mesenchyme in relation to Cell Potentialities and Differential Factors. (Contribution No. 49.) 32 pp., 5 pls.

LINEBACK, PAUL E.—Studies on the Longitudinal Muscle of the Human Colon, with special reference to the Development of the Tæniæ. (Contribution No. 50.) 12 pp., 8 figs.

WISLOCKI, GEORGE B.—Experimental Studies on Fetal Absorption. (Contribution No. 51.) 16 pp., 4 pls., 1 fig.

I. The Vitally Stained Fetus.

II. The Behavior of the Fetal Membranes and Placenta of the Cat Toward Colloidal Dyes Injected into the Maternal Blood-stream.

INGALLS, N. WILLIAM.—A Human Embryo at the Beginning of Segmentation, with special reference to the Vascular System. (Contribution No. 52.) 30 pp., 5 plates, 1 text figure.

BARRY, LEE WILLIS.—The Effects of Inanition in the Pregnant Albino Rat with Special Reference to the Changes in the Relative Weights of the Various Parts, Systems, and Organs of the Offspring. (Contribution No. 53.) 46 pp.

CORNER, GEORGE W.—A Case of True Lateral Hermaphroditism in a Pig with Functional Ovary. (Contribution No. 54.) 6 pp., 1 pl.

STREETER, GEORGE L.—Weight, Sitting Height, Head Size, Foot Length, and Menstrual Age of the Human Embryo. (Contribution No. 55.) 28 pp., 2 figs., 6 charts.

275. Contributions to Embryology, No. 56. Vol. XII. Quarto $6.00

MALL, F. P., and A. W. MEYER.—Studies on Abortuses: A Survey of the Pathologic Ova in the Carnegie Embryological Collection. 364 pp., 24 plates, 6 figs.

276. Contributions to Embryology, Nos. 57 to 64. Vol. XIII. Quarto, 146 pp., 15 pls., 25 figs., 1 chart $4.00

This book contains the following papers:

CASH, JAMES R.—On the Development of the Lymphatics in the Stomach of the Embryo Pig. (Contribution No. 57.) 15 pages, 3 plates, 3 figs.

REICHERT, F. L.—On the Fate of the Primary Lymph-Sacs in the Abdominal Region of the Pig, and the Development of Lymph-Channels in the Abdominal and Pelvic Regions. (Contribution No. 58.) 23 pages, 5 figures.

JENKINS, GEORGE B.—Relative Weight and Volume of the Component Parts of the Brain of the Human Embryo at Different Stages of Development. (Contribution No. 59.) 20 pages, 12 figures, 1 chart.

CORNER, GEORGE W.—Abnormalities of the Mammalian Embryo occurring before Implantation. (Contribution No. 60.) 6 pages, 2 plates, 1 fig.

SPAULDING, M. H.—Development of the External Genitalia in the Human Embryo. (Contribution No. 61.) 22 pages, 4 plates, 2 figures.

WISLOCKI, GEORGE B.—Further Experimental Studies on Fetal Absorption: (Contribution No. 62.)

III. Behavior of the Fetal Membranes and Placenta of the Guinea-Pig toward Trypan-Blue injected into the Maternal Blood-Stream. 8 pages.

IV. Behavior of the Placenta and Fetal Membranes of the Rabbit toward Trypan-Blue injected into the Maternal Blood-Stream. 5 pages, 1 plate.

276. Continued.

IN BARBARY. By E. Alexander Powell, author of "Beyond the Utmost Purple Rim," "The Map That Is Half Unrolled," etc. 8vo, 400 pages. Illustrated. $4.00

Completes a trilogy on Africa, which covers the whole continent and emphasizes the places least known to travelers. In Barbary deals with Tunisia, Algeria, Morocco, Mauretania and Sahara——the result of travels extending over nearly a quarter of a century. On three occasions the guest of the French Government, Colonel Powell has enjoyed facilities for observation and investigation granted to few, if any other foreigners. By car and caravan he has journeyed from the frontiers of Tripolitania to the Atlantic seaboard of Morocco and the forbidden Sus. Because of his long experience in Moslem lands, he understands and is able to explain the aspirations of Berber, Moor and Arab.

In Barbary is filled with suggestions as to what is most worth seeing, contains a wealth of varied information, and is authoritative on all historical, religious, racial, and political questions, travel routes and living conditions. It is illustrated with three up-to-the-minute maps, showing all railway and motor routes and the latest political changes, and with numerous photographs.

LINCOLN'S PARENTAGE AND CHILDHOOD. By Louis A. Warren. 8vo, 366 pages. 16 illustrations. $3.50

A vital and colorful reconstruction of Lincoln's background, based on a great wealth of previously undiscovered records.

A mystery has been built up about Lincoln, based on the assumption that his ancestry was unknown and his parents of low degree. This mystery has been effectively brushed away by a study of source material never before investigated.

Fascinated by the contradiction between Lincoln's apparent heritage and recognized native ability, Professor Warren undertook to solve the riddle and was rewarded with some remarkable results. Searching through undisturbed and dust-covered legal records filed in court and county buildings throughout the South and Central West—as no one before him had troubled to search—the author unearthed a mass of authentic material bearing on the Lincolns, the Hankses and collateral ancestors of the Great American.

Warren's remarkable historical discoveries have made the antecedents and the early life of Abraham Lincoln better known to us than those of many outstanding men of today. Here is a new history of Lincoln and his generation, written with understanding, truth and an infinite precision of detail.

SHORT TURNS. By Barry Benefield, author of "The Chicken-Wagon Family." 12mo, 322 pages. $2.00

Fourteen stories by a remarkable craftsman known to the book trade for his "Chicken-Wagon Family." These stories represent Mr. Benefield in varying moods. There is a quality of irony and sophisticated wit in some of them, a quality of deep human sympathy in all. "Daughters of Joy," has been known to literary men for fifteen years or so as one of the most remarkable short stories ever written in America.

Mr. Benefield writes in an original and whimsical manner about people of many different types, tales as varied as their settings, which go all the way from the bayous, piney woods and small towns of Texas, to sophisticated New York. "Simply Susan Pie," "That Caesar Honfleur," "Ol' Mistis" are poignant heart-throbbing pictures of life in the cotton pickers' country. "Daughters of Joy," "Glow Peddler" and "Miss Willett" are as New Yorky and audacious as the brightest red lights of Broadway.

EAST OF SIAM. By Harry A. Franck, author of "Roving Through Southern China," "Wandering in Northern China," etc. 8vo, 350 pages. Illustrated. $3.50

The final of four books covering all Eastern Asia. The present volume deals with the five divisions of French Indo-China, a land teeming with strange tribes and ruins of historical interest, showing in its cities and centralized areas developments and contrasts which amaze the foreigner. Mr. Franck has written a book which takes the reader to the outlying areas as well as the more thickly populated, and among all classes of people. Though he travels in every form of conveyance which the country provides, he vagabonds it most of the way on foot.

Mr. Franck has found, in his years of traveling through the world, that the foreigner learns most by conforming to the customs of the country through which he is journeying, and that peons and coolies who wander about ragged and barefoot are more communicative with the traveler who meets them on their own level than with the tourist who looks down upon them from the automobile or train. Here is the secret of the success of "The Prince of Vagabonds"—he travels among the natives as one of them, and for the time being lives their lives, the lowly native pours out his life story to sympathetic ears, and Harry Franck gathers into his volumes more information about a country, its history, customs, policies and aspirations, than casual travelers dream exists.

East of Siam is complete in itself and may be read with equal pleasure whether or not the reader has seen the previous books on the Far East.

SAILING ACROSS EUROPE. By Negley Farson. 8vo, 400 pages. Illustrated. $3.50

The story of a unique and fascinating journey from north to south across the central part of Europe. With a small auxiliary yawl, the author actually sailed (or motored) across Europe all the way by water from the North Sea to the Black Sea.

Leaving Rotterdam, by means of a small river he connected with the Rhine, then up the Main. The little known Ludwig Canal, begun by Charlemagne across the Jura mountains, brought him to the Danube.

Mr. Farson and the young lady with him wandered into out-of-the-way places where the people still preserve the customs and traditions of their ancestors. His book deals intimately with river-line and countryside.

Sailing Across Europe is a fascinating, leisurely tale of carefree meanderings and joyous contacts. Fully illustrated with photographs and maps.

EUROPE SINCE WATERLOO: A HISTORY. By William Stearns Davis. 8vo, 600 pages. Illustrations and maps. $5.00

A fresh reconstruction of the titanic hundred years whose first scene was the defeat of Napoleon the Great, whose last scene was the breaking of the Wotan line and the dictation of the terms of Germany's surrender at Versailles.

The story is written in a clear, readable, narrative form, treating of great events concretely and deals with personalities rather than vague impersonal forces. The author has chosen as his particular field Continental Europe, with only incidental references to the history of Great Britain, and then for the purpose of clarity. His narrative is developed under three main headings: (I) The Triumph of Nationalism, 1815-1871; (II) Armed Peace, 1871-1913; and (III) Armageddon: The World War, 1914-1919.

Europe Since Waterloo is a history both readable and authoritative, valuable as a scholarly reference book or as a survey for the general reader.

DEVIL-MAY-CARE. By Arthur Somers Roche. 12mo, 341 pages. $2.00

A delightful story of realistic, sophisticated, fashionable life with a modern Palm Beach setting. Lucy Harkness, who so far outruns her contemporaries in the "vagaries of the smart set" as to win the title "Devil-May-Care," early in the story is abducted, clad only in a bathing suit, and taken aboard Tim Stevens's yacht. To avoid her unwelcome lover, Lucy dives overboard and has a long and hazardous swim to the shore, where she arrives in an exhausted and semi-conscious condition. Why she later marries this ruthless blond giant, hands over to him a large portion of her fortune and then immediately deserts him, are puzzles which serve only as an introduction to a tale which moves swiftly and entertainly.

Mr. Roche has an instinctive talent for presenting the fashionable Palm Beach life with all its attractive color and sophisticated gaiety. Here is romance which is true to life, modern and delightfully readable—"one of the most exciting stories ever written," Grant Overton calls it.

TURGENEV: THE MAN, HIS ART AND HIS AGE. By Avrahm Yarmolinsky. Royal 8vo, 400 pages. Illustrated. $4.00

A dramatic and intimate biography of the famous novelist. Through the elegant literary salons of the latter nineteenth century, through the assemblages of famous novelists, English, French and Italian, who graced that glittering age, there moved the proud figure of Turgenev, the Russian master, peer and friend of the great men of his day. The art of Turgenev has been acclaimed by the reading public of all nations. His tremendous novels, expressing the art, the psychology and the beauty of two civilizations, Occidental and Oriental, have earned the master high rank among the world's literary immortals. But it is as a man that Dr. Yarmonlinsky finds Turgenev most fascinating, and as a man Turgenev moves with force and vitality through the pages of this biography—Turgenev the man, friend of Flaubert, Henry James, Dickens, Zola, Renan—Turgenev, scion of princes, a golden Croesus and master of uncounted serfs—Turgenev, who was loved by many women and played false to many women, but who loved most of all Pauline Viardot, the French singer, known as La Garcia.

To Dr. Yarmolinsky goes the high honor of having written the only biography of the great Russian novelist to appear in any language. He has reconstructed, with movement and drama, with shrewd psychological insight, a notable life, about which cling the shadows of grandeur, of magnificent genius, of pride and lofty passions.

TRAILS OF THE TROUBADOURS. By Raimon de Loi. 8vo, 250 pages. Illustrated. $3.00

Modern mappings of the medieval highways over which traveled princes and poets, lovers and libertines, made famous through the history and literature of France.

When medieval youths were not making war or playing at politics, they were playing at love or making poems; and they made love and wrote poetry with the same ardor and ruthlessness that they displayed in the taking of cities and the killing of enemies. A particular group of fashionable young men who frequented the courts in and about Marseilles, Toulouse and Tours were called troubadours. They fashioned for us two arts: the art of lyric poetry and the art of love, which they referred to as the "gay science."

In Trails of the Troubadours the author gives piquant historical information about the people involved in the affaires du coeur of a nation of philanderers. Each chapter gossips familiarly about the people and the times of the poets whose lives and amorous affairs are narrated, including Bernard de Ventadour, Richard the Lion Heart, Bertrand de Born, Jaufre Rudel, Raimon de Miravel and the many other famous princes.

AND THEN CAME SPRING. By John Hargrave. 12mo, 350 pages. $2.00

A serio-comical story of the lapse from husbandly respectability of Mr. Godwin Birtwhistle, fifty-five years old, prosperous, happy, well-domesticated and kindly North of England manufacturer. On a business trip to London Mr. Birtwhistle met a young lady. A charming young lady. A lovely young lady. And somewhat of an expensive young lady, one gifted with tastes beyond her means.

No man could refrain from admiring Leeta, this pretty and rather sad young war widow. No man could refrain from sympathizing with her, and perhaps giving her a bit of help. Such as buying her a little string of pearls as a Christmas remembrance. Such as buying her a little car. Such as renting a little bijou flat in Mayfair both pleasant and secret.

Yet Mr. Birtwhistle was a man who loved his wife. Alas, he seemed at times to share that common frailty of mankind, which makes it easy for them to love two women with more affection than they can bestow on one alone. And of course Leeta was a gold-digger, but she had to be, for this world is a hard and cruel place for such tender, friendless ladies as she. And of course Godwin Birtwhistle was an old fool, but he knew it at times, and for a while he enjoyed his foolishness.

John Hargrave has told his story sympathetically and with an undercurrent of compassionate humor.

OUTWITTING MIDDLE AGE. By Carl Ramus. 12mo, 261 pages. $2.00

A book of vital importance in an age when youth is the fashion. The author says: "Aging is neither natural necessity nor Divine dispensation. It is a chronic disease which science now shows to be mostly preventable." He does not pretend to say that we do not ultimately grow old, but he tells in plain English why we age, and how aging may be long deferred.

Intelligent eating and intelligent breathing, intelligent conservation of nervous force, intelligent exercise and rest, as explained by Dr. Ramus, enable men to maintain the vigor and exuberance of youth through their middle years, and well into their latter years. Most particularly the marvelous discoveries of glandular conservation and transference have put within the reach of the average man a renewed youth which may not be perpetual, but which may be almost life-long. The new laws of living, the new glandular science are both clearly defined by Dr. Ramus, and the means of benefiting by them made evident for the layman.

WHITE WATERS AND BLACK. By Gordon MacCreagh. 8vo, 400 pages. Illustrated. $4.00

A scientific expedition into the jungle land bordering the upper reaches of the Amazon affords material for an intimate and humorous record of the amazing, unexpected and foolish things that can happen to eight serious minded men on serious matter bent. Touching lightly upon tragedies and troubles, the author writes a fascinating story of travel into the little known interior of South America.

A master story-teller, a fearless adventurer, former aviator and athlete and wanderer over the far places of the world, Gordon MacCreagh has put into this record of jungle exploration all the color and vitality of his unusual personality. It is a story of wanderings beyond the white waters of the Amazon into the primeval forests of the unknown interior, and toward the heart of the Andes, through jungles whose rivers are black with vegetation and fecund tropic earth.

He has brought back a remarkable account of the strange lands through which he wandered. To the adventurer's love of strange scenes and dangerous events he adds the true story teller's narrative ability. He has painted his picture with an artist's love of bold bright color, has told his tale with a dramatist's vigor and skill.

THE COLFAX BOOK-PLATE. By Agnes Miller. 12mo, 375 pages. $2.00

A modern mystery story centering about the colorful section of lower Fourth Avenue, New York, a region once the home of fine mansions and an old aristocracy, but now given over to the second-hand book markets. Mrs. Miller has woven an original plot dealing with the personnel of a book shop and the descendants of an old aristocratic family which still lives in the neighborhood. A curious antique scientific instrument plays an important part in the development of the mystery. The story is told in the first person by a book clerk, and developed with humor, deftness and distinct characterization. It is a delightful story of interest to the lover of romance and of modern New York scenes, as well as to all partizans of pure mystery thrills.

THE DAYS OF THEIR YOUTH. By Alan Sullivan, author of "The Jade God," etc. 12mo, 332 pages. $2.00

Mr. Sullivan has accomplished in this story a literary feat. It is somewhat akin to certain stories by H. G. Wells and Arnold Bennett. The hero passes from this life at the beginning of the book and thenceforth as a disembodied spirit he watches over the actions of his family, perceiving their very thoughts, although unknown to them. It is an unusual device which has been handled with great effectiveness by the author. There is no suggestion of somberness in the story, but rather a vital and optimistic atmosphere. By no means limited in its appeal to the vast number of readers interested in spiritism, the significant and thoughtful study of a family's whole interrelations mark this as a novel of outstanding general importance with a unique story element.

PORTS OF FRANCE. By Herbert Adams Gibbons, author of "The New Map of Europe," "Paris Reborn," etc. 8vo, 400 pages. Illustrated. $4.00

A delightfully written story of the casual and leisurely wanderings of an author and an artist along the picturesque seacoast of lovely France, with descriptions and sketches of quaint old towns and bustling cities, whose glorious histories, dreamy legends and commercial developments have made them famous throughout the world. Some of these seaports are almost forgotten, some are famous watering places where the world of fashion meets, but the ports where the author and the artist linger longest are the little known, remote, quiet places, quaint fishing villages with the flavor of an earlier age, where there are old inns and crumbling quays, and where the people still retain the traditions and dress of their ancestors.

Dr. Gibbons writings are usually of scholarly history. In PORTS OF FRANCE he writes joyously of a delightful journey in a beautiful world. The book is well illustrated with reproductions of drawings.

PALESTINE AWAKE: THE REBIRTH OF A NATION. By Sophie Irene Loeb. 12mo, 225 pages. Illustrated. $2.50

The world has been watching with keen interest the work of establishing a homeland in Palestine for the Jews—the greatest social experiment of this century.

What is actually being accomplished in the Holy Land is graphically presented by Sophie Irene Loeb, who recently made an extensive tour of investigation, and whose background of experiences as author, sociologist, and reformer, entitles her to speak authoritatively. In the course of her survey Miss Loeb interviewed every leading authority in the land, such as the Great Mufti of the Arabs, the Governor of Palestine, the Mayor of Jerusalem and others of various creeds and positions. Some of these personages have granted interviews for the first time, realizing the tremendous American interest in the miraculous new development of the old Bible country.

PALESTINE AWAKE presents a story which is great history in the making.

LEIF THE LUCKY. By Clara Sharpe Hough. 12mo, 346 pages. $2.00

A historical romance of Leif, son of the Viking Red Eric, and discoverer of America in the year 1000. The tale is developed around Leif's jealousy of his brother Thorwald, and of the coming of a Christian priest to Iceland, preaching against the heathen Gods whom the Vikings worshipped. This is a story of high romantic love, of adventure and action, of character development and of historical glamor. Mrs. Hough has struck the saga note in a memorable story.

WHALING NORTH AND SOUTH. By F. V. Morley and J. S. Hodgson. Octavo, 250 pages. 32 illustrations. $3.00

A pictorial narrative of whaling adventures in Arctic and Antarctic oceans, together with a history of that most romantic of all men's pursuits and a survey of the modern whaling industry.

Morley, a bold roving youngster, novelist, Rhodes scholar, and younger brother of Christopher Morley, adventured into the Arctic with the whaling ships. Hodgson, notable world wanderer and photographer of distinction, went South. Their combined adventures provide an unequalled picture of perilous exploits over the wide waters of the earth. To the personal narrative they have added a colorful history of whaling from legendary times through today.

THE NEGRO IN AMERICAN LIFE. By Jerome Dowd, Professor of Sociology, University of Oklahoma. Royal 8vo, 500 pages. $5.00

A comprehensive study of the development of the Negro in America, especially the remarkable rise of the race since the Civil War. In the introduction the author deals with the background of the Negro in Africa and the West Indies, and his importation into North America.

The problem of the Negro in America is outstandingly the most vital problem we must face as a nation. It is not merely the problem of the South, but of the North; not merely the problem of the cotton fields, but of the great industrial centers; not merely the problem of the white man, but of the Negro himself.

Jerome Dowd has given twenty-five years of his mature life to a study of this stupendous question. Trained at the University of Chicago, now a member of the Oklahoma faculty, he has approached his subject without bias, and has developed it with clarity, with judicious intelligence, and with scholarly accuracy. He has produced a book intellectually stimulating for the general reader, and invaluable as an authority for the sociologist.

THE GREAT ISLAND. By Don C. Seitz. Octavo, 300 pages. 32 illustrations. $3.00

An intimate narrative of the history and personality of Newfoundland, written by the famous American journalist-historian. From Cape Race to Cape Bald the aloof and independent island of Newfoundland is a land of rare bold loveliness, little known to travelers and unrecorded in books heretofore. The history of Newfoundland is knit with the records of the great discoverers and the legends of the Norse seafarers, The topography of Newfoundland presents throughout a picture of stern and rigorous beauty, from the harsh rock coasts thrust outward against the northern sea, to the primeval coniferous woodlands of the interior. Long known to a chosen few fortunates as a hunters' and anglers' paradise, Newfoundland becomes, as set down by Mr. Seitz, a land of magic for the nature lover, for the adventurer, and for the devotee of historical glamor.

The book is profusely illustrated with reproductions of photographs done by the new Van Dyke process.

EARLY AMERICAN FURNITURE. By Charles O. Cornelius. (Century Library of American Antiques). 8vo, 400 pages. Illustrated. $4.00

The opening of the American Wing at the Metropolitan Museum of Art has awakened a remarkable and ever growing interest in early American art. Everywhere people are redecorating and refurnishing their homes according to the early American tradition. With this change comes the desire to go deeper into the study of the characteristics which are responsible for the beauty and the charm of early American furniture.

Charles O. Cornelius, Associate Curator of American Art, Metropolitan Museum of Art, is now the recognized authority on early American furniture, his decision determining many important controversies among collectors and connoisseurs.

Early American Furniture is a thorough study of a subject of interest to every connoisseur, casual buyer, dealer or home-builder, covering the development of American furniture from the period of discovery and settlement, through the transition period out of which the beautiful Colonial furniture evolved.

EARLY AMERICAN POTTERY AND CHINA. By John Spargo. (Century Library of American Antiques). 8vo, 400 pages. Fully illustrated. $4.00

This book does for its field what Early American Furniture does for the furniture crafts of Colonial and early Republican days. It is informative, entertaining, authoritative and complete upon its subject, and it may serve as a handbook for the professional or as a book of general interest for the amateur of fine arts.

Known as an antiquarian and discriminating collector of ceramics, John Spargo speaks with authority that is universally acknowledged. His judgments upon all matters pertaining to early American pottery and china are accepted by collectors everywhere. Herein he furnishes a serviceable handbook, a working tool for the large and constantly increasing army of amateur collectors and connoissurs.

THE HOUSE OF SIMPLICITY. By Ethel Davis Seal, author of "Furnishing the Little House," etc. 8vo, 350 pages. Illustrated. $2.50

One of the best known writers on interior decoration, a contributor to leading women's magazines, who has helped individually thousands of women with their specific problems, here writes the last word on decorating and furnishing the smart American home.

The House of Simplicity is an inspiration to the homemaker to exert creative talent in decorating and furnishing. Miss Seal is first of all an artist, then an interior decorator and a seeker for the beautiful, and throughout her book she demonstrates that color harmony, beauty, good taste, convenience and comfort are elements which can be brought together charmingly and satisfactorily. Handsomely and helpfully illustrated with drawings and reproductions of photographs.

BILL NYE: HIS OWN LIFE STORY. Continuity by Frank Wilson Nye. Royal 8vo, 400 pages. Illustrated. $4.00

A book of humor and autobiographical interest, including a great mass of the past work of the famous American humorist. The material for Mr. Nye's life has been selected from his letters and other unpublished documents. It is arranged to form a continuous narrative which presents a picture of a remarkable character and of the outstanding men of his day. The rich and human sense of laughter which was Bill Nye's endowment has given us phrases now a part of the language. The flowing comic genius of Nye, cut shore by his early death, was yet sufficient to produce a quality and abundance of unusual wit which will be a delight to all who read his life story. This is a book which may be recommended as autobiography or as sheer amusement. Illustrated with halftones and caricatures by Fred Opper, Walt McDougall, Zimmerman and others.

THE STORY OF THE LITTLE BIG HORN. By Lieut. Col. W. A. Graham, U.S.A. Royal 8vo, 174 pages. Illustrated. $2.50

A graphic, heart-stirring recital of Custer's last stand, greatest and most bloody defeat suffered by white troops. How Sitting Bull and Crazy Horse led their terrible array of five thousand howling warriors swooping down on the flower of the Seventh Regiment. How the gallant darling of the United States Army, youngest man ever to win a Major-General's stars, handsome, reckless, high-hearted George Custer, rode with his two hundred men into the ambuscade where he died. Heretofore all recitals of the Custer disaster have been fragmentary and partisan, written to abet a special plea. Colonel Graham has assembled the last scrap of material concerning the campaign of '76, has talked with the last living men who were there on that day, and has written the final history of Custer and his men, in words that are like swift pictures.

A MAGICIAN OF SCIENCE: THE BOYS' LIFE OF STEINMETZ. By John Winthrop Hammond, author of "Charles Proteus Steinmetz: A Biography". 12mo, 210 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

An excellent biography, vividly written, for boys of all ages. The mind, the character, the very courageous soul of the great mathematician are portrayed in vital fashion by Mr. Hammond. Most particularly does he picture Steinmetz as a friend and delightful companion to boys. Steinmetz's courage against adversity, his cheerfulness, his desire to make life happier for everyone, his simple democracy of spirit, and the wonderful large mind which was evident in all his works, are qualities which will make a strong appeal to boys who read the story of his marvelous career.

THE UNCHARTED ISLAND. By Walter Scott Story. 12mo, 325 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

A lively story of modern desert island castaways for boys of 12 to 20. Young Mr. Stewart King, likable and quick-witted American boy, is cast adrift on the open sea with a whale boat-load of strangely assorted men. A volcanic island looms before them—somber, wooded, reef-fringed—in whose forests strange wild men lurk. Treasure is on this island, and there are two of Stewart King's companions who know of this treasure. Men fight with their hands in the primitive way. Men disappear, and no word more from them. Stewart with his friend, Randall, the wireless operator of the wrecked ship, finds himself at once in a maze of dangerous and surprising events. The narrative is swift, keen, clean and satisfying.

CHILDREN'S BOOK OF CELEBRATED TOWERS. By Lorinda M. Bryant, author of "The Children's Book of Celebrated Bridges," etc. Square quarto, 100 pages, 50 full-page illustrations. $2.50

A book for children of all ages. In this latest addition to Mrs. Bryant's splendid art library for children she tells the story and collects the pictures of some of the most famous tower structures of all ages, from the very modern tower of Madison Square to the ancient pyramids. She tells of towers built to watch the coursings of the stars, towers built to ward against approaching enemies, towers built to glorify the strength of living kings and to appease the shades of the departed.

The volume is uniform with the author's extremely popular "The Children's Book of Celebrated Pictures," "The Children's Book of Celebrated Sculpture," "The Children's Book of Celebrated Buildings" and "The Children's Book of Celebrated Bridges."

HERE AND THERE IN POPULAR SCIENCE. By Jean-Henri Fabre, author of "The Wonder Book of Chemistry," "The Story Book of Science," etc. Translation by Percy F. Bicknell. 8vo, 375 pages. Illustrated. $2.50

Under Fabre's magic touch the commonplace phenomena of daily life take on new meaning, and the beauties of science are revealed to the casual observer or inquiring mind. In this latest volume of the author's popular series for young people new wonders are revealed, simplified and explained to meet the requirements of youthful investigators.

As in "The Story Book of Science" the author dealt with the metals under the earth, and in "This Earth of Ours" he explained the volcanoes, glaciers, seas, earthquakes and a thousand and one things of interest that take place on the earth, so here he gives to his readers a fund of new, useful, and accurate information, about the moon, stars, comets, explains how sunbeams are bent, how our almanac came into being, and arouses new interest in the multitude of wonders everywhere about us.

JOHN AND SUZANNE. By Edith Ballinger Price. 12mo, 244 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

A satisfying sentimental story for children of all ages up to 14. Two unhappy little persons in a sternly disciplined and loveless orphan "Home"—Suzanne and John. The day comes when they can endure the gloomy discipline of the "Home" no more. Prompted by Suzanne, John slips away, and Suzanne follows. They wander up into the beautiful green summer country of Connecticut. It is like some glorious Paradise to the two orphans—the life-giving countryside, the cleanliness and health and beauty of the home which they find. Yet John feels that he is in the way, and runs off. He falls in with wicked men, and it is very hard for him. Suzanne finds him, and at the last John and Suzanne know that the happy home they have found is theirs forever.

ONE BOY TOO MANY. By Lebbeus Mitchell, author of "Here, Tricks, Here!", etc. 12mo, 191 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

A pleasurable story for children up to the age of 12. Only a little boy, "seven years old, going on eight," is Georgie, the delightful hero. There are other children in Georgie's family, and though his father and mother both love him deeply and sincerely, when the father loses his job and food becomes hard to get, Georgie suspects he is "one boy too many" in the family. So he starts out looking for a job. A wistful, joyous story of the world as seen through the eyes of a little boy. The fine virtues of generosity and kindliness are expressed in wholehearted measure.

SULLY JOINS THE CIRCUS. By Allen Chaffee, author of "Tony and the Big Top," etc. 12mo, 270 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

Cheerful and lively adventures for older boys, 14 to 20. The joy and the excitement of the biggest show on earth sweep through this delightful story. It tells how young Mr. Winthrop Sullivan, known as "Sully" to all who loved him, got into difficulties with his studies at college, and left to get a job. His love of animals, of adventure and travel and open air living, brought him to a circus. And because he was a big young man he just naturally gravitated to the big elephants, while the big elephants acquired a spontaneous great affection for Sully. A delightful summer of wandering with the circus, and Sully was ready to go back to college—there to study sciences, zoology and botany and geology, so that he would be fitted to go on a great animal hunt to Asia.

SEA-GOING JOCK. By Kenneth Payson Kempton, author of "Red Eagle Island," etc. 12mo, 375 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

Fine sea adventures for young readers of 10 to 20. Young Jock Holiday, scion of a brave line of sea captains, ships on board a sailing vessel. Wreck overtakes the little craft on the deep water, and she goes down with Jock's father. Thrown on shore, with his career to make, Jock works about the wharves, as roustabout, clerk and watchman. Again the sea calls him. He ships on board steam vessels as cabinboy, and finally wins a berth as radio operator. The story is one of manifold incidents, each bringing out clear pictures of the tremendous and intricate business of shipping.

MODERN GREAT AMERICANS. By Frederick Houk Law. 12mo, 300 pages. Illustrated. $2.00

Intimate biographical studies of twenty eminent national leaders, outstandingly successful in as many fields of endeavor. Included are the lives of Bell, Burbank, Burroughs, Carnegie, Carrel, Clemens, Edison, Goethals, Gorgas, Michelson, Millikan, Peary, Pershing, Richards, Roosevelt, Root, Sargent, Van Dyke, Wilson, and Wilbur and Orville Wright. The purpose is to inspire younger readers and to give them an understanding of how true greatness is developed by strength of character.

ADVENTURE ISLE. By George Allan England, author of "Vikings of the Ice," etc. 12mo, 269 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

A swift adventure story for boys of 12 to 20, first tale ever laid on Sable Island. The story begins with the robbery of a young bank messenger and the escape of his assailants. A succession of incidents brings Stanfield Prentiss, the hero, to Sable Island, and maroons him there. The life of the grim fog-bound island, where pirates once dwelt and where the bones of proud ships lie rotting, is vivdly set down in a series of skilfully plotted episodes. It is a memorable tale of storm and wreck, of privation and danger and bold Viking hearts which face the manifold terrors of the sea.

A YEAR AT MISS AUSTIN'S. By Ethel Comstock Bridgman. 12mo, 252 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

A delightful story of real girls at boarding school, their ambitions and activities, their joys, their adventures in friendship and their amusing escapades, for girls of 12 to 18. "I have tried to set down types of modern girls in a sincere, natural and humorous manner," says Mrs. Bridgman. "Beyond writing an entertaining story I wished to emphasize the very real advantages a girl may find and the life lessons she may learn through close and democratic association with other types of girls, to emphasize also the importance of sincerity, honesty, and true simplicity."

THE ENCHANTED FLIVVER. By Berton Braley. 12mo, 225 pages. Many illustrations. $2.00

A new fashion of fairy story by the famous humorist, for children up to 12. A gay, whimsical, compendium of sense and nonsense describing the adventures of Dan Burleigh in a magic Lizzie with fairyland poet as his guide. "This is a story for children as young as five and old as one hundred and five—for everybody who has kept his heart young and his love of foolery and fantasy alive. A story that buzzes along blithely as a flivver that's hitting on all four; with more than twenty merry poems whose lilt lifts your feet in a jig and your heart in a happy rhythm," says Mr. Braley.

THE MOUNTED TROOP. By Joseph B. Ames, author of "The Clearport Boys," etc. 12mo, 212 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

A story of the new West for adventure-seekers of the ages 12 to 18, told in the most vivid style of this master of grown-up stories. A splendid tale of action, bringing out by indirection the best virtues of Scout training and emphasizing what manhood means. Emphasizing, too, the virtues of honesty, loyalty, courage, and fair play.

DOROTHEA'S DOUBLE. By Margaret Johnson. 12mo, 300 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

Pleasant seashore adventures for boys and girls of 6 to 14. The membership of the Shingle Cove Club, consisting of several boys and one girl, comes to a disagreement and some bitter feeling as to which group shall possess the Club House, a small hut on the shore of the unoccupied Topcliff estate at Coquisset Point. Plots and counterplots, kidnappings and transfers of midleading clues from one group to another follow in quick succession; and the likeness of two girls interested in opposing groups adds much to the confusion. The outcome is unsuspected and satisfactory. It is a splendid mystery story, bound to please outdoor, action-loving boys and girls.

ADE OF THE MARCY MOUNTED. By T. Morris Longstreth, author of "Coin and Crossbones," etc. 12mo, 275 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

A story for boys and girls from 10 to 16. All the ingredients that go to make up a corking tale are to be found admirably blended in this latest juvenile by Longstreth. In a spirit of play Ade Durham gathers his chums together, appropriates Aunt Matilda's horses and forms the Royal Marcy Mounted. They discover and follow a band of horse-thieves, are captured and forced to proceed with the outlaws through the trackless forests on their way toward Canada. The wit and ingenuity of the three unarmed boys is pitted against the strength, duplicity and arsenal of their desperate retainers. It is Longstreth at his out-of-doors best, a he-man tale with spirit and snap.

SECRET OF TATE'S BEACH. By Augusta Huiell Seaman, author of "Bluebonnet Bend," etc. 12mo, 306 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

A juvenile mystery for children of 10 to 16. There are a pirate, hidden jewels of possible royal ownership, a mysterious child whose ancestry is for a long time unknown, a baffling code letter, and information which inspires various people to search for a buried treasure, which is known to be concealed somewhere in the small coast settlement. It is a boy type of tale with a girl heroine, told by a master of mystery narrative.

HUNTING STORIES. Retold from St. Nicholas. 12mo, 198 pages. Illustrated. $1.25

A new and lively addition to the famous "St. Nicholas Stories" for readers up to 18. This series constitutes a library of well-bound, well printed, fully illustrated stories and articles for young people, with a central theme which runs through each volume. HUNTING STORIES is a splendid collection of action tales, hunts in India, Africa, Abyssinia, Brazil, and in the mountains, woods and waters of our own native America. There are stories of encounters with and captures of tigers, lions, elephants, rhinoceroses, hippopotamuses, and many smaller animals and birds.

THE HAMMON TWINS. By Willis K. Jones. 12mo, 339 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

A story of college, for girls of 12 to 20. It chronicles the Freshman adventures of two young ladies, twin sisters and sometimes "sin-twisters," who were as alike as two peas in a pod. The twins, brilliant and capable, win the title of "the emergency specialists" from their adoring classmates. This is because of their fertility in outwitting the Sophomores and finding a way out of every escapade. The story of their lively adventures affords a jolly good picture, set down with charm and skill, of a wholesome, fun-loving group of college girls of the present day.

THE APOSTOLIC MESSAGE—A HISTORICAL INQUIRY. By Benjamin Wisner Bacon, DD., Litt.D. (Oxon.). 8vo, 423 pages. $3.50

An application of the historico-critical method to an inquiry into the message of the Apostles, aiming at more exact statement of the meaning of New Testament writers.

Dr. Bacon, who has occupied the chair of New Testament Criticism and Interpretation at Yale University for thirty years, has long been considered one of the leading exponents of Modernism. But in this trenchant analysis of church teaching since its earliest days he takes issue with a conspicuous type of liberal theology as commonly understood and comes forward as the outspoken champion of a positive doctrine of blood-atonement, employing all the resources of those sciences of which he is an acknowledged master to show that the supreme and distinctive message of Christianity is always the "Word of the Cross."

FUNDAMENTALISM versus MODERNISM. A Layman's Viewpoint. By James W. Johnson. 16mo, 51 pages. $.50

The message of this interesting and inspired little volume, which combines religious zeal with common sense, will appeal to all men who feel that the religious dissensions of to-day are discrediting the church and concealing Christianity's vital truth.

THE MODERN SUNDAY SCHOOL: ITS THEORY AND PRACTICE. By George Hamilton Archibald. 12mo, 208 pages. $2.00

A discussion of the problems of the modern Sunday School together with practical suggestions for providing more effective religious education.

George Hamilton Archibald, Principal of Westhill Training College, Birmingham, England, has engaged in Sunday-school work for over twenty years.

The Modern Sunday School is written from the point of view of the practical psychologist and on its theoretical side deals with the psychology of youth as it affects religious education. But the greater part of the book is devoted to solving the difficulties Sunday-school superintendents meet in the actual management of schools.

OSMAN PASHA: A PLAY OF THE NEW TURKEY. By William Jourdan Rapp. 12mo, 145 pages. $1.25

The author is a newspaper man who has spent many years in Turkey and whose recent articles in the New York Times have aroused widespread comment.

Osman Pasha is a story of beautiful love, deep religious experience and great heroism set against the background of present-day Turkey in the throes of a renaissance, a reformation and a Nationalist revolution. The author does not see Turkey turning to Christian theology but he puts forward the startling possibility that Turkey may turn to Jesus and His altruistic teachings. Osman Pasha is endorsed by the Near East Relief.

A PRACTICAL FAITH. By Harold Anson. 16mo, 194 pages. $1.25

Christ's teachings applied to prayer, immortality, politics, church membership and kindred subjects in an effort to make religion compatible with intellectual sincerity. Dr. Anson is Chairman of the Guild of Health, London, an organization to coordinate the work of the religious teacher and the medical adviser. He is Honorable Secretary of the Archbishop's Council for advising the Church in regard to spiritual healing, and is on the staff of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, London.

CHRISTIAN SONG. Edited by Louis F. Benson. $2.00

402 pages of hymns and tunes, full indexes, Responsive Readings from the Psalter. The hymns have been submitted to the text of reverence, spiritual reality, wholesomeness, and lyrical beauty.

Dr. Benson is the editor of the Presbyterian denominational hymn and tune books of which 1,500,000 have been sold.

A CURRICULUM OF WORSHIP FOR THE JUNIOR CHURCH SCHOOL. Volume II. By Edna M. Crandall. Introduction by Luther A. Weigle. 12mo, 353 pages. $2.00

A program of services of worship for the second year of the junior church school, together with a memory curriculum of correlated hymns and Scripture passages.

BUSINESS AND THE CHURCH. A symposium, edited by Jerome Davis, head of the Department of Social Service, Yale University. 12mo, 347 pages. $2.50

An attempt to answer the question, "What if business is just as sacred a calling as religion?" The contributors are John Calder, Henry Ford, Roger Babson, E. M. Herr, William Green, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Whiting Williams, S. A. Lewisohn, A. H. Young, Albert F. Coyle, L. K. Comstock, Henry Dennison, J. M. Larkin, Harry R. Tosdal, Edward A. Filene, William P. Hapgood, A. D. N. Holt, B. M. Squires, John W. Riegel, Arthur Nash, Earle Howard and Jerome Davis himself.

GEORGE HODGES. By Julia Shelley Hodges. Narrow 8vo, 356 pages. Illustrated. $2.00

A biography by the wife of the well-known and much loved Dean of the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass.

Of special interest to the clergy is the account of his method of teaching, pastoral care and preaching and of his notable work in social service which is traced from its earliest beginnings during the first year of his ministry. Another interesting feature is the portrayal of Dean Hodges's contacts with people, famous and obscure, and the strong influence of his personality over them.

VARIETIES OF ADOLESCENT EXPERIENCE. By E. Leigh Mudge. 12mo, 134 pages. $1.75

The psychology of early and middle adolescence, based on the case method.

Varieties of Adolescent Experience grew out of a study of adolescence as recalled by a large number of women college students in biographical sketches. It should prove a valuable text for those who are preparing to teach girls of the early teen years.

RELIGION AND MORBID MENTAL STATES. By H. I. Schou, M.D. 16mo, 215 pages. $1.25

Deals with various forms of psychosis and the manner in which the element of religion manifests itself in the mentally deranged. Typical case-histories are included. Dr. Schou is the head of the Hospital for Mental Diseases in Dianalund, Denmark. He is a psychiatrist and a Christian, and his treatment is sympathetic.

BUILDING FOR RELIGIOUS EDUCATION. By Henry Edward Tralle and George E. Merrill. 8vo, 315 pages. Illustrated. $2.00

How to plan a church building to meet the present and future needs of a large and growing Sunday school with an educational and recreational program. Dr. Tralle knows more about church building and material equipment for religious education than any man in the country. Mr. Merrill is an outstanding specialist in church architecture, and head of the Department of Architecture of the Northern Baptist denomination.

SHALL WE HAVE A CREED? By E. Hershey Sneath. 16mo, 69 pages. $1.00

"Shall We Have a Creed?" embodies the substance of an address delivered by Dr. Sneath as President of the Theological Society before that organization, and repeated before the Convocation of the Divinity School of Yale University, and is published in response to many requests for its message in book form.

It is a plea for unprejudiced thinking, and a review of the arguments, for and against the creed as these appear in the history of dogma and confessions of faith.

WALLPAPER AND WALLPAPER HANGING. By Charles L. Young, author of "Practical Painting and Paper Hanging," etc. 8vo, 400 pages. Illustrated. $3.50

This practical manual is brimful of invaluable information for the paper hanger, the interior decorator, and the home owner. It explains how wallpapers are made, how various kinds of paper should be hung, and gives admirable advice for selecting wallpapers and for decorating large houses and bungalows, and discusses clearly and concisely how costly mistakes may be avoided. In addition are practical chapters on the management of a paperhanger's business and a complete dictionary of technical terms. Profusely illustrated with floor plans, diagrams, sketches, and reproductions of photographs.

CENTURY READINGS IN THE ENGLISH ESSAY. Edited by Louis Wann, Ph.D. Professor of English Literature and Language at the University of Southern California. Royal 8vo, 500 pages. $3.50

172 essays illustrating the development of this form of literature. All the great English and American essayists are represented in this unique anthology; together with plans of study, an introduction devoted to a history of the essay in English, biographical sketches of each author represented, explanatory notes, and inclusive bibliographies.

AN INTERPRETATION OF RECENT AMERICAN HISTORY. By James C. Malin, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of History at the University of Kansas. 8vo, 350 pages. $2.00

A valuable interpretation of later American history during the period which witnessed the making of the nationalized federal state and the advance of the United States to world leadership. The author treats his subject in the light of these two outstanding changes. He deals with geographic unification, economic organization, and the nationalization of government. In the second part of the book he studies the development of industrialism, imperialism, and internationalism, giving particular attention to industrial organization and finance, foreign trade, American foreign relations, population and immigration, the development of national government regulation, and the development of institutions and politics. Dr. Malin explains the political, legal, and economic theories which underlie the historical facts of the period. A volume that should help the general reader to a better understanding of recent American history.

DISABLED PERSONS: THEIR EDUCATION AND REHABILITATION. By Oscar M. Sullivan, Director of Re-education for the State of Minnesota, and Kenneth O. Snortum, Associate Professor of Education at Macalester College. 8vo, 500 pages, illustrated. $2.50

Social service workers, personnel managers, and all interested in the problem of rehabilitating the disabled will find this book enlightening. It is a comprehensive and well-informed study of the most widely approved methods of educating physically handicapped individuals. The authors give the history of organized efforts toward providing proper medical care and vocational instruction, and deal with such vital problems as the maintenance of the disabled during the period of rehabilitation, placement of the re-educated and restored, private and public rehabilitation activities, and laws.

This is the first book to include an adequate explanation of the use of motion pictures as an instrument of instruction, a discussion of motion picture pedagogy, and a selected, classified descriptive list of available motion pictures of educational value. The book makes a particular appeal to school superintendents, principals, and teachers, but it should prove to be exceedingly helpful to those who are in charge of educational programs conducted by, or for, Boy Scout troops, clubs, Y.M.C.A.'s, and similar organizations.

The first part of the book sketches the development of visual education, tells how motion pictures are being used successfully in classrooms, presents in detail several different courses of study, and points out the future possibilities of this new educational instrument. The second part of the book lists and describes over 1500 educational films, classifies these films, and tells where each film can be obtained. The book concludes with a selected bibliography of all the important literature dealing with the subject of visual education.

The Friends You Take Into Your Home

When selecting books for your library look first for the traditional imprint of the Book,

the Palette,

the Rising Sun

and the Laurel Wreath

THE COMPARISON of books to men is obvious, and has been often made. Books are individual personalities, and as such are like men. Books are thought and spirituality, and as such represent the more immortal parts of men. Books influence our lives and actions, our beliefs and our codes, turning us toward wisdom or toward folly as we would allow few men to do.

Yet there is one way in which books differ most particularly from men. It is in this: that we take books into our homes, and that they remain with us. Casually purchased perhaps, or received as gifts, they become our intimates. They are our companions over years. Our children come to know them, and men come to measure us by them.

A home without books is inconceivable to an intelligent man, for almost without exception intelligent men have been nurtured in homes where good books abounded. Yet it is important to use discrimination in choosing the books which we make our intimates, which we take into our homes.

The Century name on a book represents an intellectual tradition.

ABOUT CHELSEA HOUSE BOOKS

CHELSEA HOUSE is the book department of the Street & Smith Corporation, the largest and one of the oldest fiction publishing houses in the United States.

The best serials appearing in the Street & Smith periodicals—POPULAR, AINSLEE'S, WESTERN STORY, DETECTIVE STORY, SEA STORIES, et cetera—are selected for publication in book form under the Chelsea House imprint. These magazines have been the means of introducing some of America's best-known writers to the American reading public—O. Henry, Peter B. Kyne, Charles E. Van Loan, James Oliver Curwood, and many others.

The members of the editorial staff of Street & Smith and Chelsea House are experts in the fiction field. They have had years of experience in catering to the taste of the large body of the American reading public. They know the kind of story that will appeal to the general run of readers. It is not their aim to publish books that will be read only by a limited circle.

TRAIN'S TRUST. By George Owen Baxter, author of "Donnegan," "The Long, Long Trail," "The Range-land Avenger," "The Shadow of Silver Tip," "Wooden Guns," et cetera. 12mo, 320 pages. $2.00 net.

When Steve Train first undertook the mission of finding Jim Nair, the outlaw, and delivering to him the $50,000 which Comstock, the rancher, owed him, he did so with the intention of pulling a crooked game and keeping the money to split it with his partner, John Rainier. But many circumstances arose in Train's quest of the outlaw to change his original purpose of stealing the money. One of these was his meeting with Tom Curtney and his daughter, Alice.

A splendid Baxter romance, vividly alive with the spirit of the West.

THE TWO REDS OF TRAVOY. By Clay Perry, author of "Heart of Hemlock." 12mo, 320 pages. $2.00 net.

In the heart of the forest wilderness of northern French Canada, designated as the Travoy, dwelt William LeGrand and his twin sons, known as "The Two Reds"—great giants of men, of tremendous strength and courage, with features so similar that it seemed as if nature had used the same mold to cast them. When Gwen Harris, a city-bred girl, visited the Travoy to look over a timber tract that her father had bought for her, she met these mighty men of the woods, and the succession of dramatic events that followed constitutes the story.

There is much forest lore and information about woodcraft, lumbering, and reforestation intermingled with the narrative, so that it presents a very real and vivid picture of life in the heavily timbered wilderness country where its scenes are laid.

THE HOUSE OF THE MOVING ROOM. By John Jay Chichester, author of "The Porcelain Mask" and "The Bigamist." 12mo. $2.00 net.

Corinne Drummond made Baird Morrow believe that he was a genius and encouraged him in pursuing a literary career. His wife, Thelma, on the other hand, discouraged these ambitions. In her view, his talent was mediocre—or worse. Both women loved Baird, and he would have been more than human if he had not found greater satisfaction in the affection of the one who flattered him and promised to further his aims. Out of such a situation, it was inevitable that tragedy should come. The House of the Moving Room, a quaint old weather-beaten mansion on the Long Island coast, was the scene of a mysterious murder, which called forth the highest detective talents of "Wiggly" Price, a newspaper man, who has figured in other stories by Mr. Chichester. A vivid tale of love, mystery, and crime, with many dramatic high lights.

THE LIMPING SHERIFF. By Arthur Preston. 12mo. $2.00 net.

(Published September 1, 1926.)

A decoy ad inserted by an employment agency in San Francisco lured a number of men to their deaths on the desert. The game was a profitable one for the scoundrels who were behind it. Then "Limpy" Jimps, sheriff of Caldera County, began to notice things. Dead men may tell no tales, but they leave traces, and in the course of his rides about the foothill trails of the county Jimps picked up the first clew to the strange series of disappearances.

His adventures and desperate perils in bringing the criminals to justice make a rarely exciting tale, laid out in the desert country of California.

TIN HATS. By Fred MacIsaac. 12mo. $2.00 net.

(Published October 1, 1926.)

A story of the Great War, written from the perspective of nearly a decade later, a wondrously big human story that should be read by every man who wore a tin hat and by everybody who knew one of the tin hat wearers. Chris Graham was typical of thousands of young Americans who were drawn into the conflict. He was under twenty-six, rather pale, not in the least athletic. Through the persuasion of his sweetheart, he got into an engineer regiment, in order to avoid the horrors of the trenches. What happened to him after that made the hardships of trench life seem insignificant.

THE WHISPERING OUTLAW. By George Owen Baxter. 12mo. $2.00 net.

(Published November 1, 1926.)

He showed himself only at night. No one ever saw his face. No one knew his name. No one ever heard his voice, for he spoke only in a whisper. Lew Borgen was his trusted lieutenant, and there were many who thought that Borgen himself was "The Whisperer" and the real head of the well-organized outlaw crew who raided ranches, looted banks, and rustled stock all through that part of the West. But one day a crisis arose that caused the real Whisperer to make himself known to his followers, and after that, his personality was more of a mystery than ever.

In this fine Western story, George Owen Baxter handles with masterly skill the theme of a man driven by circumstances into a life of outlawry. The Whisperer eventually squares himself with his enemies, with the law, and with the woman he loves, but the manner of his doing so makes as thrilling and glamorous a tale of the West as has ever been written.

SANDOLLAR. By Charles Neville Buck. 12mo. $2.00 net.

(Published December 1, 1926.)

There is one phase of modern life that always retains its picturesqueness, its never-failing lure, and its romance. This is the world of the thoroughbred horse. Here is a tale of the turf that will live in the memory alongside of such famous stories as "Black Beauty," "Garrison's Finish," and "Checkers." The reader is carried right into the atmosphere of the race tracks. He is taken behind the scenes at the big races and given intimate glimpses of jockeys, trainers, owners, bookies, and other characters of turfdom.

Interwoven with the story of the splendid horse, Sandollar, is the romance of Martin Petrie—or "Lucky" Petrie, as many called him—and June Lee Middleton, the girl from the South who had come to win fame in New York as a sculptress.

THE CLEW IN THE GLASS. By W. B. M. Ferguson, author of "The Black Company." 12mo, 318 pages. $2.00 net.

A year before, Morney had been in love with the woman, but she had gone out of his life—jilted him. Then he came to Pinelake, not knowing that she was living there as the wife of one of its leading citizens. Pinelake was one of those small towns that the devil made, and close on his arrival there, Morney found himself involved in tragedy.

Rarely does one read a mystery story of such fine literary craftsmanship as this. The author's unusual skill in narration is combined with the ability to weave a detective plot that takes a powerful grip on the interest.

YELLOW HORSE. By A. M. Chisholm, author of "When Stuart Came to Sitkum," "The Land of Big Rivers," and "The Red-headed Kids." 12mo, 314 pages. $2.00 net.

The old-time placer camp of Yellow Horse was raw and rough. The gold in the sands and bars and riffles of its creek brought adventurers from the corners of the earth—honest miners, tinhorn miners, birds of passage, birds of prey, tenderfeet and old stampeders, sight-seers and gunmen.

Any one who enjoys his Bret Harte and Mark Twain will surely spend some pleasant hours with the hard-boiled citizens of Yellow Horse.

THE CRUISE OF THE "COLLEEN BAWN." By Frank Carruthers, author of "Terror Island." 12mo, 310 pages. $2.00 net.

A telegram from his company ordered Sid Livingston to leave Denver at once and report to a man named Gregory in San Francisco. How this telegram led to the young railroader finding himself aboard the Colleen Bawn for a cruise filled with the most exciting incidents makes the start of as fine a tale of adventure on land and sea as the heart can desire.

Few authors know the inside of railroading as well as Frank Carruthers. He knows the sea, too, and moreover, he is a rarely gifted story-teller, as those who read his "Terror Island" can attest.

FRONTIER OF THE DEEP. By Will Beale. 12mo, 320 pages. $2.00 net.

The locale of this story is the semiprimitive sea country from Maine to Newfoundland—an almost untouched region of rarest charm, a land of imperial beauties and picturesque peoples, a region of sheerest romance.

Flung clean against such a background is the appealing tale of David Legère. In carrying out his pioneer father's idea of founding a town on the sea, young Legère encountered opposing forces that brought him finally to the very bottom of life. His regeneration is brought about in one single big moment of stark intensity.

WOODEN GUNS. By George Owen Baxter. 12mo, 318 pages. $2.00 net.

When "Big Jim" Conover sustained an injury to his right hand, he was no longer the formidable fighting man that he had been before. No longer could he depend on his speed on the draw to win his victories; his only weapons were the "wooden guns" of bluff and subterfuge from which the story takes its name. The injury which changed him from a desperate gun fighter into a leader of men was really a blessing in disguise.

A fine virile story of the romantic West, told in George Owen Baxter's best manner.

TERROR ISLAND. By Frank Carruthers. 12mo, 319 pages. $2.00 net.

The hardships incidental to being marooned on a volcanic island in the Pacific did not trouble Hugh MacLaren so much as the fact that a woman shared his misfortune, and that the woman in question was Alison Jeffard, the very last person in the world he would have chosen as his companion in such an adventure.

The story of these modern castaways is superlatively well told, with just enough touches of novelty to make it seem entirely plausible that the events narrated could happen in this age.

THE RED-HEADED KIDS. By A. M. Chisholm. 12mo, 320 pages. $2.00 net.

They were as tough a bunch of shanty lads and rivermen as had ever been brought together to cut timber. They had just run the boss out of camp, and now their eyes were turned to the pay roll, of which Archie Ogilvie, a skinny, red-headed lad of eighteen, was the sole custodian. But the kid beat the roughneck crew at their own game, and later became a prominent figure in the lumber industry. A splendid outdoor story of the big-timber country.

ON THE RIGHT WRISTS. By Armstrong Livingston. 12mo, 314 pages. $2.00 net.

This is an unusually ingenious and well-written mystery story. The scenes are laid in the luxurious Catskill Mountain camp of Douglas Venable, "The Spider of Wall Street."

When Venable's butler found his employer dead on the floor of his study, there was a complicated mystery to unravel, and the finger of suspicion pointed first at one and then another of the guests. Peter Creighton, the detective, is a character whose methods will prove interesting on account of their novelty.

THE BIGAMIST. By John Jay Chichester. 12mo, 320 pages. $2.00 net.

Unusual circumstances had made Channing Searles a bigamist, and when his secret was discovered, as such secrets always are, blackmail followed—and then an uglier crime.

"The Bigamist" is intense human drama, combined with an engrossing mystery, which is eventually solved by the unique detective methods of "Wiggly" Price, the reporter who fathomed the riddles of Chichester's other popular stories, "The Porcelain Mask" and "The House of the Moving Room."

THE SHADOW OF SILVER TIP. By George Owen Baxter. 12mo, 320 pages. $2.00 net.

This is the story of a bandit known as "The Shadow," who tried to shift his burden of crime onto the shoulders of another man, and in so doing, made that other man a hero of splendid proportions.

There is a horse in this story, a matchless animal which exhibits as much intelligence and more loyalty than most men. There is a girl, Sylvia Rann, who identifies The Shadow and denounces him to the incredulous authorities.

THE MAN OF THE DESERT. By Robert J. Horton, author of "Rider o' the Stars," "The Prairie Shrine," et cetera. 12mo, 320 pages. $2.00 net.

When Hope Farman went to visit her uncle's place, the Rancho del Encanto, in the foothills of the Sierras, adjacent to the desert country, adventure met her within the first hour. A stampeding herd of cattle overturned the buckboard in which she was being driven to the ranch, and this mishap brought about her meeting with Channing, supposedly a prospector in the desert, but in reality a good deal of a man of mystery.

The reader of this story will find himself under the strangely fascinating spell of the desert from the very first page.

THE BOSS OF EAGLE'S NEST. By William West Winter, author of "Quemado," "Louisiana Lou," "Millions in Motors," et cetera. 12mo, 319 pages. $2.00 net.

Eagle's Nest was the name of an ancient Spanish house perched like a fortress high on a cliff in the Mexican province of Sonora. It was the stronghold of the O'Donoju family.

How John van Wyck, an American adventurer, fell heir to the O'Donoju domain, rechristened himself The O'Donoju, and carried the feud in which that family was engaged to a successful termination, makes a fine tale of adventure in the Mexican border country.

THE LAND OF BIG RIVERS. By A. M. Chisholm. 12mo, 305 pages. $2.00 net.

The story of a quest for lost treasure. In this case it was not gold or precious stones, but an immensely valuable cache of furs, which Nitche MacNab, a dishonest factor of the Hudson's Bay Company, had hidden away years before.

Many men were lured into the search—woodsmen, trappers, Indians, sportsmen, and settlers. To most readers, this story will be a revelation of the great fur country of the Northwest.

PLEDGED TO THE DEAD. By Ernest M. Poate, author of "Behind Locked Doors" and "The Trouble at Pinelands." 12mo, 320 pages. $2.00 net.

What happened to Doctor Dunn when Evelyn Armitage disappeared directly after the death of her uncle? For one thing he nearly lost his practice and everything else he held dear in life.

Doctor Poate, the author, has had a wide experience as a medico-criminologist. He served his apprenticeship in that Spartan school of life called "Bellevue," the most expressive word in the English language to those who are engaged in police and newspaper work in New York.

SHARE AND SHARE ALIKE. By Reginald Wright Kauffman, author of "Money to Burn," et cetera. 12mo, 310 pages. $2.00 net.

After the opening scenes in New York, the action of this story shifts to the island of Martinique in the West Indies, with its languid tropic nights, its luxuriant foliage, and its strange creatures of swamp and jungle.

Thither Marcia Maynard goes—summoned by a message purporting to come from her grandfather—to a mystery-haunted plantation. Perils surround her on every side, but she has a loyal henchman in Sam Jefford, and the pair go through a series of veritable "Arabian Nights" adventures.

THE RIDER OF THE MOHAVE. By James Fellom. 12mo, 318 pages. $2.00 net.

The hand of the law was against Billy Gee, and his hand was against the law. Hounded by sheriff's posses, he took refuge on the run-down ranch of Lemuel Huntington. Thanks to Dot Huntington, Lemuel's daughter, this proved the turning point in the bandit's career.

This is the story of which Zane Grey wrote to the author: "I think you have written a darn good book, and I congratulate you. There are so many Western books, and so few have ideals. I hope yours will have the good sale it deserves."

THE PRAIRIE SHRINE. By Robert J. Horton. 12mo, 320 pages. $2.00 net.

When Annalee Bronson and her mother left Pennsylvania to take up a homestead deep in the Western prairie, they soon discovered many reasons why they should not have located where they did, but they stuck it out.

This is a story of that vast, far-reaching open country, where human passions are intense and elemental, and where justice, though sometimes heavy-handed and clumsy, usually gives a square deal in the long run.

THE RANGE-LAND AVENGER. By George Owen Baxter. 12mo, 319 pages. $2.00 net.

Riley Sinclair loved and trusted only one man, and that man was his brother. When the latter was left to die on the burning sands of the desert by men who were his bunkies, and who should have saved his life under any circumstances, Riley swore vengeance.

Here is the primitive West in all its stark reality. It is life in the raw —brutal, hard, yet splendidly vital, vividly romantic and picturesque. A story that grips the imagination.

THE SEVENTH SHOT. By Harry Coverdale, author of "The Unknown Seven." 12mo, 318 pages. $2.00 net.

A gripping mystery story that takes the reader behind the scenes at a first night on Broadway. Alan Mortimer, the leading man of the company, had many enemies and few friends. The new play had a dark scene in which six shots were to be fired. The six shots rang throughout the auditorium. Then came the seventh shot—and death for Mortimer.

Who fired it? There was no lack of motive on the part of a dozen different people, and Detective Barrison had a difficult trail to follow.

WHEN STUART CAME TO SITKUM. By A. M. Chisholm. 12mo, 320 pages. $2.00 net.

The "Sitkum" of the story is up at the headwaters of the Big Canoe, in British Columbia, in the midst of a steamboat and wagon-road country; no railway. To this primitive region, young Bill Stuart was sent to look after the interests of his father, old Bill Stuart, of Stuart Mountain Lumber. He found plenty of trouble, but young Bill was a tough customer in a fight.

THE COW WOMEN. By George Gilbert. 12mo, 320 pages. $2.00 net.

One of the cow women from whom this story takes its title was Kate Bradon; another was Prime Frazer, daughter of Ed Frazer, owner of the Bar Six Ranch. When Ed's wife died, Kate succeeded in inveigling him into a second marriage. Her object was to gain Bar Six for herself and her wily accomplice, Brazos Kingston.

A colorful story of the cattle country.

CHELSEA HOUSE POPULAR COPYRIGHTS

The books listed in the following pages sell at 75 cents each. They are all new, copyrighted stories that have never before appeared in book form, comprising fiction of the most popular type—Western, detective, mystery, adventure, and love stories.

The books are well bound and printed from large, clear type, on good paper. In appearance they are the equal of most books put out by other publishers to sell at $2.00.

ANNE AGAINST THE WORLD By Victor Thorne

Anne, a shy little home girl, is the heroine of a romantic love story. She was driven out into the world by her desire to help her talented brother, and was led into grave danger.

Before love and fortune find her, she has a very interesting career.

AROUND THE WORLD IN EIGHTY HOURS By William Wallace Cook

David Whitley of Detroit, agreed to pilot an airplane around the world within a week. John Morning, the manufacturer of the plane, agreed to pay him $100,000, if he did so.

Quite a good week's salary! Did Dave earn it? Well, after reading this story, we are inclined to believe that he did.

BACK OF BEYOND
By Ethel Smith Dorrance and James French Dorrance

Against the advice of Sergeant Alfred Rawson, of the Mounted Police, Doctor Kirkland and his daughter, Louise, pushed on to Back of Beyond Valley, although winter was close at hand. Soon the Yukon country was in the grip of the blizzard, and then a call for help came to Rawson from the remote northern valley.

A splendid tale of the Yukon.

THE BLACK SIGNAL — By David Manning

There was something a little unnatural in the daring of Lew Melody, something frightful in his hunger for danger. But when he met Mary Furnival, known as "Sandy" throughout that rugged section of the mountain-desert country, a great change was wrought in him. A splendid tale of the primitive West.

BLACKIE AND RED — By David Manning

They ran away from an orphan asylum, and Andy Connell, the old prospector, gave them shelter. They hated each other and fought time and time again; yet they always stuck together.

A fine outdoor story, dealing with the adventures of two boys as they grow up to manhood in the Western mountain country.

THE BLACK STAR — By Johnston McCulley

This is the story in which Johnston McCulley's famous character, Black Star, was first introduced to the reading public. Here, too, will be found Roger Verbeck and his man, Muggs, who were out to capture Black Star.

For rapidity of action and tenseness of situation, the stories about Black Star have few equals.

BLACK STAR'S CAMPAIGN — By Johnston McCulley

Black Star, master criminal, who conducts a campaign of organized loot in this story, is a dominating figure.

Against the intelligence of this supercrook, are pitted the mental resources of Roger Verbeck, who frustrates Black Star's attempt to plunder the city.

BLACK STAR'S RETURN — By Johnston McCulley

Never has there been a more popular picaresque character than Black Star. Suave rogue and master villain that he is, his exploits have a sardonic humor and a compelling fascination, so that one never tires of reading about them.

This is the third volume of Black Star's adventures, forming a worthy sequel to "The Black Star" and "Black Star's Campaign."

BLUE JEAN BILLY — By Charles W. Tyler

In "Quality Bill's Girl," Mr. Tyler told how Blue Jean Billy, a wild, free, glorious creature of the sea, was won away from her life of outlawry by her love for Robert Wood, the detective. In this story, a sequel to "Quality Bill's Girl," something happens to put the iron of bitterness into the girl's heart against the law and its representatives, and she resumes her rôle of highwaywoman of the sea.

THE BOSS OF CAMP FOUR — By Emart Kinsburn

They sold "Spookmule" Paxton twenty thousand acres of land, and before the ink was dry on the deed, they were doing their best to get it back.

Why? And who are "they?" Paxton is thoroughly capable of taking care of himself, and the manner in which he does it excites admiration.

THE BRAND OF SILENCE — By Harrington Strong

Sidney Prale left New York for Honduras with plenty of friends. He returned with only a single friend upon whom he could depend.

The cause was not of his own making, but people thought so. This splendid detective story deals with the determined effort of Prale to prove his real worth.

THE BRUTE — By David Manning

He came out of the wilderness, a man of splendid physique, capable of conquering the world and winning a fortune for himself. But civilization got its grip on him, and he drifted into a life of drunkenness and crime. He became The Brute—a creature to be hated and dreaded. Then Crusader came into his life, Crusader, the magnificent stallion, whose noble qualities inspired an affection that aroused The Brute's dormant manhood.

BULL HUNTER — By David Manning

Bull Hunter is big, clumsy, slow-witted, and a butt for the rude pranks and ridicule of his comrades.

The story tells of Bull's awakening, and how he demonstrated that he was not really dull, but only needed to be shown how to use his tremendous strength to advantage.

BULL HUNTER'S ROMANCE By David Manning
Sequel to "Bull Hunter"

This is another series of Bull Hunter's exploits. It deals with Bull, his horse, and his dog. The trio have a number of stirring adventures.

Certain characters other than Bull are very well drawn; Pete Reeve, for example, and Hal Dunbar, who was not as good as he might have been, but who got pretty nearly everything that was coming to him.

THE CACTUS KID By James Roberts

He hailed from Texas. They did not know his name; he would not tell them. So they called him "The Cactus Kid."

He could play any known tune with a six-gun, and was suspected of being an outlaw. Much to the surprise of every one he put himself on the side of law and order. A breezy, delightful story of the West.

THE CAVALIER OF RABBIT BUTTE By James Roberts

A story of the cattle country where outlaws and rustlers are operating.

Every one will be interested in Steve Brent, who, although he admits that any one could write all he knows on the white spaces on the ten of clubs, nevertheless enjoys unusual gifts of mind and body.

THE COYOTE By James Roberts

When a man is forced to flee in the Arizona desert, with a price upon his head; when he is regarded as the possessor of a very sinister reputation, then either he has played life a scurvy trick, or he has not been used fairly.

Roger Rathburn went into the desert country as an outlaw and a gunman. He came out—but that is the story.

THE CRATER OF KALA By Joseph Montague

Here is a vivid story of the South Seas. Professor Lang and his daughter Dorcas charter the Ahimanu for a journey of exploration.

Jim Waring has a mighty tough job in protecting the professor and his daughter from "Red" Johnson, the buckaroo skipper.

THE DEMON By Johnston McCulley

"Big Charlie" Snokes, gang leader, killed Alderman Redson, political boss.

Both men had been interested in the same girl, which is only one of many reasons why things began to happen with a swiftness that was startling, and with a purpose that was unfathomable until Captain Camisell, of the detective bureau, took a hand.

THE EYEWITNESS By John Paul Seabrooke

Lawyer Colby went to visit his wealthy client, Lloyd Latshaw. He was met with a most astonishing request on Latshaw's part, that a codicil be added to his will, disinheriting his young wife under certain circumstances.

Tragedy followed hard upon the heels of this request, leaving a tangle of trouble, doubt, and anguish on Colby's hands for unraveling.

THE FIGHTING WADES By John H. Hamlin

Down in the cow country around Long Shadow Valley, the Spur Tracks Ranch was run by the Widow Wade—a lonely, grim, embittered old woman, who had never recovered from the shock of her son's marriage to a gay butterfly of a girl, twenty years previously. When the child of that marriage, her granddaughter, Fanchon, came to Spur Tracks for a visit, the reception which the old ranch woman prepared for her was calculated to overawe the girl. The events that followed made a decidedly novel Western yarn.

FOOLS OF TREASURE By W. E. Schutt

An inverted, homemade American flag, a tiny island off the African coast, a vast treasure, a most interesting girl, a satisfactory male character, these are the ingredients of this story, bound together by the strongest bonds of adventure, assailed by enemies and the elements, but emerging triumphant at the end.

FOUR KNOCKS ON THE DOOR By John Paul Seabrooke

A series of murders baffles the police and engages the attention of the famous private detective, Norman Clyde. All the victims of the unknown assassins, it develops, were born on the same date, November 16th.

How Norman Clyde solves the mystery from the slender clews that the case affords is a revelation of ingenious detective methods.

FRASER'S FOLLY By W. E. Schutt

For eleven years, the two exiles, Fraser and the man who called himself Philip Nolan, wandered up and down the western watershed of the Andes. Then they found a gold-bearing quartz ledge that proved a magnet for a sorry crew of scoundrels. A story of rogues rampant, with action crowded on action.

GEMS OF PROMISE By Emart Kinsburn

Just over the border in Mexico, a bleached skeleton lay resting beside an ancient firearm. The weapon was inscribed "Gabriel Gamez, A. D. 1812."

You would not think that this incident would lead Morgan Tuttle, saddle tramp, through a series of enthralling adventures while in search of treasure, would you? But it did.

A GIRL AGAINST ODDS By Marcia Montaigne

Katherine Waite, walking along a country road, discovered an unconscious man. She had never seen him before, but she had him taken to her home and treated by a physician.

Much to her surprise, it developed that he was the owner of a huge estate and very wealthy. Of course, this is a good start for a love story.

THE GOLDEN BOWL By Harrison Conrard

Gold, plenty of it, appears in this story of Arizona. "Black Mike's" father and some friends had just discovered a bonanza spot so rich as to look like the treasure box of Crœsus.

Notwithstanding this, Mike chose a precarious vocation which was made even more so by the inexorable natural laws of the desert.

GOLDEN ISLE By Roland Ashford Phillips

Concealing jail breakers is not usually a healthy or profitable occupation. In the case of the escape of Rex Costello from Sing Sing, however, Lloyd Bucknell found that it was very much to his advantage to hide the prisoner and afterward to take him on a treasure hunt.

THE GOLDEN TEMPTATION By Victor Thorne

People referred to Clayton Carr as a "master of men." Success had come to him in everything—except love. The story of his beginning life all over again and winning his way to true love and happiness makes an unusually fine romance.

GOOD HATERS By George Gilbert

When her father died, Irene Carson determined to run his ranch, the Bar Z Bar, by herself. There were lots of good cowmen round about who would have been glad to share her lot, but Irene would have none of them. Finally she hired Anse Rodmere, who was about as much of a woman-hater as she was a man-hater. After that, Bar Z Bar was the scene of some exciting action.

HER DESERT LOVER By Louisa Carter Lee

When Philip Lane opened his dining-room window to admit Beatrice Hale, Fate stalked in at her side.

All through the evil hours, the heartbreaking disappointments which followed, Fate still stood at Philip's shoulder, exercising an influence over him that could not be denied. A romantic love story of a most unusual type.

HER WEDDING RING By Marcia Montaigne

When Tom Storms, a young musician, met Rose Ellison, youth called to youth, but there were obstacles. With the proverbial impetuosity of youth, they sought to override these obstacles, instead of trying to find a way around them. A story that will appeal to all who like a fine romance.

HILL-BRED BARTON'S CODE By Charles Wesley Sanders

Billy Barton had a grievance and determined to return injustice, measure for measure. Of course he did not get very far along this road before he discovered that it was a hard one to travel.

Ruth Dempster, a thoroughly good and likable girl, helped to show Billy the proper course for him to pursue.

THE HOUSE OF ROGUES — By Christopher B. Booth

This is the sort of detective story that thrills everybody. In it there is an old house with a secret passageway.

It is really a splendid piece of writing, and so plausible that the interest and glamour of it do not wear off for days after the book has been finished.

THE HUSKS OF LIFE — By Mary Douglas

Jennie Riley was a beauty, make no mistake about that. She was forced to flee from the unpleasant attentions of the foreman of the factory in which she worked. Wandering on the streets, she picked up an envelope addressed to an artist in Greenwich Village. She took it to the address, and then life began for her.

JERRY PEYTON'S NOTCHED INHERITANCE — By David Manning

Just because Jerry Peyton's father had been a bandit, certain people in a Western community proceeded to visit the sins of the father upon the son.

Through an act of grave injustice, it was proved that Jerry was a better man than his father. The telling of the story makes a very human narrative, full of action.

JIM CURRY'S TEST — By David Manning

This is primarily a tale of Western adventure, but in some respects it is the story of a horse. Meg was a splendid, white mare, and she flits in and out of the pages of the story much to the reader's edification.

As a Western story, it fills all requirements. As a horse story, it will delight the lover of animals.

JOHN STANDON OF TEXAS — By Johnston McCulley

As an adventure story, this is unique. Most of its scenes are laid in the wide open spaces of southwestern United States and Mexico.

There is some lively fighting, but through it, John Standon gives a splendid demonstration of American courage and resourcefulness.

THE KIDNAPING SYNDICATE — By Christopher B. Booth

The friendship formed in the prison cell by Pallister, the forger, and "Twisty," the yegg, led to the inception of "The Kidnaping Syndicate." After they were released, the pair embarked on one of the most astounding criminal enterprises ever conceived by warped human minds; but there came the inevitable day of reckoning.

KING CHARLIE'S RIDERS — By David Manning

King Charlie ruled a very unusual kingdom, and his subjects were extraordinary and nondescript.

They certainly were not as good as they might have been, but when they decided to use their ill-gotten gains for a very surprising purpose, they set things in motion, and this story is the result.

THE LOVE BRIDGE — By Mary Imlay Taylor

To Duncan Hart, the engineer, his bridge across the mighty cañon was a dream. He had grown to love it. He wanted his sweetheart, Alice Rankin, to be the first woman to cross it; but another girl, a daughter of the wilderness, risked her life in order to be the first of her sex to go over its span. A love story laid in one of the wildest regions of the West.

THE LUCK OF BLIND GULCH — By Joseph Montague

The letter was written on coarse paper and transgressed all the laws of grammatical correspondence, but it brought visions of untold wealth to Jefferson Briggs, on his run-down Missouri farm. "They's gold all over the Sierra," was the sentence that constantly swam before his eyes and rang in his ears.

A splendid Western story of the days of the California gold rush.

THE MAN FROM MICHIGAN — By Charles Wesley Sanders

Jim Wallace, born and raised in Michigan, hears of a gold mine in California rich beyond the wildest dreams.

There is something particularly appealing about a treasure hunt, and this well-written story grips the reader from the start.

THE MAN WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY — By Victor Thorne

In a fit of jealous anger, John Grant accused his sweetheart, Nancy Leigh, of accepting the attentions of his rival. Too proud to deny the charge, Nancy let him drift away from her.

Then John Grant married a wealthy woman, thinking to console himself for the thing he had lost. An absorbing romance.

MR. CHANG OF SCOTLAND YARD — By A. E. Apple

Of the many striking criminal characters in the pages of detective fiction, few are more fascinating, more enthralling, than the smooth, debonair Chinaman, Mr. Chang. While the reader will shudder at Mr. Chang's deeds, he will be amazed by the quick turns and surprises with which the story is filled, as the Chinese supercriminal matches his wits against the sleuth hounds of the law.

MR. CLACKWORTHY — By Christopher B. Booth

A book full of laughs and surprises, which incidentally furnishes an illuminating revelation of the confidence game as played by an expert con man, and which may prove a means of warning to the unwary who are likely to fall for some of the Mr. Clackworthys of real life.

OBJECT: ADVENTURE — By Ray Courtney

Kent McGregor wanted a job on a Western ranch, so he advertised in the newspapers. "Object: Adventure," his message ran.

As a result, he was hired by one, O. B. Davis; but when he went out to meet his new employer at the Bar Diamond Ranch, O. B. Davis proved to be a very attractive girl. Kent's craving for adventure, however, was more than satisfied by the events that followed.

OTHER FOLKS' MONEY — By W. B. M. Ferguson

When Wayne Carrington found a wallet containing several hundred dollars, it seemed like a godsend. One strange incident after another followed the finding of the wallet, and Carrington soon realized that the possession of other folks' money does not bring peace of mind.

An ingenious adventure story of everyday life—the romance that every man meets, but seldom recognizes.

QUALITY BILL'S GIRL By Charles W. Tyler

"Blue Jean" Billy Race is an unusual character, a girl whose obsession is the memory of an injustice visited upon her father, "Old Quality Bill." Blue Jean is a seagoing bandit and it does not make any difference to her whether she goes on board a boat or swims.

QUICKSANDS By Victor Thorne

The girl, a startling beauty, brought up in poverty, was starved for the luxuries which money and money alone could bring. Her chance came when her seamstress mother died, leaving her five thousand dollars, insurance money, which she immediately determined to spend on a whirlwind campaign for a husband with millions. Eventually she learned what constitutes real happiness, but not before she had clutched vainly at false dreams and illusions. A love story that deals with a vital problem of modern life.

RED MOUNTAIN, LIMITED By Eugene A. Clancy

This is the narrative of the adventures of Eddie Burke, a nimble-witted youth with a sense of humor and a philosophy which taught him to make lots of money and get plenty of fun out of life. When a gentleman from the West came to shoot Eddie's business partner, John J. Rodman, young Mr. Burke saw a chance to gratify his liking for both money and amusement.

RIM O' THE RANGE
By Ethel Smith Dorrance and James French Dorrance

Even though the Arizomex Ranch was regarded as a well-nigh worthless property, scarcely affording sufficient feed for its cattle, it figured in a pretty crafty conspiracy engineered by old H. C. Livermore, president of the Lariat National Bank of Mesquite Wells. Clever intrigue, stirring adventure, and a pleasing romance make this an unusual story of the colorful Mexican border country.

RONICKY DOONE By David Manning

In and around the town of Stillwater, in the mountain-desert country of the West, Ronicky Doone made his living as a gambler. He had something of a reputation, too, as a champion of lost causes. One of his strangest adventures was that which took him east to New York, in company with Bill Gregg, a chance acquaintance of the trail.

ROVIN' REDDEN — By James Roberts

When Joel Landon robbed a bank, he naturally resented Lem Redden's interference, but the latter fixed things so that he himself went to jail in Joel's place.

After matters were explained to Sheriff Blackburn, there didn't seem to be any way of getting Lem out except to let him break jail, and that led to more trouble.

THE SCARLET SCOURGE — By Johnston McCulley

Sergeant Sam Haynes decided that the way to tackle a hard job is to work hard at it. So, when Lorenzo Brayton, investment swindler, was found dead in his office, Sam got to work.

There were dozens of persons who might have killed Brayton, but only one did it, and Haynes discovered him.

A SEASIDE MYSTERY — By Christopher B. Booth

The loss of Mrs. Hendershott's hand bag at the country club was the signal for a train of exciting events which followed so closely together that Jim Bliss, a New York detective, certainly had his hands full.

The most puzzling question that Jim had to answer was: "Who killed Grant Curwood?"

SHADOW HALL — By John Paul Seabrooke

The name fitted the house—a place of mystery, a solid, somber gray building, square and uncompromising, with balconies on each side.

When Rachel Mallory went to Shadow Hall, she did so with a premonition of evil, and it was not long before her nameless dread was turned into reality. A story with a finely sustained atmosphere of uncanny mystery.

SOUTH OF FIFTY-THREE — By Jack Bechdolt

Jonathan Hayes was in many respects a primitive man. He knew little or nothing of the ways of civilization, for he had lived all his life on the bleak shores of Kalvik Island, off the coast of Alaska. When it became known that Hayes held the secret of an immensely valuable cache of sealskins, he became the object of more than one conspiracy. An adventure story with an unusual plot.

THE SPECTACULAR KID — By Robert J. Horton

Heralded by rumor as a killer, "The Spectacular Kid" came to the Smith River country. Every one trembled at his approach.

He was a queer character, however, with an almost effeminate love of silver ornaments, reënforced by a surprising amount of bravery and manliness.

THE SPIDER'S DEN — By Johnston McCulley

"The Spider" was a crook, a master criminal, crippled in body, and hideous in appearance. He recruited most of his gang from the ranks of respectable young men who were temporarily in financial difficulty. John Warwick happened to be one of these, and he had some exciting adventures as a member of The Spider's organization.

SQUATTERS AT DABCHICK LAKE — By Emart Kinsburn

Tom Trentacosta, otherwise "Thirty Ribs," was a thorough tramp and proud of it. Moreover, he was a celebrity of trampdom—a king of the road.

When he threw in his fortunes with "Neckyoke" Talley, and his daughter, Grace, to homestead at Dabchick Lake, it was the beginning of a new life for Thirty Ribs.

$10,000 REWARD — By Christopher B. Booth

When Jim Travis came to Overlook Manor, he found many things which did not please him. Events crowded one another rapidly in the days that followed, and it was not long before they reached their climax in a most peculiar crime.

An ingenious piece of detective fiction, with plenty of dramatic situations to keep the reader's interest aglow down to the final dénouement.

TOUCHING CLOUD

By Ethel Smith Dorrance and James French Dorrance

This story is laid in one of the wildest and most magnificent wilderness regions of the West—the Ute Indian country. Touching Cloud is the son of a Ute chief, and at the outset, he is plunged into grave danger of the law on account of suspicious circumstances in which he is placed. There are many scenes of stirring adventure in this little-known region.

The detective in this story is Thorndyke Flint. He is confronted by the mystery of a dead Japanese curio dealer, and the disappearance of a very rare piece of Chinese bronze of great antiquity.

The case finally resolves itself into the question: Who killed Lin Kitura? Thorndyke Flint answers it to the satisfaction of everybody.

TUMBLEBUG RANCH By Emart Kinsburn

This story reveals a little-known phase of the West—the life of the construction camps that build the railroads across the great stretches of the Southwestern desert regions.

"Prince Pliny" Bates, his father, "Bellowing" Bates, the contractor, Nancy Ransom, and other characters in the story will make a lasting impression on the reader's memory.

UNSEEN ACRES By Harry Golden

The man who shot an inoffensive ranchman, held up a stagecoach, and did other sundry lawless acts, started Jack Smith on a course of vengeance.

The scenes are laid in the strange, rugged Western lava-bed country.

UNWELCOME SETTLERS By James Roberts

Obeying Greeley's injunction, "Go West, young man, go West," Neil Sterret first secures a wife and afterward gives evidence of strength of character that surprises everybody, even himself. His experiences with "Left Hand," a man of mystery, quick on the draw, make a very unusual Western story.

THE WAGON BOSS By Emart Kinsburn

Here we again meet Chet Fanning, whose adventures proved so entertaining in Mr. Kinsburn's other book, "The Boss of Camp Four." Few, if any, other writers know the life of the construction camps of the West better than Emart Kinsburn. This story reveals phases of Western life of which many people have never even heard.

WANDA OF THE WHITE SAGE — By Roy Ulrich

The first surprise was when the girl called at Mrs. Richmond's dingy boarding house and asked to see Dan Chadwick. The second surprise came when she offered Dan a job that carried with it a retaining fee of twenty-five hundred dollars. But the third and greatest surprise came when she announced that one of the conditions of the bargain was that he must marry her. A love story, with a goodly admixture of adventure.

WATCHED OUT — By Eugene A. Clancy

This is a tale in which Wall Street figures. Given some crooked work on the part of some crooked people, the author makes the most of his opportunity, until in the end the reader is perfectly satisfied that John Gore, although he won happiness and fortune, deserved them.

WHERE THE TRAIL DIVIDES — By Roland Ashford Phillips

A Royal Canadian Mounted Police story. Certain disturbances lead Inspector McCloud into the hands of "Blondy" Morgan and his gang.

The adventures which he and his companion, Sergeant Fraser, have are exciting and interesting, to a degree sufficient to satisfy the most exacting demand in that respect.

WHISPERING CANON — By James Roberts

Whispering Cañon is a fascinating spot. This story peoples it with some very likable folks, and some who are not quite so attractive; "Red" Saunders, for instance.

"Uncle Matt" Simms and Rance Rundel are two of the good characters, and their adventures make this story really worth while.

WHO KILLED WILLIAM DREW? — By Harrington Strong

John Walkins Wright felt that his niece deserved a valuable token of his love, so he gave her, as a wedding gift, a diamond collar.

It disappeared mysteriously, and to make matters worse, old William Drew, the butler, the only person, except the thief, who might possibly tell where it went, was found dead.

WHOSE MILLIONS? By Joseph Montague

Wanted: An heir to an English estate worth twenty million dollars. Jim Woolworth, the man delegated to find the missing heir, is beset by all sorts of cranks, and finally by a gang of crooks.

Dorothy Denslow, the heroine, is the girl with whom Jim is in love. She is really worth loving.

THE WIFE OF ASA PINCHEON By Anne O'Hagan

Marjorie McDermot married Asa Pincheon because she had fallen in love with him practically at first sight. Then she proceeded to learn the unfortunate truth that you never know a man until you are married to him.

An absorbing romance of married life—of young love that is sweet and thrilling, and of jealousy and passion, the things of which marital tragedy is made.

THE WIZARD'S SPYGLASS By Emart Kinsburn

Assuming a dead man's identity seemed an excellent way for Kern Lambert to cover his own tracks; but his impersonation of the suicide, Judson Cross, led him into the turmoil of criminal intrigue which Cross had killed himself to avoid.

A detective story in which action, romance, mystery, and adventure are skillfully combined.

THE WOMAN IN MAUVE By Georgette MacMillan

Ronald Franklin was what the world calls a confirmed bachelor. Then, one night, he met the one woman—a dark, slender girl, with the delicate features of a cameo—but she vanished almost as suddenly as she had appeared.

He found her again in a new rôle—as the notorious "Woman in Mauve," and his devotion was severely tested. A charming love story interwoven with a baffling mystery.

THE WOMAN IN 919 By John Paul Seabrooke

At the Winsonia Hotel, where she occupied room 919, she was known as Mrs. Harlowe Green. She had married a weak-minded young scion of wealth, whose family was endeavoring to buy her off. She had other enemies, too, and one night her career of trickery and intrigue was terminated in a tragic manner. Inspector Nash's solution of the complicated problem was a fine piece of detective work.

WILD BILL — By Joseph Montague

A noteworthy contribution to Western literature is this story founded on episodes in the life of the famous scout and pioneer, "Wild Bill" Hickok. The author reveals this great man of the early West as the fine, courageous, thoroughly likable human character that he was.

THE GLACIER GATE — By Frank Lillie Pollock

When Doctor Rupert Lang was summoned on board a yacht lying in Mobile Bay to attend a sick man, he thought he was merely going on an ordinary errand of mercy. As a matter of fact, he was being made the tool of a crew of scoundrels seeking to wrest the secret of the Glacier Gate and its priceless store of emeralds from Morrison, the explorer, whom they had in their power. A splendid tale of adventure on land and sea.

THE AMATEUR DETECTIVES — By Christopher B. Booth

When Tom Cotton was mysteriously murdered, it gave Andy Wicks and his sweetheart, Tess Kennedy, their long-awaited chance to test their ability as detectives. An unusual detective story which shows what a couple of keen-witted young people can accomplish in a line of investigation that is supposed to be the exclusive province of highly trained experts.

MARCIA — By Anne O'Hagan

Disillusionment came to Marcia Bostwick very shortly after her marriage to Doctor Loring Bristow, and it was not long before the inevitable "other woman" began to figure in the proceedings. How she worked out her problems forms the basis of an absorbing romance of married life, with many high lights of drama and tragedy in its pages.

COWGIRLS—PLUS By George Gilbert

When her father died, leaving his ranch to her stepmother, Prima Jensen decided to ride for a job. Prima was a crackajack cowgirl; she could ride herd, brand, break horses, and swing a lariat with the best cow hand. As a result of a newspaper ad, she hired out to Henrietta Bascom, who was inexperienced in the ways of the cow country. How she helped the tenderfoot ranch woman out of her difficulties makes as novel and diverting a tale of the Western cattle country as one can wish to read.

THE INCA'S RANSOM By Gordon MacCreagh

Down through the centuries, ever since the first coming of the white men, the fabled gold mines of the Incas of Peru have been the objective of covetous adventurers. Mamu, the ancient seer of the Incas, protected the gold from the marauding Spaniards; and in modern times, his descendant, also known as Mamu, kept faithful watch over the treasure. A vivid and picturesque adventure story, with its scenes laid in the rugged mountain fastnesses of Peru.

THE CRIMSON BLADE By Madeleine Sharps Buchanan

The job of ticket seller in the New Palace Theater proved a big temptation to young Milton Barnes, but he resisted it successfully until his friend, Maizie Montour, suggested a scheme whereby he could safely annex a good slice of his employer's money. In getting away with his loot, however, Barnes found himself involved in a darker, more gruesome crime. The murder mystery in which he became entangled was a complicated one, and it required exceptional ingenuity to solve it.

THE AWAKENING OF ROMOLA By Anne O'Hagan

Romance had apparently died for Romola Ventnor. She was thirty-two, comfortably married, and devoted to her four children. But Romola was not without attraction for men other than her husband, and in one instance a love affair of dangerous proportions developed. How Romola handled the situation makes a story of unusual romantic tenderness and dramatic appeal.

RONICKY DOONE'S TREASURE — By David Manning

Adventure never stayed long away from Ronicky Doone. He was a born soldier of fortune and champion of lost causes. When, therefore, he saved Hugh Dawn from being killed by a band of outlaws, he started on a new trail that led him on a treasure hunt in company with Dawn and his daughter Geraldine, better known as "Jerry."

FAST MONEY — By Eugene A. Clancy

Jim Coulter and Wall Street did not mix. Before the exchange opened that day, he had been worth three hundred thousand dollars. At four o'clock the same afternoon, his money was gone. Eventually he evened the score with the crooked speculators who had cleaned him out, and the manner of his doing it makes an entertaining and ingenious tale.

THE GREEN BAG — By John Paul Seabrooke

The mysterious murder of Mrs. Sarah Copping, known as the meanest person in Crown Point, aroused little sympathy for the victim, but it gave a lot of trouble to District Attorney Jack Hall and his friend, Luke Osgood, who tried to get at the bottom of the affair. A green bag containing a large quantity of valuable jewelry figured prominently in the investigation.

LENNISTER OF BLUE DOME — By James Roberts

No one had ever heard a first name applied to him. He was just Lennister. There were many wild rumors concerning his past, but he was credited with breaking up rustling bands in Wyoming and had done good work as a "special agent" for various cattlemen's associations in the Mussellshell country. Now he was hired to put an end to the rustling activities of Bolt Blodgett and his gang of rustlers on Blue Dome range, and this proved one of the most perilous adventures of his career.

TWO-GUN GERTA — By C. C. Waddell

A rollicking Western yarn, dealing with the adventures of "Red" Conners, who has been doing cowboy stuff in the movies and decides to take a vacation trip across the Mexican border. He is hired by Miss Gerta O'Beirne, otherwise known as "Two-gun Gerta," to manage her property, the Voreza Ranch. There is a good deal of mystery about the place, and Red has some startling adventures in getting at the bottom of things.

RAINBOW LANDING — By Frank Lillie Pollock

It was a grim chase that led Lockwood to Alabama's pine woods to work in a turpentine camp. But when he found his man he also found some one else who made him desire something better than to kill. There is a relentless grip to this story from beginning to end. Incidentally, it contains a lot of interesting information about Alabama's turpentine industry.

THE PHANTOM ALIBI — By Henry Leverage

The crime was already solved when Sidney Marway, special investigator, was called in on the case. The evidence against Andrew Knight, brother of the murdered man, was overwhelming, and he was under sentence of death when Marway went out to the little Pennsylvania town where the crime was committed. When Marway got to work, however, he uncovered a lot of new evidence and finally placed the guilt where it really belonged. A dramatic mystery story by the author of "Whispering Wires."

MARK TURNS WEST — By Mary Imlay Taylor

When Mark Brent returned to his home in the West after an absence of several years, his chief possession was a pouch of diamonds, which he had acquired in the course of his wanderings. These stones had brought trouble in their wake before, and they continued to exert a sinister influence on Mark's fortunes. A fine tale of adventure in the mountain country of the West.

THE DEFEAT IN THE VICTORY

By George D. Herron

Author of "The Menace of Peace," "Woodrow Wilson and the World's Peace," "Germanism and the American Crusade," "The Revival of Italy," "The Greater War," etc.

"I am reading just now your new book; it is the strongest, purest voice I have heard since the treaty."—Count Sforza, Italian Foreign Minister and member of the Supreme Council.

"It is not a bitter book—Mr. Herron is of too big a nature to be bitter,—but it is a vehement and full-throated threnody. Mr. Herron is the very incarnation of the disillusioned idealist; and the brave words in his last chapter in which he calls mankind anew to the adventure of applying "the practice of Christ" to "the whole economy of man" only reinforce the tragic impression of the book."—Manchester (England) Guardian.

$2.00

The Emerald Isle

By COL. HENRY C. CULVER

Formerly American Consul at Cork, Ireland

"A handsomely bound quarto, lettered in gold and with an inset cover illustration and wide decorated margins, will appeal to many as the loveliest of gift offerings. The pictures which accompany its pretty verses are as unusual as they are interesting, showing typical and atmospheric Irish scenes. Formerly American Consul at Cork, Mr. Culver knows his Ireland well and draws delightful bits of it for Irish enthusiasts in general. There are some sixty illustrations in all and for each an appropriate thought in rhyme."—The Bookseller and Stationer.

$3.00

The Conquering Horseman

By ALTON HOUSE COWLES, M.A.

"The author shows familiarity with a vast range of subjects—from the Higher Criticism to Einstein. It is a book that does not disturb the calm faith of the fundamentalist and yet it has the sweep of vision of the modernist."—Buffalo Commercial.

$2.00

Common Things for Common People

By HOWARD B. BEECHER, A.B.

Author of "The American Citizen," etc.

The author of "Common Things for Common People," Dr. Howard B. Beecher, is a direct descendant from Hannah K. Beecher, the ancestor of Henry Ward Beecher and Dr. Lyman Beecher, who came to Boston about 1630. The author is also a direct descendant of Thomas Sanford, ancestor of one of the most prominent New England families.

"The book shows a rich experience in life rarely equalled, with originality of subject-matter, thought and style that give it a charm all its own."—Illinois Teacher.

$1.75

In the Meadows of Memory

By J. STANLEY DURKEE, A.M., Ph.D., D.D.

Author of "God Translated" and "In the Footsteps of a Friend"

It may take an expert to discover the setting of this story and to find the little village nestling among the hills of old Nova Scotia, where romance and history and pioneer heroism offer richest fields for imaginative investigation. But, if the reader shall discover in Mr. and Mrs. Bebee those fine, old, basic qualities of head and heart which have and ever will be the foundations of life, and may make those characters live in his imagination, then the purpose of the author will have been fulfilled.

$1.50

Italy During the World War

By SENATOR SALVATORE A. COTILLO, LL.B., M.A.

Member New York State Senate, New York Bar Association, Knight Commander of the Crown of Italy, Grand Officer of the Crown of Italy, etc.

Introduction by General A. Diaz

"I have read your book . . . and I congratulate you upon this interesting and illuminating description. I think it will be of great aid in showing clearly the great part which Italy played."—Secretary of State, Chas. E. Hughes.

$2.00

The Human Body and Its Care

By JOHN S. ENGS, D.D.S.

A timely and valuable book is this, from the able pen of Dr. Engs, a compilation of very important facts regarding health, that everyone should know, that even a child can understand.

The book includes charts, from Holden's Anatomy, Brubaker's Physiology, Bundy's Anatomy and Physiology for Nurses, etc., which add greatly to its usefulness for all.

A BRIEF CATALOGUE OF WORTH WHILE BOOKS

Published by
Edward J. Clode
156 Fifth Avenue
New York

1926-1927

THE CLODE DOLLAR BOOKS

Here are shown representative titles of the CLODE DOLLAR BOOKS. For full information regarding these volumes and thirty-five additional titles see the following pages of this catalogue.

The CLODE DOLLAR BOOKS are the greatest value ever offered for one dollar, furnishing concise but comprehensive and authoritative information on subjects which they cover. They range from the serious self-help books to those furnishing hilarious merriment and entertainment—withal always of the highest quality in both contents and make-up.

These books physically are a marvel of value, being bound in handsome cloth and printed on fine paper in large readable type. In size they are five and one-eighth inches wide by seven and one-half inches high. A number of these volumes contain more than four hundred pages.

The CLODE DOLLAR BOOKS are written on subjects which enormously interest, entertain and fascinate everybody. They are just the books people have long wanted on these subjects, now presented in an ideal form.

MRS. MERIVALE

by

PAUL KIMBALL

WINNER OF THE CLODE PRIZE

$2,500.00

SELECTED FROM 6,700 MANUSCRIPTS

by HARRY HANSEN

Literary Editor, New York World

and GRANT OVERTON

Fiction Editor, Colliers

Every woman knows a Mrs. Merivale; has watched her work; has asked, "How does she get away with it."

This novel is the answer—and it's more than skin deep.

NEW FICTION

By

LOUIS TRACY

THE GLEAVE MYSTERY

Young Colquhoun, just back from India, spoke to the man wedged in beside him in a London crowd. Half an hour later he learned from detectives that the stranger was his father's murderer, fresh from prison. The solving of a ten-year-old mystery by the famous Tracy detectives, Furneaux and Winter, and the righting of a great wrong makes an extraordinarily tense and absorbing tale.

HOW TO TRAIN YOUR MIND

By Marvin Dana, M.A., LL.B., Ph.D., etc.

A Concise Practical Book Accomplishing
Marvels In The Science Of Mind Training

The success of a man in this world is in direct ratio as to whether or not he has a trained mind. The person who forges ahead is he who carefully trains his mind so that he can use it to its full power commercially for success, socially and intellectually. It is a vital necessity to every man to have a receptive mind that he can rely upon to work out his problems, that will grasp the essentials of any thought, that he can depend upon for memory and for accuracy.

The remarkable system of mind training set forth in this potentially powerful volume tells in a simple, easily-grasped manner how everyone can have a thoroughly trained and highly developed mind, insuring the success of the student who desires to make of himself a man above the average in brain power, earning capacity, and who wishes to attain a definite successful goal in this life. Cloth, Net $1.25

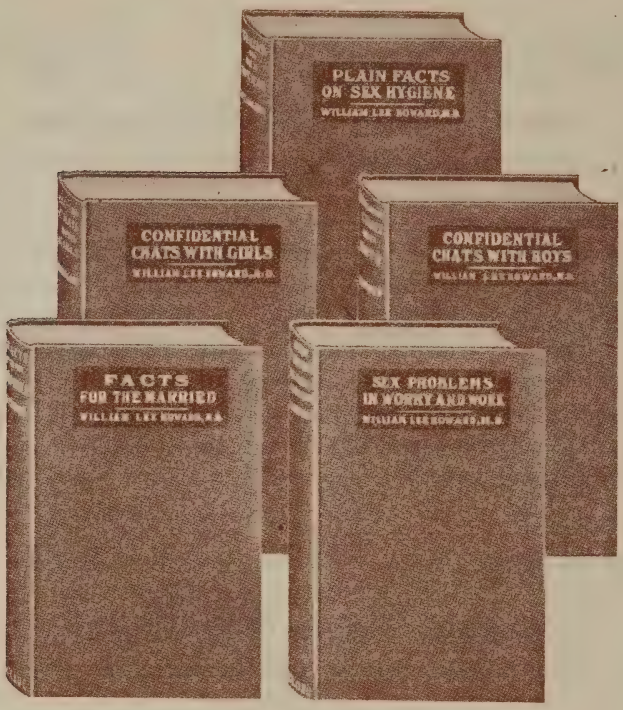
THE FAMOUS HOWARD BOOKS



THE HOWARD BOOKS

Dr. Howard's books are famous the country over and are recognized as the outstanding works on the ever vital subject of sex. They have acquired this esteemed place as a result of their authority, their wholesomeness and their penetrating and inspired statements of frank truth. They are such books as the wise and thinking parents desire to put into the hands of their growing children. They are volumes for all men and women who put a value on happiness and health and wish to have a guide to carry them safely by the greatest and most worrisome problems with which the human race is confronted and which such books as these will render less menacing and tragic.

These volumes, collectively and each alone, find their greatest appeal among those people who, unafraid to throw off the mantle of false modesty, desire to seek out truth which, interpreted in the light of present-day scientific understanding, will bring to them both mental and physical health and contentment throughout their lives.

FACTS FOR THE MARRIED

Every Married Couple And Those Looking Forward To Marriage Should Read This Inspiring Book

Sex knowledge means contentment, happiness, harmony in the married state. Ignorance of sex truths, according to eminent authorities, is the one great cause of marital disaster, divorce, separation. Here is a broad-minded fearless discussion of the intimate problems which every married couple face and will be the salvation for thousands of men and women. Those, too, who are about to enter into the married relation will find this book inspiring and comforting. This vital volume is written in the ingenious form of consultations between man and wife—a method particularly fitted for the intimate character of the subject. Read this searching soul-probing book. It tells who should marry and who should not; how parents may have strong and healthy children; explains pre-natal influences. The chapter on the "Morality of the Child" should be read by every parent. Cloth, Net $1.00

SEX PROBLEMS SOLVED

This Volume Turns a Purifying Beam Upon The Most Worrisome Problems in Life

Many men and women do not reach their destined goal in life, complete happiness in marriage, full physical contentment. The reason is sexual disorders and mismanagement. Sex properly regarded and controlled is a powerful force for good. Sex chaotic and running pell-mell ruins lives, makes people old before their time, destroys happy marriages and stunts success. This very remarkable book is an all-revealing fearless and corrective discussion of sex and the all-important part it plays in your life and mine and in the lives of our wives and children. To sex mis-adjustments, say the eminent authorities, must be blamed the great proportion of tragedy in marriage and mental disorders of the adolescent boy or girl. It is the great duty of every human being to read this astounding book. A few of the chapter headings are: 1. Worry and the primitive forces of nature. 2. The sexual problem of the neurasthenic. 3. Why you worry over unknown fears. 4. Internal sex forces and their effect upon efficiency. 5. How emotions—fear, anger, love, jealousy—cause injury to bodily health. 6. Character and sexuality. Cloth, Net $1.00

PLAIN FACTS ON SEX HYGIENE

The Black Menace That Threatens Our Homes Is Held Up To Frank Scientific Discussion

Here is a book laying bare the appalling devastation of the great social evil that is sapping the manhood and womanhood of the nation. Its control, its stamping out, is the business of every man and woman as it menaces our very homes, our loved ones. Everybody should regard it his or her duty to read the searching book by this noted authority, which tells all in an astounding manner in giving the people of this nation a much-needed knowledge of this subject. This frank and all-telling book will do much toward preventing childless marriages, sub-normal children and will protect perhaps your son, daughter or wife from falling prey to its frightful toll.

A few of the chapter headings are: 1. The Black Plague and its causes. 2. How the innocent may become infected. 3. How to avoid its dangers. 4. Syphilis and its far-reaching effects. 5. Immunity: a false idea. 6. Mental and nervous diseases. 7. Disease in relation to marriage. 8. Parental responsibility. Eugenics. Cloth, Net $1.00

CONFIDENTIAL CHATS WITH GIRLS

Parents Put This Wholesome Volume Into The Hands Of Your Adolescent Daughter

The importance of properly acquainting a girl with the vital mysteries of life cannot be overstressed. Every girl in her innermost consciousness wishes some day to be the mother of healthy normal children and a successful wife. A delicate, yet thoroughly frank, presentation of physical and sex development. A book resulting from Dr. Howard's long years of practice, aiming to help growing girls to understand the changes that lead to womanhood, together with valuable suggestions concerning dress, diet, exercise, etc. "Morally and hygienically among the most important books of the decade." Parents do not fail to give to your daughter this vital book which may mean so much to her in her future happiness.

A few of the chapter headings are: 1. How a girl develops into womanhood. 2. How to care for herself during the change. 3. Disorders of menstruation and general health. 4. How to obtain a clear skin and a good complexion. 5. The nervous girl and the remedy. 6. Some important suggestions about clothes. 7. Keeping attractive. 8. Some sensible "don'ts." Cloth, Net $1.00

CONFIDENTIAL CHATS WITH BOYS

This Is An Invaluable Guide To The Boy To Insure His Growing Into Clean Healthful Manhood

Vision your son as a big, strong, successful man! But he will never reach success and happiness unless you, as a parent start him properly on life's road. Give your boy a copy of Dr. Howard's book—a sensible, simple statement of the inexorable laws of Nature, the penalties that must be paid for their violation and sage advice upon body and mind training. This indespensable volume should be in the hands of every boy to acquaint him with the mysteries of life and to enable him to avoid the terrible pitfalls and to insure his growing into the man to fulfill your ambition for him. Parents, you whose whole life is wrapped up in the success of your boy, give him this book. It has been adopted as standard.

A few of the chapter headings are: 1. The body a machine. How to maintain complete manhood. 2. How to keep the body clean inside and out. Athletics. 3. The laws of life and of mating. 4. Sex toilet. Its importance. 5. Why boys worry needlessly. Beware of the quack doctor. 6. Plain truths about self-abuse. 7. How to tell what you are best fitted to do in life. 8. Importance of associations and habits. Some points about Sex Hygiene. Cloth, Net $1.00

RELIGIOUS

THE BIBLE, ITS ORIGIN AND GROWTH. By Costen J. Harrell, D.D.

Standard Training Course. Net, $1.00

Dr. Harrell traces the history of the growth of the Bible to its final recognition as the inspired Word of God. He has written especially for students in teacher training schools, but has produced a book that will be interesting to anyone interested in the origin and growth of the Bible.

THE BIBLE SCHOOL TEACHER'S HANDBOOK. By J. Brad Craig, Director of Training Work, The United Presbyterian Church.

Net, $1.25

Pupils, consciously or unconsciously, compare or contrast the Bible school teacher with an outstanding teacher in their public school experience. In many instances the teacher in the Bible school, through lack of complete training, fails through such a comparison.

THE BIBLE SCHOOL TEACHER'S HANDBOOK aims to reduce and eliminate error, and provides counsel and advice on the essential problems of Bible school work and teaching.

BIBLE STUDY FOR BIBLE STUDENTS. By J. Brad Craig, Director of Training Work, the United Presbyterian Church.

Net, $1.35

Two attitudes may be assumed in studying the Bible. First, an individual may choose at random any selection, read it and study what someone has said concerning it, and after repeated selections and readings, consider that he is posted on the Bible. Second, he may follow some definitely outlined course, following progressively the progressive revelations of God and considering the Bible such, study its institutions, characters and religious teachings. This book follows the second method, and will be found helpful for elective study in groups and classes.

CURRENT COMMENTS ON TIMELY TOPICS. By Bishop Warren A. Candler, D.D., LL.D.

Net, $1.50

The contents of this volume were published originally as contributions to various newspapers and periodicals, most of them appearing first in The Atlanta Journal, one of the great newspapers of the advancing South.

Through the gracious consent of the newspapers, these timely editorials on contemporary issues are now available in book form, revealing a lifetime of study and experience with the temper of the American people.

The book is unique; the editorials short and pungent, the range of subjects wide.

THE EVOLUTION OF A CHURCHMAN. By Thomas A. Smoot.

Net, $1.00

This is a most unusual title. Winslow, an outline of whose religious evolution is given, is a composite. Like The Wandering Jew, he has been a traveler over the earth since the Crucifixion, and has lived in many unsuspected places. The author has met him in the city, village and countryside; on railway trains and steamships; in business groups and literary circles. Often, he has found him in some cloistered retreat, as student of theology, trying to learn "what it's all about." Always, he has been misunderstood, and frequently condemned by those who should sympathize with him and condone his shortcomings. He is still with us, and his tribe is destined to increase. Shall we invite him into the house, and give him counsel and advice, or, shall we close the door in his face, and let him continue to wander—and wonder?

HANDY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONS—1927. By E. Hightower. Vest-pocket size.

Net, 35c

A vest-pocket edition, $3\frac{3}{16}$ x $5\frac{3}{4}$, of the Group Uniform Lessons for 1927, cloth binding, clear type. Prepared especially for students using the Uniform Lessons, who for any reason find it inconvenient to keep at hand a larger commentary. The lessons for the entire year are treated in this single compact handbook, which is neatly bound and printed in clear, readable type. Contains golden text, Scripture lesson text, references for devotional readings and home readings, and terse but comprehensive notes of the lessons.

A HISTORY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT TIMES. By George M. Gibson, Ph.B., Former President, Central College, Lexington, Mo.

Bible Text Series. Net, $1.00

In writing a HISTORY OF NEW TESTAMENT TIMES, Dr. George M. Gibson has done a distinct service to those who desire a knowledge of New Testament days and have not time to wade through a mass of literature to find what they need. The book is clearly and plainly written and can be easily grasped by any student of the Bible and is admirably suited for the use of those who desire training for leadership. Every Sunday School teacher should study this book carefully that they may have a comprehensive knowledge of the times and circumstances under which the Apostles labored to spread the Gospel. The chapters dealing with the Epistles, while short, are thoroughly good.

HISTORY OF SOUTHERN METHODIST MISSIONS. By James Cannon, III, Professor of Biblical Literature and Missions, Duke University.

Net, $1.50

Primarily a textbook, this book is also adapted to personal reading for anyone wishing to familiarize himself with the salient points of the fruitful missionary history of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

HOME FOLKS. By Clovis G. Chappell, D.D., Author of THE VILLAGE TRAGEDY, SERMONS ON BIBLICAL CHARACTERS, MORE SERMONS ON BIBLICAL CHARACTERS, SERMONS ON NEW TESTAMENT CHARACTERS, SERMONS ON OLD TESTAMENT CHARACTERS.
Net, $1.50

A new book by Dr. Clovis Chappell is always an important event in the religious book world.

Here is a lifetime of experience pictured through a series of most fascinating pulpit deliverances, illustrating and analyzing the forces and elements that enter into the making of perfect happiness in the home. Dr. Chappell delves with unusual insight into the fundamentals of success and the contributing factors entering into the failure of home life.

The subjects of these addresses are: Successful Marriage—Causes of Failure, before Marriage and after—The Mother—The Father—The Baby—The Young Man—The Marriageable Daughter—In-laws—Old Folks.

With characteristic brevity and directness of speech Dr. Chappell upholds the true marriage as a divine institution and not a civil contract of our own making.

LIFE AND EPISTLES OF PAUL. By Rev. H. B. Bardwell. (Spanish.) 16mo. cloth. Net, $1.00

A Spanish translation of the Letters and Epistles of Paul. A study course especially for Cuba and Mexico.

LIFE OF CHRIST. By Wm. Bancroft Hill. (Spanish.)
Net, $1.40

This Spanish translation of the Life of Christ by Wm. Bancroft Hill. A study course especially for Central and South America.

THE MEANING OF METHODISM. By Gilbert T. Rowe, D.D., Litt.D. Editor of the "Methodist Quarterly Review."
Standard Training Course. Net, $1.00

This book is intended to show how Methodism reproduced apostolic Christianity by calling the Church from the blind alleys of Sacramentalism, Institutionalism, and Intellectualism, back to the great highway of Christian experience. It is a sympathetic interpretation of the revival movement which quickened the spiritual life of the whole of Protestantism and resulted in the various branches of the Methodist Church. The author deals candidly with questions of scholarship and science and indicates the relation of Methodism to Roman Catholicism, to the rest of Protestantism, and to the progress of the modern world.

THE MESSAGE OF JESUS. By Harvie Branscomb, Professor in Duke University. Bible Text Series. Net, $1.00

What was the message of Jesus while on earth? What was His attitude toward the different phases of humanity? Did He stress some things more than others? These and many other vital points are satisfactorily and completely answered in this discussion of the ministry of Jesus. Mr. Branscomb has made no effort at scholarly display. Conclusions and deductions are made in such manner that there is no room for doubt as to the unaffected sincerity of the author.

PARODOLOGY—SONGS FOR FUN AND FELLOWSHIP. By E. O. Harbin, Author of PHUNOLOGY. Price to be announced

In this collection of songs, the author has rendered as helpful a service to community, camp, banquet and organization directors and song leaders as in PHUNOLOGY, which is now in its seventeenth large edition. Grouped under Stunt Songs—Organization Songs—Pep Songs—Greeting Songs—Camp Songs—Banquet Songs—Old Songs—Rounds—Spirituals and Favorite Hymns, are hundreds of the most popular parodies, selections and melodies of the century. Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Epworth League, Christian Endeavor and Scout camps, conferences, and banquets will be able to make particular good use of PARODOLOGY.

THE PERSISTENCE OF SPIRITUAL IDEALS IN ENGLISH LETTERS. "The Fondren Lectures, 1926." By Henry Nelson Snyder, L.H.D., LL.D., of Wofford College.

Net, $1.50

Dr. Snyder has departed from the usual form of religious lectures and presents a graphic and thoroughly interesting history and interpretation of the Spiritual Ideals in English Letters. The study illustrates how dominant spiritual ideals have been in the English race from the beginning, and although receiving new interpretations, have not greatly changed through the centuries. This is significant, and one of the main currents that has always been a vital element in what is most characteristic in English Letters.

THE PRACTICE OF THE PRINCIPLES OF JESUS. By William P. King. 12mo. Net, $1.50

"It is difficult for most of us to be prophetic and discriminating at one and the same moment. If we become prophetic we yield to the glory of the vision before us and cease to consider closely the actual obstacles in our path; and if we proceed with intellectual carefulness we are likely to lose sight of the grandeurs of the sky. The author seems to me to have kept his eyes fixed on a noble ideal and at the same time to have maintained touch with the actual and concrete. He has not loosened his grasp on his fundamentals because of the false antitheses which so sadly perplex the untrained thinker."

—Bishop Francis J. McConnell.

PROVIDENCE, PRAYER AND POWER; Studies in the Philosophy, Psychology and Dynamics of Religion. By Wilbur Fisk Tillett, Dean Emeritus of the Theological Faculty and Professor of Christian Doctrine in Vanderbilt University. Octavo.

Net, $3.00

In these illuminating "Studies" this eminent teacher of theology and author of well-known volumes brings together the ripe thoughts of a lifetime concerning two of the most fundamental doctrines of the Christian religion.

Dean Tillett says in his Introduction:—"Divine Providence is, whatever else it may or may not be, God's method of guiding and governing men. Prayer, whatever else it may or may not be, is man's divinely appointed method of governing God. How God governs man, and how man may influence and within limits govern God, are the two truths which in this volume are studied in their relation to each other and in their joint result when the two meet in harmony in the sphere of human life and personality. This result is attested in power, moral and spiritual power, that gets things done."

The emphasis is always and everywhere on the spiritual purpose of Providence and the spiritual function of Prayer.
So clear and simple is the language used by the author that laymen as well as theologians and ministers will find this volume not only intelligible, but in many ways attractive, and deeply interesting to all who desire to understand more perfectly the ways of Providence, the privilege of Prayer, and the paths to spiritual Power.

RELIGIOUS ASPECTS OF EDUCATION. By Rev. J. C. Roper. 12mo. Cloth. Net, $1.50

This is a timely book. The topics the author treats are discussed every day in the religious and secular press of America. Everyone seems to think something must be done, but the author goes further. After careful, diligent investigation in collaboration with committees and shrewd observations of his own, he points the way to wider co-operation between church and secular educational agencies. His concrete conclusions are worthy of immediate attention and application.

RITES AND RITUAL OF EPISCOPAL METHODISM. By Nolan B. Harmon, Jr., M.C. Octavo fabricoid. Net, $7.00

This book is the history, evolution and meaning of the more ancient forms of worship appearing under the head of "Ritual" in the disciplines of the two great branches of Episcopal Methodism in the United States, the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. It traces the changes that have gradually come about with the years, and brings out the deep and reverent spirit that has ever permeated the alternations and revisions that have taken place.
Great care has been taken to keep this history correct in every detail and no more valuable book has been published for Methodists in many years.

A SHORT SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF CHRIST for Students. By Umphrey Lee, A.B., M.A. Author of JESUS THE PIONEER and Other Sermons.
Bible Text Series. Net, $1.00

The author has borne in mind that the purpose of books about the Bible should be to help the student to read the Bible intelligently and with pleasure. The result is a most interesting and analytical study of Christ and His ministry. A series of "Suggestions for Study" appear at the end of each chapter, which will prove helpful to every student. The several periods of Christ's ministry stand out in bold relief.

THE SMALL SUNDAY SCHOOL, ITS PLANS AND WORK. By L. F. Sensabaugh. (Spanish.)
Net, 60c

This is the Spanish translation of the popular original in English.

SPIRITUAL ADVENTURING. By Bertha Condé. Author of THE BUSINESS OF BEING A FRIEND; A WAY TO PEACE, HEALTH AND POWER; THE HUMAN ELEMENT IN THE MAKING OF A CHRISTIAN. Attractively printed and bound, with figured glassine wrapper.
Net, $1.00

Life is full of possible adventures, some merely furnishing thrills, but others leading to fruitful discoveries. The author points out the rich experiences that wait those courageous folks who dare to follow Jesus' plan for life. She follows no outworn philosophy. There are twelve chapters for weekly study in discussion groups or in personal devotions. The first five show the dimensions and character of the spacious spiritual life; the last seven deal with some of the special and practical teachings of Jesus—the use of one's resources, world citizenship, getting, spending, the cost involved in meeting some of the standards of the Christian life, the choice of worthwhile careers.

THE SPIRITUAL LIFE. By Fitzgerald Sale Parker. 12mo., paper. Net, 50c

The greatest danger that faces the Church today is that it will become formal and mechanical in its functioning. The great danger that faces the individual church member is coldness and formality. It breathes the spirit of heartfelt religion.

It is a series of studies in Christian experience, and answers forcefully the question asked so often by young people: "What does it mean to be a Christian?"

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKER, HIS LIFE AND WORK. By L. F. Sensabaugh, Author of THE SMALL SUNDAY SCHOOL, ITS PLANS AND WORK. Board with jacket.

Cokesbury Training Course. Net, 60c

The purpose of this book is to help the great company of men and women who are engaged in the work of the Sunday school to discover themselves as co-laborers with Jesus Christ, to interpret to them the meaning and significance of their task, and to inspire them with a determination to do a better piece of work in their several fields * * * And above all else it is to interpret the efforts of the Sunday-school worker in terms of evangelism, so that he may become, in the best sense of the words, a fruit bearer, a soul winner, a character builder.

TEACHING IN THE SUNDAY SCHOOL. By G. C. White, Dean of the School of Liberal Arts, Emory University.

Standard Training Course. Net, $1.00

In this text book Professor White exhibits his complete grasp of the principles involved in the teaching process. He has cast the most important of these principles into non-technical form, bringing them within the comprehension of that large group of workers who have not had the opportunity to receive technical training in pedagogy. The illustrations are taken from the work of Sunday Schools situated in local communities. Especially valuable are the series of questions at the end of each chapter which bring students face to face with the most common difficulties and practical situations arising in the work of the small Sunday School. This book is to be highly recommended to all teachers desiring to understand more thoroughly the great work in which they are engaged.

	No. 9. The Law and the Prophets. By H. M. Du Bose, D.D... This is a review and an argument against the higher critical theory of the origin of the Mosaic, Levitical and covenant laws after the age of the prophets.	.25	A
	No. 10. The Miraculous Birth of Our Lord. By J. A. Faulkner. This brochure reflects a new and baleful criticism of the fundamental doctrine of the New Testament—the Virgin birth and the atonement, with its related teachings and the bodily resurrection of the crucified.	.25	A
	No. 11. The Crucifixion and the Atonement. By H. M. Du Bose, D.D. ..... Having failed in its efforts to discount the canon of the New Testament, destructive criticism now attacks the Virgin birth of Christ. Bishop Du Bose subjects the Scripture teaching of the atonement to a rigid test in philosophy and experience, and does not find it lacking in Scriptural proof or conviction.	.25	A
	No. 12. The Bodily Resurrection of Christ. By H. M. Du Bose, D.D. ..... The evidence for the bodily resurrection, as set forth in the gospel, is particularly analyzed. All psychic and impressional data of human knowledge is invoked. It is a fitting close to this remarkable series.	.25	A
	Aid and Guide to Family Worship. Collected and arranged by L. D. Palmer..... Consisting of Scripture lessons, songs and prayers. Each service is short, requiring not more than three to five minutes. Nearly 40,000 copies of this book have been sold, attesting its merit and popularity.	.75	A
	Apostles' Creed; A Romance in Religion. By Arthur Talmage Abernethy, D.D. One of the Cokesbury Devotional Series. Ornamental boards with jacket..... The purpose of this book is to bring the spirit of the Creed into the minds and hearts of the people and break away from the cold formalism with which the Creed is said each Sunday. In order to accomplish this the author introduces real characters and gives their reactions to each part of the Creed as it is repeated. It will give the reader a new sense of spiritual realization.	.75	A

	Are We a Christian Nation? By Rev. A. J. Martin. Boards. "A nation is no stronger than its homes." And a Christian home is the nation's greatest asset. The United States is the leading Christian nation of the world in the sense that her social, commercial and moral ideals are mainly Christian. But do we live up to these high standings? This is the theme of Dr. Martin's book.	.75	A
	Asbury, Francis. A biographical study by H. M. Du Bose. The author presents the facts lucidly and in proper order, and the life of the rugged and devout pioneer bishop is clearly unfolded. Its picturesque features stand out strongly; the narrative never drags. It is romantic history.	.75	A

	Beauty of God, The. By G. C. Rector. 117 pages. Love of the beautiful is deeply embedded in the heart of every man and woman. This book is a study of God as the Creator of all things beautiful in nature, man and in Jesus Christ. It will help you to a better understanding of the great world in which you live. William Jennings Bryan writes: "It is a beautiful tribute to beauty as it is found in the Creator and his handiwork—animate and inanimate. It is a refreshing and inspiring little volume which will delight all who enjoy real poetry—viz., the embalming of exalted truths in appropriate language. It quickens thought and supplies graceful words in which to clothe noble conception of God, nature and man."	.75	A
	Bethel Among the Oaks. By M. T. Plyler. Dr. Plyler presents to his readers a series of word pictures that are fascinating from the first to the last paragraph. It is a study of rural sociology given in story form that presents a vivid picture of conditions in the country church districts. There is a little of history and a little of romance interwoven; yet neither preponderates nor in any way detracts from a clear-cut presentation of the value of a life given in the service of the Master.	1.25	A

	*The Bishop of Cottontown. By John Trotwood Moore. (See also Moore, John Trotwood, Works of) Besides being an interesting and enthralling story of love and adventure, this book presents a vivid picture of the South just after the Civil War. The first days of the cotton factory are accurately described, as well as the severe struggles the southern planters had to undergo to get back on their feet after the ravages of war. The chapters abound in characteristic stories of the negroes and their reaction of freedom, and both humor and pathos are combined in the drama that is unfolded. The climax is reached in a thrilling horse race, which is so vividly told that the reader finds himself cheering with the rest for the faithful old bishop and his superb blind horse as the bell rings on the last lap of the race.	1.00	A

		The Call to Christian Stewardship. By Julius Earl Crawford Have you found yourself on stewardship? Or are you wondering in the wilderness of perplexity and indecision? This book will help you solve the problem. It lifts its subject out of the realm of controversy and doubt and places it among the foregone conclusions of Scriptural teachings. When you have read it there will be no haze of misunderstanding left.	1.25	A
		Can It Be False? By J. F. House In Part I the author, a distinguished lawyer and statesman, discusses the life of Christ, and in Parts II and III the lives of his apostles, Peter and Paul. From the phenomena of their lives and their influence upon the world, the authenticity of their claim of a divine mission is successfully argued. "No thoughtful person with skeptical tendencies could read this volume without finding clear light and feeling compelled to accept the truth as it is in Jesus."—Zion's Herald.	.75	A
		Care and Feeding of Southern Babies. By Owen H. Wilson, M.D. "This small volume should prove an excellent guide to mothers, nurses and baby welfare workers in the South. It goes a long way toward combating many popular superstitions, and yet does not attempt to go into all the details and, therefore, accomplish an impossibility. The book is filled with much hard common sense, and carries with it the personality of the author. The book is safe and sane."—The Journal of The American Medical Association.	1.25	A
		Cavaliers of Truth. By Thos. H. Lipscomb. Paper This is a bright, cleverly conceived and readable satire on the views of modernism. In pageant fashion the author presents the battle between the modernists and the fundamentalists over the trustworthiness of revealed truth and stands up stoutly for the orthodox position of the Church. It is an interesting and valuable defense of the historic Christian faith.	.30	A

They are brief and to the point on timely subjects, such as "The Follar," "Small Things," "Friendship," "The Voter in America," "War," "Faith" and others. "Dr. Kilgo always gave the best that he had to his students, and he was a master of short speech. His talks were always heard with eagerness. 	Characteristics of the Christian Life. By C. M. Bishop, D.D., LL.D. Paper. A special course for young people and adults, the purpose of which book is to meet the demand for a course of study for adult Bible classes in applied Christianity. The usual lesson helps, prepared largely for teachers, have been wholly inadequate on this subject. Dr. Bishop has spent his life in the ministry, most of it in the pastorate, the rest as president of a Methodist university, and his wide study and experience amply qualify him for the writing of this work.	.35	A

	Christian Program for the Rural Community, A. The Fondren Lectures for 1923. By Kenyon L. Butterfield, A.M., LL.D., President of the Massachusetts Agricultural College. 12mo.	1.50	A
	These lectures by a high authority in agricultural affairs present a complete program for special study, leadership, and method in presenting the Christian message in rural districts. There is an informing and suggestive discussion of the economic and ethical phases of the problem in their bearing on the common welfare of the community. It is of particular value to ministers in country districts in that it reveals opportunities and indicates definite and effective lines of approach to a successful meeting of difficult conditions.

	Christus Comprobator; or, The Testimony of Christ to the Old Testament. By Bishop C. J. Ellicott. With an introduction by Bishop Warren A. Candler. 191 pages. 12mo.	1.25	A
	Some years ago, when a wave of destructive "Higher Criticism" swept over England, the learned and devout Bishop Ellicott, Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, prepared and delivered seven addresses, his subject being "The Teachings of Our Lord and Master as to the Authority of the Old Testament" and the extent to which he authenticates the divine origin and character of the different books of the Old Testament to which he was pleased to refer. The good effect of these addresses was felt throughout England. The untechnical form in which the lectures are cast makes them especially useful to busy laymen and young preachers who are not prepared or inclined to deal with such a subject in any other form.
	Coke, Life of Thomas. By Warren A. Candler, one of the bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. 304 pages. 12mo.	1.50	A
	Great achievements, whether they be of individuals or the masses, are usually the result of the uncommon devotion of some great man. The establishment of the Methodist Church and the promulgation of its doctrines during the early years centered upon the lives of a few devout leaders, among whom was Thomas Coke. In the propagation of Methodism he was second only to John Wesley, and in some respects he was superior to that great man. Layman or preacher will profit by a close study and application of the life of this illustrious character.

	Harris, The Life of Joel Chandler. By Robert Lemuel Wiggins. With many of his early literary works not heretofore published in book form. 447 pages. 12mo. Joel Chandler Harris, whose "Uncle Remus," "Brer Rabbit" and "Tar Baby" stories have become a permanent contribution to American literature, is perhaps the widest read author that our nation has produced. His ability and talent are evident in all that he wrote as poet, editor, historian, novelist, and short-story writer, but his genius triumphs in his negro folk tales that have carried his name around the world. His life is no less interesting than the tales he wrote, and in this biography are many of the intimate stories of his own life that have made these possible. And, in addition, are included choicest works of this great writer that have not appeared in book form before. After reading a few of these short stories in the old ante-bellum negro dialect, we marvel that they have not been published in permanent form before. In all, a wonderful book.	2.00	A

	Here is a lifetime of experience pictured through a series of most fascinating pulpit deliverances, illustrating and analyzing the forces and elements that enter into the making of perfect happiness in the home. Dr. Chappell delves with unusual insight into the fundamentals of success and the contributing factors entering into the failure of home life. The subjects of these addresses are: Successful Marriage—Causes of Failure, before Marriage and after—The Mother—The Father—The Baby—The Young Man—The Marriageable Daughter—In-laws—Old Folks. With characteristic brevity and directness of speech Dr. Chappell upholds the true marriage as a divine institution and not a civil contract of our own making.

The largest auditoriums of America's greatest cities would not hold the people that came to hear him. From Canada to the Gulf his reputation was known and his services in demand. With humor and ridicule, a sharp offhand wit and droll satire, this fun-loving and fun-provoking Georgian brought thousands to their knees and opened their hearts to the message of Christ, which formed the backbone of his public addresses. The best and most useful of these sayings, with a few complete sermons, have been preserved in this book. It is a wonderful treasure house of sermon material.

	Lambuth, Walter Russell. By W. W. Pinson. 12mo. ..... A close acquaintance with Bishop Lambuth, running through many years of intimate association, qualifies the author for the writing of this book. The story of the pioneer is always a source of interest and inspiration. To follow those who have blazed the trails to new discoveries and have given to the world a knowledge of regions hitherto unknown—who have penetrated to the outskirts of the world and from that vantage ground have beckoned their fellows to high endeavor, is an experience which always enriches the heart and broadens the mind. Such an experience comes to the one who reads this fascinating story of a great life. Bishop Lambuth was endowed with the instincts of the explorer, and during his life he gratified this instinct by his extensive travels in laying the foundations of the kingdom in "regions beyond." To read this book is to get a new vision of the importance of the world evangelism.	1.75	A

	The Meaning of God. By Harris Franklin Rall, Ph.D., D.D. Quillian Lectures—1924. (Emory University.) 12mo.	1.50	A
	The author contends that religion is not a species of bondage and God is not a tyrant, but offers a freedom which the soul of man cannot realize alone. He sets forth the significance of religions by pointing out the meaning of God, and takes his stand frankly with the Christian faith convinced that the meaning of the world and of life has come to men through the God and Father of Jesus, and makes plain what such a faith means for the thought as well as the life of the man of today.

	An excellent portrayal of the magnificence of Methodism as she has marched along the trail of progress from her earliest conception to the present day. Methodism is responding nobly to the Christ's command to go into all nations, preaching, teaching and healing. Her answer to this apostolic imperative is given in this series of articles on the progress of missionary, evangelistic, educational and hospital work of the Church. It is a long, long march, and it must continue. Time removes both leaders and followers; provisions must be replenished. What is your answer to the call? 	Methodist Evangelism. The Sam P. Jones Lectures, 1923. By George R. Stuart. 12mo. 132 pages. The Sam P. Jones Lectureship, founded at Emory University by the widow of the great evangelist, provides for a lecture each year on some phase of evangelistic endeavor. The first half of this book deals with the rise of Methodism as an evangelical Church. The spirit of evangelism, as taught by John Wesley, is still one of the outstanding characteristics of our denomination. The latter half is a practical discourse on the fundamentals of Christian evangelism, particularly Methodist evangelism. The inimitable George Stuart presents these lectures in his characteristic style; lucid and entertaining, providing hours of profitable reading to thoughtful laymen and preachers.	1.25	A

	The Most Dynamic Thing in the World. By A. T. O'Rear. 12mo. Paper covered boards with jacket ..... That there is value in prayer is clearly seen from the fact that men the world over have continued throughout the ages to pray. But certain conditions in recent years have led many to doubt whether the appeal of the human heart to the Divine is really heard. The author writes out of a rich and indubitable experience to encourage people to pray because of ascertained results of both a subjective and objective nature. He shows that the heart is always made better through prayer and that prayer is also a practical means of achievement. He believes that the mightiest act possible to man is prayer. He bases his argument on the practical experiences of people he has known and searches the pages of history and the Bible for instances where prayer has been answered in a remarkable way. To quote him: "Most of us look upon prayer as a pious exercise. What we need to learn is that prayer is a dynamic force, and if we would become proficient in its use we would be the most efficient in service."	1.00	A

	The Practice of the Principles of Jesus. By William P. King. 12mo. "It is difficult for most of us to be prophetic and discriminating at one and the same moment. If we become prophetic we yield to the glory of the vision before us and cease to consider closely the actual obstacles in our path; and if we proceed with intellectual carefulness we are likely to lose sight of the grandeurs of the sky. The author seems to me to have kept his eyes fixed on a noble ideal and at the same time to have maintained touch with the actual and concrete. sermons, has ever before appeared. Methodist preachers and laymen will find it an unexpected blessing, perhaps, to turn back to these sermons on which our fathers fed, on the prayerful study of which they grew spiritually robust. These sermons are by no means out of date. The annotations of Dr. Sugden place them in a more helpful and brighter light. Most heartily and confidently I commend this work to all our people. It does not seem possible that the prayerful study of these sermons in this edition can fail to bring a revival to the soul of the student."—Collins Denny.

Sermons, Lectures, and Addresses of Bishop Alpheus Waters Wilson. Edited and arranged by Bishop Warren A. Candler. 12mo. ..... 1.25 A Bishop Wilson was one of the greatest preachers of his generation. He was extraordinarily gifted in his spiritual insight. His profound and sympathetic understanding of the great doctrines and characters of the Bible, together with his minutely accurate knowledge of the Scriptures in their many versions and of the original tongues, make him an expositor of rare power. The sermons and lectures in this volume were taken stenographically from the spoken word, and there is in them much of the fire of the Bishop's unsurpassed extemporaneous style.

Sermons and Lectures. By William Elbert Munsey, D.D. Edited by Bishop Keener. Two volumes. 12mo. ..... 4.00 per set; 2.00 each A

Dr. Munsey was a wonderful preacher. His career was short but brilliant. He was as a meteor flashing athwart the heavens. He was possessed of a wonderful imagination. He careened through the universe of fancy with a momentum that was positively wonderful, and sometimes even terrific. Wherever he soared he carried his audience with him. New worlds, new beauties, new sublimities sprang into being on all sides.

The Sermon on the Mount. By J. C. Jenkins. One of the Cokesbury Devotional Series. Ornamental boards with jacket. 12mo. ..... .75 A

This book is a plain and scholarly exposition of the greatest recorded sermon. The author divides the Sermon on the Mount into its main divisions and subdivisions, and expounds its meaning in brief and simple words. He illuminates the text with frequent telling illustrations. With the return of emphasis upon the teachings of Jesus, this discussion by Dr. Jenkins is most timely. It will help the reader to understand what Jesus himself taught concerning life, religion, and the Kingdom of God.

Shepherd of Beth, and Other Stories. By Rev. A. D. Porter. Paper-covered boards inlaid and stamped in color. Jacket. .75 A

A collection of stories based on incidents in the New Testament—the first one, from which the volume takes its name, a beautifully told and inspiring little story centering around the birth and life of Jesus. Replete with the mystical atmosphere which has ever clothed such stories, it gives a clear picture of the simple faith that characterized those who kept burning the altars of God throughout the dark period of waiting until the Christ Child was sent to fulfill the ancient promise. It makes an unusually attractive gift book.

	A Short History of the Methodists in the United States of America. By Jessie Lee. Limited edition of 1200 numbered copies. Published August, 1925	3.00	A
	A reproduction of the famous "History of the Methodists" by Jessie Lee, first published in 1810. It is probably the most accurate account of the rise of Methodism in America that has ever been written and has been recognized for many years as an authority. It covers the period from the birth of John Wesley until 1810.

	The Small Sunday School, Its Plan and Work. By L. F. Sensabaugh. 12mo. Paper covered boards with jacket. (Cokesbury Training Course.)	.60	S
	This volume is the first unit of the Cokesbury Training Course. In its preparation the author has been guided by his own experience as superintendent and teacher in the very small Sunday School and as a conference superintendent whose work included several hundred small Sunday Schools. This text has been prepared with the very definite purpose of helping that large number of officers and teachers who are laboring under handicaps, physical and otherwise, that are peculiar to the small church.

	The Snare of the Fowler, and Other Sermons, New and Old. By George R. Stuart. Being a revision of his former book, "Sermons." 12mo.	1.25	A
	George Stuart is an extemporaneous speaker, and these sermons, for the most part, are reproduced from stenographic reports, without alteration. These sermons discuss the vital topics of today:—"Law Enforcement," "The Christian Home," "The Power of a Virtuous Woman," "The World's Bid for a Man," and "Is This a Christian Nation?" are some of the topics that are adequately covered in this series of sermons. George Stuart's striking personality, coupled with his compelling style, puts these sermons among the most forceful and far-reaching deliverances ever presented before an American audience.

BEST REVIVAL SONGS ..... 12.50 per 100 D

138 gospel songs, bound in best grade manila tag; canvas reinforcement on back. Furnished in both round and shaped notes.

The urgent need of a practical revival songbook has long been recognized by the Association of General Evangelists. At their 1923 annual session, a committee, composed of Rev. W. M. McIntosh, Rev. Albert C. Fisher, Rev. A. J. Notestine, Mr. John U. Robinson and Mr. W. G. Waltermire, was appointed and instructed to arrange for the publication of a book to contain approximately 150 of our most popular and useful songs.

"Best Revival Songs" is the result of the work of this committee. The selections were chosen after soliciting suggestions from numerous people experienced in evangelistic work. These songs represent the choice numbers from the best known songbook publishers of the world. A good many of them were obtained at an expense not ordinarily involved in a revival songbook.

Soule, Joshua, Life of. By H. M. Du Bose. 12mo. 285 pages ..... .75 A

"This book, while conforming to all the principal requirements of a true biography, is a most concise and interesting epitome of Methodist history, extending through nearly one hundred years, and embracing those mightiest events which mark the epochs of our wonderful Methodism. The author brings into play an artistic literary touch, a fine historical sense, an accurate knowledge of times and events, and that discriminative appreciation of values which insures proper perspective and proportion."—Christian Advocate.

	*Teaching in the Sunday School. By G. C. White..... In this text book Professor White exhibits his complete grasp of the principles involved in the teaching process. He has cast the most important of these principles into non-technical form, bringing them within the comprehension of that large group of workers who have not had the opportunity to receive technical training in pedagogy. The illustrations are taken from the work of Sunday Schools situated in local communities. Especially valuable are the series of questions at the end of each chapter which bring students face to face with the most common difficulties and practical situations arising in the work of the small Sunday School. This book is to be highly recommended to all teachers desiring to understand more thoroughly the great work in which they are engaged.	1.00	S
	That One Face. By Bishop Herbert Welch. 12mo. Fondren Lectures, 1924..... This book comprises the Fondren Lectures for 1924 delivered before the faculty and students of the summer Theological School of Southern Methodist University. From the standpoint of a Christian Missionary, these lectures are addressed primarily to those with a special interest in Christian propaganda, yet others who read will be impressed with the necessity for acquaintance with the people of other lands, and the supreme duty which is ours as a Christian nation. The subjects are comprehensively handled, and are well developed in their relation to each other.	1.25	A
	Things Fundamental in the Life and Ministry of Jesus. By Charles L. Brooks, D.D. 12mo..... With the conviction of a firm believer and the patience of a careful scholar the author presents the whole New Testament Christ in contrast with the purely human Jesus of the radical critics. He contends that the Christian religion is based upon supernatural events, interpreted by divine inspiration, and that Christianity cannot continue apart from its historic foundation.	1.25	A
	Thomas Neal Ivey. By Marion T. Plyler. 12mo..... The life of Thomas Neal Ivey, author, educator, editor and minister, should be an inspiration to all who are interested in the lives of the heroes of faith who have figured so prominently in the history and progress of the Church. In producing this interesting biography Dr. Plyler has further enriched the literature of the Church and perpetuated the memory of one whose life so abounded with loyalty and love. 	The design of this volume is to rouse the Church to action. Its utterances are like the staccato notes of the priestly trumpet summoning the hosts of Israel to battle. It calls for a revival of Christianity according to the Pentecostal type. Many pastors have found it of inestimable value in revival campaigns.
	Training Juniors in Worship. By Mary Alice Jones. 12mo.	1.00	A
	A practical study in developing and training the devotional life of boys and girls in the Junior Department of the Church School. 	The Trail Drivers of Texas. By George W. Saunders, President of the Old Trail Drivers' Association. Octavo. 1,100 pages. Jacket in full colors	5.00	A
	One of the great source books on the early history of Texas, with the facts and interesting adventures in the establishment of the first cattle market in Kansas, this volume contains over 1,000 pages of the most interesting experiences, written by the men who actually participated in the EARLY DRIVES. Emerson Hough has expressed the high value he places in this work, giving it full credit for the background of "NORTH OF 36." The book is true in detail, and is an accurate recital of the experiences of the real cowboys of the Southwest. There is real necessity for its publication, because there are few, if any, books today which give the real facts about trail drivers and their employees of that early period. It corrects some of the false impressions that are created by some of the literature of the present day.

The wisdom he speaks is the wisdom that the world thirsts for today, and his wit is the ready vehicle that carries it to the threshold of the masses. This book is worthy of a place in every man's library, and for our preachers, particularly the young preachers, it should be a subject for close study and frequent use.

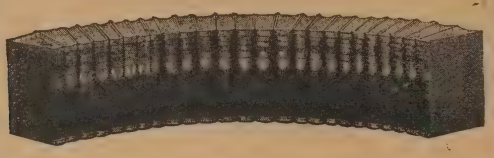
"FAMOUS-AUTHOR" SETS

SIZE OF EACH VOLUME 6×4 in. THIN PAPER EDITION

Handsome Maroon Leather Binding, Gilt Top

$1.25 per vol.



$1.25 per vol.

The Dickens Set in 25 vols.

COLLINS' "FAMOUS AUTHOR" SETS mark a new era in publishing. Two faults have always been found with the average set: (1) the large size; (2) the expensiveness, and these have undoubtedly prevented a wide sale.

THE COLLINS' SETS overcome these difficulties, and the extensive sales are sufficient indication that the Sets have appealed to the popular taste.

EACH VOLUME is tastefully produced—clearly printed, and bound in fine maroon leather, and is a delight to handle and to read.

O. WENDELL HOLMES SET

Born at Cambridge, Mass., in 1809, Oliver Wendell Holmes came of true New England stock. He entered the medical profession and at the age of 38 was appointed Professor of Anatomy at Harvard. The claim of his literary work lies in his consummate mixture of grave and gay, weighty and trifling.

THE PROFESSOR AT THE BREAKFAST TABLE
THE POET AT THE BREAKFAST TABLE

VICTOR HUGO SET

Victor-Marie Hugo (1802-85), was the son of a French military officer. Notre-Dame which made his name, was published in 1831. In 1841 Hugo was elected to the French Academy; soon after he entered the National Assembly, and was proscribed for his ardour.

GEORGE ELIOT SET

Mary Ann Evans, better known as George Eliot (1819-1880) was the youngest child of an estate agent. In Adam Bede, Scenes of Clerical Life, Mill on the Floss, Silas Marner, she allows life to read its own moral; but in Romola, Felix Holt, Middlemarch, and Daniel Deronda she embodies her own philosophy.

MIDDLEMARCH—Vol. II.
DANIEL DERONDA—Vol. I.
DANIEL DERONDA—Vol. II.

LORD LYTTON SET

Edward Lytton Bulwer, afterwards Lord Lytton (1803-73) was a writer and politician. There is epic greatness in his historical romances, while his novels on contemporary life indicate a writer of genius.

THE LAST OF THE BARONS
THE LAST DAYS OF POMPEII
RIENZI
HAROLD
THE CAXTONS
EUGENE ARAM
NIGHT AND MORNING
KENELM CHILLINGLY

CHARLES KINGSLEY SET

Charles Kingsley (1819-75) was a curate. He became Professor of Modern History at Cambridge, 1860-9, and lectured extensively in the United States and England. His Water Babies and The Heroes are excellent books for children, while in Westward Ho! and Hereward the Wake he depicts the glamour and romance of the past.

Taking the Bastille
The Queen's Necklace
The Conspirators
The Regent's Daughter
Memoirs of a Physician (Joseph Balsamo)

MRS. HENRY WOOD SET

Ellen Price (1814-1887) is better known by her married name. She spent many years abroad, and on the death of her husband she devoted herself to writing. Mrs. Wood likes to point a moral, but in doing so she is not stilted or disagreeable.

East Lynne
The Channings
Mrs. Halliburton's Troubles
Danesbury House
Verner's Pride
Lord Oakburn's Daughters
Roland Yorke
A Life's Secret

CHARLES READE SET

Charles Reade (1843-84), youngest son of an Oxfordshire squire, was a lawyer. He was deeply devoted to the study and application of philanthropy, and there can be no gainsaying the sincerity of the human feelings which inspired most of his work.

It is Never Too Late to Mend
The Cloister on the Hearth
Hard Cash
Griffith Gaunt
The Course of True Love
Foul Play

SIR WALTER SCOTT SET

Scott (1771-1831) was an advocate. His novels are powerful in construction, depicting mainly the mediæval ways and customs of the Scots, and are enlivened by a good sense of humour.

Kenilworth
The Talisman
Ivanhoe
Waverley
Heart of Midlothian
Old Mortality
Poetical Works
The Bride of Lammermoor

St. Ronan's Well
Castle Dangerous and the Surgeon's Daughter
Count Robert of Paris
The Betrothed
The Chronicles of the Canongate

THOMAS CARLYLE SET

Carlyle (1795-1881) stands indisputable a master of prose. All his work shows the greatest care in composition, and in his historical subjects, there is detail in analysis and deduction.

Heroes and Hero-Worship
Sartor Resartus
French Revolution—I.
French Revolution—II.
Past and Present

JANE AUSTEN SET

Jane Austen, a country parson's daughter, was born in 1775 and died in 1817. Her writings show great strength of character, that she was a minute observer, and had a keen sense of humour.

Sense and Sensibility
Pride and Prejudice
Emma
Mansfield Park

The elders find wives — RUTH, 1. — for the Benjamites.

is there among all the tribes of Israel that came not up with the congregation unto the LORD? For they had made a great oath concerning him that came not up to the LORD to Mizpeh, saying, He shall surely be put to death.

6 And the children of Israel repented them for Benjamin their brother, and said, There is one tribe cut off from Israel this day.

7 How shall we do for wives for them that remain, seeing we have sworn by the LORD that we will not give them of our daughters to wives?

8 ¶ And they said, What one is there of the tribes of Israel that came not up to Mizpeh to the LORD? And, behold, there came none to the camp from Jabesh-gilead to the assembly.

9 For the people were numbered, and, behold, there were none of the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead there.

10 And the congregation sent thither

16 ¶ Then the elders of the congregation said, How shall we do for wives for them that remain, seeing the women are destroyed out of Benjamin?

17 And they said, There must be an inheritance for them that be escaped of Benjamin, that a tribe be not destroyed out of Israel.

18 Howbeit we may not give them wives of our daughters: for the children of Israel have sworn, saying, Cursed be he that giveth a wife to Benjamin.

19 Then they said, Behold, there is a feast of the LORD in Shiloh yearly in a place which is on the north side of Beth-el, on the east side of the highway that goeth up from Beth-el to Shechem, and on the south of Lebonah.

20 Therefore they commanded the children of Benjamin, saying, Go and lie in wait in the vineyards;

21 And see, and, behold, if the daughters of Shiloh come out to dance in dances,

David complaineth — PSALMS 56—58. — of his enemies.

9 Destroy, O LORD, and divide their tongues: for I have seen violence and strife in the city.

10 Day and night they go about it upon the walls thereof: mischief also and sorrow are in the midst of it.

11 Wickedness is in the midst thereof: deceit and guile depart not from her streets.

12 For it was not an enemy that reproached me; then I could have borne it: neither was it he that hated me that did magnify himself against me; then I would have hid myself from him:

13 But it was thou, a man mine equal, my guide, and mine acquaintance.

14 We took sweet counsel together, and walked unto the house of God in company.

15 Let death seize upon them, and let them go down quick into hell: for wickedness is in their dwellings, and among them.

16 As for me, I will call upon God; and the LORD shall save me.

17 Evening, and morning, and at noon, will I pray, and cry aloud; and he shall hear my voice.

18 He hath delivered my soul in peace enemies turn back: this I know; for God is for me.

19 In God will I praise his word; in the LORD will I praise his word.

11 In God have I put my trust: I will not be afraid what man can do unto me.

12 Thy vows are upon me, O God: I will render praises unto thee.

13 For thou hast delivered my soul from death: wilt not thou deliver my feet from falling, that I may walk before God in the light of the living?

PSALM LVII.

1 David in prayer fleeing unto God complaineth of his dangerous case. 7 He encourageth himself to praise God.

¶ To the chief musician, Al-taschith, Michtam of David, when he fled from Saul in the cave.

BE merciful unto me, O God, be merciful unto me; for my soul trusteth in thee; yea, in the shadow of thy wings will I make my refuge, until these calamities be overpast.

2 I will cry unto God most High; unto God that performeth all things for me.

3 He shall send from heaven, and save

Saul consulteth a 1 SAMUEL, 28. witch at En-dor.

pitched in Shunem: and Saul gathered all Israel together, and they pitched in Gilboa.

5 And when Saul saw the host of the Philistines, he was afraid, and his heart greatly trembled.

6 And when Saul enquired of the LORD, the LORD answered him not, neither by dreams, nor by Urim, nor by prophets.

7 Then said Saul unto his servants, Seek me a woman that hath a familiar spirit, that I may go to her, and enquire of her. And his servants said to him, Behold, there is a woman that hath a familiar spirit at En-dor.

8 And Saul disguised himself, and put on other raiment, and he went, and two men with him, and they came to the woman by night: and he said, I pray thee, divine unto me by the familiar spirit, and bring me him up whom I shall name unto thee.

9 And the woman said unto him, Behold, thou knowest what Saul hath done, how he hath cut off those that have familiar spirits, and the wizards, out of the land: wherefore then layest thou a snare for my life, to cause me to die?

10 And Saul sware to her by the LORD, saying, As the LORD liveth, there shall no punishment happen to thee for this thing.

11 Then said the woman, Whom shall I bring up unto thee? And he said, Bring me up Samuel.

12 And when the woman saw Samuel, she cried with a loud voice: and the woman spake to Saul, saying, Why hast thou deceived me? for thou art Saul.
